Snap Firemen's Strike Cripples U.S. Railways

YOUTHS, many of them en route to high school, attack David Benson, 18, one of a group who earlier had burned their draft cards in front of court house in Boston. Benson, from Morgantown, W.Va., burned his classification notice since he had burned his draft card a few days ago. The man in white coat just behind Benson is John Phillips, 22, of Boston, whose head is down and hidden. Both were treated at hospital. (AP Wirephoto.)

STUDENTS BEAT, STOMP GROUP OF PACIFISTS

BOSTON (UPI)—A jeering crowd of 25 to 30 high school students today beat and stomped a group of pacifists including four who burned draft cards on the steps of a courthouse. One pacifist was hospitalized.

The students who were en route to school charged into 11 pacifists assembled on the steps of South Boston District Court where four of them set their draft cards afire.

The 11 were at court for arraignment on charges stemming from a peace demonstration last Friday outside the Boston army base. The pacifists are members of the New England Committee for Non-Violent Action.

As the four ignited their draft cards, the students moved in with cries of "Yellow," "Coward" and "Chicken." The students, including several girls, tossed punches. At least seven pacifists were knocked to the ground and kicked and pummelled.

No arrests were made.

The pacifists did not fight back. They covered their face with their arms to ward off blows. Some kneeled on the steps or fell limp in the manner of non-violent demonstrators.

Two agents of the FBI and one agent of the army's criminal investigation division were knocked to the ground as they went to the defence of the pacifists.

Daughter of Draft Boss Continues Hunger Strike

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) The daughter of Michigan's selective service chief and five companions, all on a hunger strike, began their second day on a picket line today in protest over the jailing of four young critics of the Viet Nam war.

Meanwhile, the four youths in jail turned away their trays of food.

The picket line, on duty overnight, marched at the home of John A. Hannah, Michigan State University president.

The six pickets—three young men and three girls—showed up at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday.

"We'll stay here until they (the war critics) get out of jail," said Louise Holmes, 20, daughter of Col. Arthur Holmes, the Michigan draft boss.

"I don't like dragging my father into this," said Miss Holmes. "I've stayed clear of telling him what to do and he stays clear of telling me."

Picketer Jane Munn, 22, daughter of MSU athletic director Clarence (Biggie) Munn, said she felt sure her father disapproved but that she expected her parents to "overlook it."

BOTH FATHERS AWAY

Both Munn and Holmes are in Florida.

Dr. Hannah was represented as planning no action on demands of the group that he intervene in the jailed youths' behalf.

"As long as they don't block the sidewalk they can sit there as long as they want to," an aide quoted the university president as saying.

The misses Holmes and Munn and their adherents charged that due process of law was violated in the four jailings.

They said that the Viet Nam war had no part in their feelings. They said they objected to denial of bond to the four while an appeal was pending.

Circuit Court Judge Marvin Salmon handed down jail terms ranging from 10 to 30 days on conviction of the four for trespassing in a demonstration last Oct. 12. The four had passed out leaflets opposing the Viet Nam war at a marine corps exhibit on the MSU campus.

Air France Grounded By Strike of Pilots

PARIS (UPI) — Almost 2,500 Air France pilots and hostesses struck for higher pay today, grounding the airlines' world-wide fleet of planes.

The strike grounded the 94 Air France flights out of Paris scheduled today. Out of 97 scheduled arrivals from abroad, only 14 aircraft landed and they were in the air when the strike started at midnight.

The 48-hour Air France walkout headlined the snowballing wave of labor unrest hitting government-run services this week.

The Air France stoppage provided a bonanza for the 25 foreign airlines operating out of Paris, whose services were not affected.

APARTHEID BACKED

Record Win By Verwoerd

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's white Nationalists won South Africa's general election today and seemed headed for a record victory.

This would be an overwhelming endorsement by the country's white voters for the party's apartheid policy of rigid racial segregation.

With 130 of 166 house of assembly seats accounted for, the Nationalists had 92, United party 37 and the Progressive party one.

Unofficial computer analyses, which in previous elections here have proved accurate, indicated the Nationalists would win a record 124 seats. The highest previous total won by any party was 111, by the now main opposition United party in 1938.

Parliament has been enlarged by 10 seats to 170 including four white members representing the mixed-blood population.

Results of Wednesday's voting showed a swing of about 16 per cent away from the main opposition United party, led by Sir de Villiers Graaff. Observers said this swing confirmed the firm support of white South Africans for Verwoerd's apartheid (racial separation) policy and toughness towards the West.

The United party so far had won 36 seats and the Progressive party one seat.

Only white persons voted Wednesday in the elections for another all - white assembly to serve for five years. Persons of mixed blood (called coloreds) already had voted separately for four white persons to represent them.

OUTNUMBER THE WHITES

There are about 2,000,000 coloreds out of the total non-white population of 14,138,000. The whites number 3,335,000, and about 1,700,000 were eligible to vote.

In the old Parliament, which had only 160 seats, the Nationalists held 106 seats, the United party 49, the Progressives one and four whites represented the coloreds.

Verwoerd, 65, was returned at Heidelberg in the Transvaal with a 5,516-vote majority. He was unopposed in the 1961 election.

De Villiers Graaff got back in Rondebusch, near Cape Town, with a margin of 6,238 votes.

Mrs. Helen Suzman, sole torchbearer in Parliament of the multi - racial Progressive party, kept her seat in the Johannesburg district of Houghton with a slightly increased majority—711 votes compared with 564 in 1961.

LBJ Appeals For Halt In Spending

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today appealed to all Americans to fight inflation by immediately cutting unnecessary spending to the bone.

The president issued an appeal to citizens—from leaders of business and labor to housewives and workers—to help halt the mushrooming trend in the economy.

Johnson said he had not decided that such steps as a tax increase were yet necessary. He said there was no need for such measures as long as voluntary restraints could keep the economy in check.

Wilson Victory A Cinch

LONDON (UPI)—The British Broadcasting Corporation's electronic computer predicted a Laborite victory by a margin of 120 parliamentary seats on the basis of the first results in the general election today.

LONDON (UPI) — Britons crowded into polling places today to choose a new 630-member parliament. Bookmakers gave 66-to-1 odds Prime Minister Harold Wilson's labor government would be returned to power with a sweeping mandate.

The weather was cool but dry, favoring a good turnout among the 35.9 million eligible voters. It was expected to at least equal the 77 per cent total of eligible voters who gave Wilson's party a slim majority in October of 1964.

This time, Wilson was expected to emerge with the greatest majority — possibly 200 seats — since Sir Winston Churchill was swept out of office following the Second World War. The Laborites then were led by Clement Attlee.

Among the first to vote was Conservative Leader Edward Heath, whose polling place is in Central London. Wilson was in his constituency at the Liverpool suburb of Huyton and Liberal party leader Jo Gromond was voting at Finstown in the far north of Scotland.

ODDS SHIFTED

As voting began at 7 a.m. the big London bookmaking firm of Ladbrokes shifted its odds to 66-to-1 on a Labor victory.

The polls closed at 9 p.m. (noon PST).

Throughout the country there was an early morning flurry of party rosettes and streamers and last-minute passing out of party literature.

Spaceship To Orbit Around Moon

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia has launched a new unmanned spaceship in an attempt to put the first satellite into orbit around the moon.

The blast off of Luna 10 came almost two months after history's first successful landing on the moon's surface.

The official news agency Tass, which announced the Luna 10, launching at 1:47 p.m. Moscow time (3:47 p.m. PST) said:

"The main purpose of the station is to test a system ensuring the setting up of an artificial moon satellite."

The indirect language, similar to that employed during the soft landing attempts, was attributed to the Soviet practice of building a "hedge" into their space announcements in case of failure.

Pilot's Body Near Wreck

ST. LUCIE, Que. (UPI)—Searchers today found the body of an RCAF test pilot beside his downed Tutor jet trainer.

Air force officials from Trenton, Ont., said the position of Flt. Lieut. L. J. (Jack) Lumsdaine's body indicated he had attempted to eject from his CL-41 trainer moments before it crashed in a wooded area near here, 80 miles north of Montreal.

Judge Orders Return to Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge ordered today a halt to strikes and picketing against eight U.S. railways by the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

U.S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff granted the order at the request of railway lawyers.

By UP International

Locomotive firemen climaxed a seven-year battle with U.S. railroads and the federal courts today to save some 30,000 firemen's jobs by striking eight major railroads.

A railroad spokesman said the walkout "will have a serious adverse effect on the national defence." General Motors in Detroit said the strike would force it to begin closing assembly plants "within a day or two."

Passenger service, freight haulings and mail service were affected from coast to coast. The strike paralyzed commuter operations in Chicago and Boston, forcing 45,000 commuters in those cities to seek other means of getting to work.

Barred by federal court order from striking directly over the eliminated jobs, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen called 8,000 firemen on strike without warning at 12:01 a.m. EST, on grounds the railroads refused to negotiate on a program for training apprentice firemen.

There are no apprentice firemen coming into the industry. There have been none for the past two years.

The strike came as a "complete surprise," Asst. U.S. Labor Secretary James J. Reynolds said in Washington. It also caught other railroad unions off guard, although members of other unions were honoring the firemen's picket lines.

Action Denounced by Engineers

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers blasted the firemen's walkout as "an illegal strike" and in violation of the Railway Labor Act.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the 78,000-member BLFE, said at a news conference at the union's headquarters in Cleveland the railroads' failure to discuss an apprentice training program was "just another typical delaying tactic . . . and we can tolerate it just so long."

He said "federal mediation has had its chance since early in January and yet nothing has been done about this issue."

Gilbert said he had been summoned to Washington to meet with President Johnson.

Earlier Gilbert had indicated he would call an end to the strike if asked by President Johnson to do so.

The strike affected rail service over more than 42,800 miles of track in 38 states from Maine to California and from the northern plains to the deep south.

The eight struck railroads were the Pennsylvania, west of Harrisburg, Pa., and the entire systems of the Boston and Maine, Illinois Central, Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Grand Trunk Western, Central of Georgia, and Seaboard Airline.

By the end of the day about 164,000 union employees of the eight roads were expected to be idled. All other unions were expected to honor the firemen's picket lines, as has been the case in past railroad strikes.

A spokesman for the Missouri-Pacific said the strike would halt the "heavy volume of military freight which has been moving in great volume in recent weeks . . . it is impossible to separate the military from the other freight included in the freight trains."

Canada Gives Own Economic Guidelines

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is asking Canadian subsidiaries of foreign firms to handle pricing, procurement, earnings disposal, resource development and related matters with the interests of Canada in mind, Trade Minister Winters announced today.

Mr. Winters told the Commons these economic guidelines are contained in a letter he is sending to the heads of the Canadian subsidiaries. He tabled the letter in the Commons.

The aim, he said, is to "help subsidiaries of foreign companies conduct their affairs as good corporate citizens of Canada."

The move was seen as a reaction to U.S. economic guideline aimed partly at curbing investment by the foreign subsidiaries of U.S. firms.

Mr. Winters said the economic principles emphasize "the need for subsidiary companies to strive for maximum realization of their potential and for full participation in, and identification with, the life of the Canadian community."

The underlying objective sought was equally applicable to Canadian companies.

EMPHASIZES GROWTH

A key recommendation was for the retention by the subsidiary "of a sufficient share of earnings to give appropriate financial support to the growth requirements of the Canadian operation, having in mind a fair return to shareholders on capital invested."

Subsidiaries should also strive to allow opportunity for financial participation by the Canadian public in ownership.

LICENCE SEIZURE IMPROPER SAYS LAWYER

VANCOUVER (CP)—The chairman of the civil liberties committee of the B.C. Bar Association says the proposed legislation permitting police the right to seize licences of suspected drinking drivers is improper.

W. J. Wallace said here Wednesday only a court of competent jurisdiction should be able to take away the right to drive.

Mr. Wallace said his committee will submit a recommendation to this effect to the bar association's annual meeting in June.

It will be conducted by Rev. Douglas Kendell, an ex-member of the regiment and a member of the association.

Medals will be worn and permission has been granted by the Chief of Staff, B.C. Area Headquarters, for the wearing of the Black Watch uniform No. 1 if desired.

"We hope all members of the Black Watch Association will make a real effort to attend," says R. E. Henley, secretary-treasurer, "and their families are also welcome."

The service will include the laying of a wreath, a two-minutes silence in memory of fallen comrades and the sounding of The Lament by a Black Watch piper.

A number of DVA Hospital patients will take part.

U.K. ELECTION NOTES

London Businessman Won't Believe Polls

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—One London businessman who has no faith in opinion polls dashed into a bookmaker's shop Wednesday to bet £250 ($750) that Conservative Leader Edward Heath would win the general election with a 53-seat margin. If he wins, he'll collect £250,000 ($750,000).

As most of the bets continued to roll in on Labor, bookmakers pushed odds on Prime Minister Wilson to 1 to 66. You had to stake £66 to get £1 ($3) on a Labor victory.

The Queen will be in Buckingham Palace Friday — just in case another "kiss hands" ceremony is necessary. In this ancient act of homage, the Queen extends her right hand which is grasped by the new prime minister and kissed. Since Wilson has already "kissed hands" after his 1964 eection victory, this will only be necessary if Heath or Liberal Leader Jo Grimond should win.

Short-short skirts were an election issue in Dorking, Surrey. Tory member Sir George Sinclair belabored the railways because one of their platforms is so low girls with these shortie skirts have to raise their legs nine inches to board a train. Sir George says he's keeping a close eye on the situation.

Nightworker Ian Warren of Selborne, Hampshire, supports Labor, but not when the party disturbs his day sleep. When a Labor loudspeaker truck pulled up in front of his house, he fired a blast from a double - barrelled shotgun high over the truck. The campaigner roared off in hasty retreat.

And at Eastergate, Sussex, a notice that hangs by a doorbell reads: "All political canvassers will be shot." Mrs. Heather Johnson says the notice had the desired effect.

"Perfect angle . . . Aimed at Washington to fall on Moscow . . ."

Rent Controls To Aid Elderly Not In Cards

Victoria's health committee decided this morning that recommended legislation to force the builders of apartments to set aside suites for the elderly was none of its business.

A letter from Mrs. Evelyn Mackenzie suggested that the city place a clause in its building regulations compelling apartment builders to set aside low-rental suites for senior citizens in each apartment building erected.

Mrs. Mackenzie further suggested that when a high-rise apartment was built the owners should be forced to set aside one complete floor for senior citizens.

"This is a matter of private concern," said Mayor A. W. Toone. "We can't legislate this sort of thing."

Cyclist Hurt In Collision With Car

An 11-year-old cyclist received minor head injuries Wednesday afternoon in a traffic mishap at Parker and Fenn Streets.

Injured was Russell Garth Lloyd, of 5391 Fowler. He was later treated and released from hospital.

Police said he was in collision with a car driven by Mrs. Florence E. Mutrie, 960 Doumac.

Malta Gov't Returned

Spending Authority Ends Tonight

The provincial government runs out of its current spending authority at midnight tonight.

The deadline faces the legislature with two possibilities—complete the estimates or pass an interim supply motion.

The B.C. government has not had to ask for interim supply since the 1953 fiscal year was broken up by a run-off election.

Interim supply would authorize the government to meet its bills, including civil service salaries, falling due from April 1, the start of the new fiscal year, if the 1966-67 budget estimates are not fully approved in time.

The MLAs ran through two departmental estimates—Mines and Municipal Affairs totalling more than $7.2 million—in about five hours Wednesday.

But they bogged down on Provincial Secretary Wesley Black's estimates and, after 2½ hours, it was withdrawn shortly after midnight this morning by house leader Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

"I would invite the house to finish the estimates before midnight (tonight), if that were possible, to avoid any unnecessary legislation," said Mr. Bonner.

"You want the whole thing wound up tomorrow night, is that what you are saying?" asked Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

Mr. Bonner did not answer, but several opposition members were heard asking "what about private members' day?"

They were referring to 21 bills and 32 resolutions put on the order paper by opposition members. All have to be disposed of before prorogation.

Besides finishing the provincial secretary's estimates, the legislature still had the usually controversial social welfare budget and public works estimates facing it at the start of today's sitting.

Youth Admits Wrestling With Police

A 19-year-old youth who vigorously protested his friend's arrest pleaded guilty in central court today to obstructing a police officer.

Denis Wayne Bonville, Hudson Bay, Sask., was remanded in custody to April 7 for sentence.

His companion, meanwhile, forfeited $15 bail on an intoxication charge.

Const. Terry Toone testified he checked the two men Wednesday night at Douglas and Yates.

When he arrested the other youth for intoxication, Bonville grabbed him around the neck and pulled him to the sidewalk, the constable said.

Const. Toone added Bonville tried to break away by pushing a lighted cigarette in his face while he was waiting for assistance.

Closer Ties With India?

Exceptionally Warm Welcome For Mrs. Gandhi Hints at Change

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The exceptionally warm welcome given here to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi seems to have launched an era of better relations between India and the United States.

President Johnson broke protocol once to overstay his formal visit by three hours and dine, and Mrs. Gandhi said the president "goes right to the point without a lot of chitchat, and I like that."

Johnson, asking Congress Wednesday for another huge program of food and other aid to avert Indian famine, took pains to avoid jarring India's sensitivity about its plight.

Mrs. Gandhi went farther than any other Indian leader in expressing sympathy for the American position in Viet Nam.

DROP IN BUCKET

Yet, with India's 485,000,000 people facing their gravest economic crisis since independence 18 years ago, the aid just announced or planned in the near future from various sources appears to be only one drop in a big bucket over the next 10 years.

It will involve farming, industry, birth control and technical education.

In food grains alone, Johnson has asked congressional approval for another 3,500,000 tons this calendar year, or a total of 8,600,000 tons.

India likely needs 12,000,000 tons, he said, calling on other nations to provide the remaining 3,500,000. He said he was "delighted to be informed Canada is prepared to provide 1,000,000 tons of wheat anf flour to India."

Even if India's drought eases — and Johnson called it the worst agricultural disaster since North America's "dirty '30s" — ways have to be found to a vast expansion of that country's farm output.

All outside aid for India since 1951 has been estimated at $10,000,000,000. As much as $7,500,000,000 may be needed in the next five years, some observers say. That does not include the possibility of cancelling outstanding Indian debts.

THOUGHTS OF CHINA

Mrs. Gandhi's two discussions with Johnson were private, but clearly underlined just what stake India thinks the United States and much of the rest of the world have in providing assistance to it. What makes this stake especially large is the existence of China.

Said Mrs. Gandhi in her one public speech here:

"China's ideology cannot push outwards if its neighbors and other nations possess strong, independent, nationalist governments. They must also see a viable alternative to China. India can be that alternative, an alternative model for economic and social change, a democratic socialist model."

India's claim for help now is valid on humanitarian grounds alone. But the existence of China as a strategic presence helps explain why the United States apparently can stomach now an undiluted reference to "democratic socialism" or accept without argument Mrs. Gandhi's thesis that "India is as important to the U.S. as the U.S. is to India — let us both recognize this cardinal truth."

CHUVALO SEES THINGS

TORONTO (UPI) — Heavyweight George Chuvalo Wednesday joined the swelling ranks claiming to have spotted unidentified flying objects in the sky.

Chuvalo saw the unexplainable objects just one night after being soundly trounced by world heavyweight champion Cassius Clay.

The boxer's wife Lynne saw three objects which she described as "unlike any commercial aircraft I've ever seen." Chuvalo, a cousin and a friend saw just one of the objects—the other two veered ayay before Lynne called their attention to them.

The Chuvalo's were not alone. Hundreds of other people reported seeing unidentified flying objects. Colors ranged from a glowing white to red, green and blue or a combination of colors.

The Parking Lot

THE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE considering the establishment of a mining townsite within Strathcona Park—the mine itself is already conceded — has come up with some nice recommendations for the future. It would like to see Forbidden Plateau added to the parklands of the province. It wants the company to be careful about polluting Buttle Lake with its mine operation. It wants the pollution control board to keep an eye on things. And it hopes that what it has decided will not, of course, be considered as a precedent for similar decisions in the future.

And what did it decide? It decided to recommend that the mining company be allowed to build its town within Strathcona Park.

This decision is a shabby betrayal of the whole parks concept. To pretend that it will not be held up as a precedent by the next applicant for industrial exploitation within a park is poppycock.

To worry about safeguards against pollution and to insist that the townsite must be removed some day when the mine is abandoned—these are just decorative gestures to try to obscure the fact that one of the finest natural wonderlands in the province has been thrown open to industrial development. It's like insisting that only a doctor of the highest qualifications shall be called to attend a rape case. It does nothing to stop the crime.

It is now up to the legislature to deal with the committee's report.

The government can claim, of course, that it is only a Class B park that is being commercialized. It can claim this because it had already reduced the area from Class A to B for this purpose. Under existing legislation, any park boundary can be re-drawn for any reason, any park can be eliminated almost overnight, any park or a part of it can be re-classified to remove its protective category.

All this adds up to what the provincial government calls a parks policy. But our parks are not sanctuaries. They're sitting ducks.

Focus on the Indian

INTEREST WAS FOCUSSED from three directions on the British Columbia Indian this week and two major issues were sharply definite — educational opportunity and status.

George Clutesi, discussing some of his display pieces at the University of Victoria, noted that while he was making a serious effort to combine something of truly Indian character with modernism in his art, the department of education regards him solely as a handy-man painter in its school system at Alberni. White people teach the Indian children art, he touches up the schools that need a lick of paint.

The talented Indian's remarks came at approximately the same time that Mr. John Andrews, administrator of Alberni Indian students' residence, was commenting on the difficulty of persuading Indians to seek higher education. They lack enthusiasm, in many instances, because they have found that those who complete Grade 12 have a great deal of difficulty in finding jobs.

"There is," says Mr. Andrews, "no doubt that the Indian measures up intelligently just as well as his white counterparts. Unfortunately he has been tarred with a brush as someone who cannot sustain and keep up a job for a long time."

The position of B.C. Indians was also indicated in the report of the B.C. Advisory Committee and the director of the Indian Advisory Act, Mr. R. J. McInnes.

He presents an encouraging report on increased integration in public schools—half of all Indian school-age children now attend them—and he calls for a change in the racial attitude of both Indians and white people in this part of the world.

A recognized artist is told that he "doesn't rate." School trustees are told by the administrator of an Indian residence that Indians with Grade 12 or better educations find difficulty in locating adequate jobs, and the director of the Indian Advisory Act calls for a change of outlook not only by white people towards Indians but by Indians towards white people. These are disturbing remarks.

We have a long way to go to achieve equality of opportunity. There is, however, some movement toward that end, though it may be revealed merely in the recognition of the need to progress. Apathy at least is diminishing.

Costs and Smaller Classes

THE GREATER VICTORIA Teachers' Association argues in favor of smaller classes—a reduced pupil-teacher ratio—in this community and the argument from a teaching point of view is generally sound.

The district, according to the association, is using 15 fewer teachers than it is entitled to on the government approved basis. But, says the association, in Victoria elementary schools during 1964-65, the ratio was 35.7 pupils per teacher, compared with the classes of 30 pupils which the association would like to see established.

Assuming there is a sufficient number of competent teachers to meet all needs, it is difficult to argue against a reduction to the 30-to-1 ratio, except on grounds of cost.

On a rough mathematical basis, this would require six teachers to handle classes now conducted by five. The teaching costs would, on this figuring, run to about 20 per cent more than is now being paid.

The advantages of the small class under a suitable teacher are widely recognized. Now if the teachers can suggest a means whereby the financing can be accomplished without pain to the taxpayers, the reduction of classes should follow quickly.

As the situation exists here, however, one important question remains unanswered: If the supply of excellent teachers is limited—and the existence of low certification is admitted—does the student not have a better chance for a good education in a relatively large class under a capable teacher than he does in a smaller class under a less qualified one?

Worth Encouraging

THE PROVINCIAL 4-H Advisory Council is impressed by the fact that many of the young members of the clubs within its jurisdiction lack a knowledge of the various parts of their province.

Very reasonably, the council feels that these young people could be encouraged in their activities and made better all-round citizens if they had the opportunity to visit similar groups in other parts of British Columbia.

The council hopes to work out a program that will enable club members to exchange visits.

This is a large province. Too many of its residents have had little opportunity to see more than a fraction of it — and consequently may have only a limited appreciation not only of its many attractions, but also of the conditions under which other citizens live.

If the 4-H group can facilitate travel among like-minded young people to different areas, the educational value of such visiting would be exceptional—and perhaps merited by none more honestly than by the young people who, through their 4-H associations, show so deep a concern for the land and what flourishes on it.

". . . To put it in layman's language . . . ease off on buying shovels, lawn mowers, rakes, wheelbarrows, fertilizer, summer dresses, new drapes . . . and take up low-expenditure occupations like fishing, hunting, golf . . ."

To Control a Boom to Avoid a Bust

BASIC to Mr. Sharp's boom control budget is a frank recognition that "we Canadians are trying to take on more than we can handle." Paced prosperity is the minister's alternative to "the kind of boom that will lead to a bust." It is sometimes objected that there can be no case for restrictive measures while pools of unemployment and unused resources are still to be found in various parts of the country. Mr. Sharp agrees that there is a margin between our present performance and our potential.

Western

But there is no margin between our present performance and our present capacity. The distinction is vital. We could do better if we had a more highly skilled labor force, better industrial organization, higher mobility and so on. But we can achieve these only over time. Lacking them, we face an inflationary surge that is real and urgent.

Price Surge

What is feasible, with our present and prospective resources for 1966-67, is an expansion of about 5 per cent in the volume of output. Mr. Sharp was faced, however, with a probable increase of 9 per cent in GNP with four points attributable not to volume but to the price surge. This would also mean a substantial worsening in the balance of payments deficit.

In his efforts to regain control of this situation, Mr. Sharp has initiated action on a number of fronts. To begin with, he has restored about two-thirds of Mr. Gordon's ill-considered income tax cuts of 1965. There are some wispy concessions to persons in the lowest brackets but for most taxpayers, it is pretty much a case of as you were in 1964.

Secondly, the government has deferred another group of construction expenditures, with a total value of $34.8 millions. At the same time, it has promised to forego new spending programs except in emergencies and has appealed to the provinces to exercise similar restraint, notably in regard to highway programs.

Forced Loan

A third major measure is the refundable tax on cash profits; in effect a 5 per cent forced loan applied to corporations. This is not a revenue measure and the sum realized—about $250 millions in a full year—will not appear as a budget item. Mr. Sharp hopes, by this device, to divert, probably for 18 months, a portion of the flow of business funds into capital expenditures.

Two other changes are intended to check inflationary pressure by inducing postponements of the capital programs which are bidding up costs. One of them throws into reverse Mr. Gordon's expansionary engine of capital cost allowances. Instead of increasing them to accelerate investment, Mr. Sharp has decreased them selectively. The new restrictions will not apply to heavy construction equipment or to equipment required in long term utility projects but they will bear on such assets as building and machinery.

In the same fashion, and with the further purpose of stimulating higher productivity, Mr. Sharp has partially reversed his predecessor's highly controversial sales tax policy. Here again a distinction has been made between production machinery, which is to be relieved of the tax by stages, and building materials, which could scarcely be cheapened without stimulating an already excessive demand. By staging the reductions, Mr. Sharp is dangling a carrot before business; the longer it waits, the cheaper the final investment.

There are other less important changes with the same general intent. Some special inducements to early construction are being allowed to lapse; conversely the deadlines in designated areas are being set back in order to relieve the competitive pressure for scarce materials.

Mr. Sharp's economic case for anti-inflationary action seems unassailable. Is the action adequate for the purposes so clearly indicated? Mr. Walter Gordon plainly under-estimated the strength of the economic upward surge and in the end lost control of it. What is the measure of the present budget?

Unimpressive

The magnitude of the tax changes is scarcely impressive: about $80 millions in total. Furthermore, even with the construction postponements and the government's self-denying ordinance in respect to future programs, expenditures will be up 10 per cent in a single year. The budgetary deficit is some $150 millions although, on a national economic accounts basis—taking in non-budgetary transactions affecting the incomes of individuals and businesses and specifically the refundable tax—there is a healthy prospective surplus of $615 millions.

Taking all these changes together, however, the prospect is still for an increase of 8½ per cent in GNP with 3½ points attributable to price increases. This is not a budget to stop inflation; it is a budget to control inflation. Mr. Gordon's colt has become a bronco too wild and too strong to tame without an extended struggle; Mr. Sharp's best hope is that he can ride him without being thrown.

None Too Favorable

From the standpoint of our economic objectives for 1970, developments are none too favorable. There was a sag last year in our man-hour productivity increase and inflation is not favorable to an improvement; what it does is to call into play less efficient resources; the semi-skilled, for example, in place of the skilled. Furthermore a two-year price increase of 7 per cent is far beyond the limits considered permissible by the Economic Council of Canada.

This situation is not of Mr. Sharp's making. He has taken the courageous course by introducing a budget which cannot be popular. He has carefully delineated the problem facing us in 1966-67. By his program of restraints he is attempting to discipline the boom; to transform it from a dangerous threat into paced and sustainable prosperity.

Is it in fact manageable by these relatively modest measures? Can it be brought gradually under control without hurt to anyone? These are the unanswered questions. If Mr. Sharp succeeds, he will be the first finance minister in our history to do so without such external assistance as the Korean War.

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Uneasy Peace With China

THE Peking government has lost no time in making it known that Chinese-American relations will continue to be irreconcilably hostile. Recently there have been some indications in Washington of a disposition to soften the quarrel. They have appeared not only in the Senate hearings but also from within the administration itself. Peking will have none of it. It has chosen to keep the quarrel as sharp as possible—just short of war. For Peking wants nothing to be done which would relieve this country of the onus of being solely responsible for the exclusion of one quarter of the human race from the world community.

Lippmann

Though I have no pretensions myself to expert knowledge of Red China, it is evident that the Chinese-American conflict is irreconcilable. The fundamental fact is that we are locked into the unfinished Chinese civil war, and that we have established in Taiwan a military protectorate over the remnant of the regime that was overthrown on the Chinese mainland. The two Chinas, which actually exist today, are mortal enemies. The victory of either one over the other would mean the destruction of the loser, and the United States is irretrievably committed by treaty and in honor to defend the Chinese remnant in Taiwan.

Matter of Time

There is no reason to suppose that the quarrel can be composed by some bold and imaginative act of statesmanship. This is the kind of quarrel that can be composed only if and when the time comes that it has been outlived. There is no hope of a reconciliation between Mao and Chiang. Neither will accept a Two-China policy, sensible as it would be. For each has staked his life on the thesis that there is only one China and that he is the leader of it.

Civil wars are never easy to settle, as we have the strongest reasons for knowing. It is a hundred years since the end of our civil war, and only in our day are we seeing the advent of a new generation who have got beyond the old issues. The same pattern is likely to apply in all the divided countries. Some day, after Mao and Chiang are gone, there will be a new generation of Chinese in Peking and Taipei who will compose the quarrel. Something like that is likely to happen in Germany; the country will reunite when the Stalinist agents and the anti-Russians, the Nazis and the anti-Nazis have passed on.

Distant Settlement

This puts off into the rather distant future the prospect of a general settlement in Asia. For without the participation and goodwill of a satisfied China, no Asian settlement can, I believe, be imagined. The crucial problem before us today is how to live through what may be a long interval of time—perhaps a generation of time—without precipitating or slithering into that great war which, though no one in his senses can want it, is an ever-present possibility.

In trying to solve the problem of preserving the general peace in the long interval before a settlement becomes possible, we can rely on the fact that all the great powers concerned, all the powers capable of waging a great war, are aware that nothing can be gained and everything lost in a great war. This is true, I believe, of mainland China just as well as of the Soviet Union and the United States.

The chief cause for worry, the largest risk of all, is that the one step will lead to another, with nobody intending to produce a collision and nobody quite able to avert it. There has never been any reason to doubt the good intentions of the President, to doubt his earnest desire to avert a great war and bring about an end to the little war. What is not so certain is that he knows how to limit his war aims. The ambition of making South Viet Nam a free and independent country is almost certainly beyond hope of realization.

The danger for us lies in the risk of an unending pursuit of the unattainable.

Looking Back

From The Times of March 31, 1906:

Cowichan Lake — (despatch from Prince Arthur of Connaught's fishing party. The Prince arrived on the island three days ago): Dripping with rain and rubbing his hands in the cold, His Highness returned to the Lakeview Hotel proudly carrying four magnificent trout, victims of his prowess. He had used two flies, a Coachman and a March Brown, his first cast yielding nothing. But he was busy after that, once hooking a trout on each of the flies, which made for an interesting fight.

Instead of Fountains?

After reading Mr. Malone's report on the junior basketball tournament held in Victoria (both men's and women's) I was left truthfully heartsick to think our city council and officials could act in the manner described.

We hear so much of the trouble the few youngsters of today, or any era, perpetuate yet nothing of the goodness of the majority.

I imagine if Mr. Harold Turner had asked for another fountain erected in this fair city of ours instead of encouragement and financial support, or even a banquet for the visiting youngsters, it would have had council's immediate concern.—Disillusioned.

But Not Proved

Your contributor from Ottawa, Maurice Western, should read something other than newspaper reports in order to keep fully informed.

He says that after Evans was hanged "it was proved that another man committed the murder."

Correction please. True another convicted murderer confessed to that crime, but a government inquiry found no proof—the two murderers just happened to stay at the same time in the same "skid row" boarding house.

What about the "confession" in the Coffin case?—Walter White, 3821 Miramontes.

A Note of Harmony

At a meeting meeting at Uvic, Dr. Hugh Keenleyside mentioned that a musician friend of his had told him that a Chinese-manfactured piano he had tried out during a visit to that country was at least the equal of any Steinway he had ever touched.

I would like to suggest that it would be a fitting gesture if a Chinese grand piano were purchased by the Norma MacDonald Memorial Fund. Mrs. MacDonald was particularly attached to China—her last visit was the third within 12 months. I imagine that the fund would save a certain amount of money as the Chinese piano; it would be something towards reciprocity in trade between Canada and China; and in particular it would be a goodwill gesture which I am certain the Chinese would greatly appreciate.—Mrs. W. Burchill, 1350 Dallas.

SOLITARY GRANDEUR

Walking round the ruins of Angkor Wat, one is overawed by the immensity and magnificence of it all. As many as maybe ten million people lived here once; now Buddhist priests in their brilliant saffron robes live in newer temples beside the towering Angkor Wat. But apart from them the bats are in sole possession. And perhaps it is the vast, echoing, uninhtbited, emptiness that impresses most of all.

—Frances Bertheisenon on the BBC.

—Norman Shrapnel speaking on the BBC

'From the Lip'

Vancouver Sun

It would be assumed that Trade Minister Loffmark would know what he is talking about when he states that "the rates charged by the National Harbors Board administration in Vancouver are three times those levied in Montreal." Unfortunately, as it so happens, Mr. Loffmark is shooting from the lip again.

The NHB has now produced detailed comparisons, down to dollars and cents. They are compiled on the basis of the same vessel, carrying the same cargo, visiting competitive ports for a 96-hour layover. The examples are drawn from specific ships which have visited the ports in question.

Taken into account are such variables as harbor dues, dockage, service charges, cargo rates, wharfage and piloting charges. They show that the same vessel would pay $2,247.33 at Vancouver, $2,388.67 at Montreal, $4,103.12 at Tacoma, $4,701.12 at Portland, $5,203.12 at Bellingham and $6,143.12 at Seattle.

Mr. Loffmark and several other critics obviously have been caught short in their homework. They have failed to note, for one thing, that harbor dues in Vancouver are payable only for the first five visits by any vessel. In Montreal they are payable on every visit. . .

The Port of Vancouver is not yet heaven on earth. But it might be expected that a provincial minister so vitally interested in the trade moving through this harbor would have access to the facts before making charges that damage the port's reputation abroad.

Madison Avenue Does Not Lead To Downing Street

By KARL E. MEYER, The Washington Post

LONDON—It may be that in some future British general election politicians on both sides of the Atlantic will be united by a common reverence for Madison Avenue witchcraft. But not in 1966.

In marked contrast with American presidential elections, the British campaign has been fought with only minimal reliance on private polls, market research techniques and public relations sorcery.

The Tory Party came up with one innovation—a representative panel of Britons who gave the party an appraisal each morning of the previous day's battle. Opposition Leader Edward Heath called the jury "our 12 good men."

The Labor Party, which employed a full-time pollster in 1964, did without such assistance in this election.

The Liberal Party, which has dabbled with market research methods in past by-elections, would have liked to do more but the struggling third party lacked the needed money.

Though there was much fretting about each party's "image" and anxious analysis of election television shows, it was all refreshingly amateur—an abacus exercise compared with computerized Madison Avenue.

Waste Effort

"Even when they get the information from market research surveys," one insider confided, "party officials simply don't know how to use the information. It's waste effort."

Under Edward Heath, a believer in all things modern, the Conservative Party central office made a more earnest effort to keep abreast of changing electoral times.

Last October, the party hired its first permanent pollster, Humphrey Taylor, 31, whose Opinion Research Centre works under contract to the Central Office. A Cambridge graduate, Taylor had been a director of the well-reputed National Opinion Poll during the 1964 election.

One of Taylor's projects was to form a panel of typical voters scattered around the country—the "jury" that strikes a daily verdict on the party's campaign progress.

But the effect of this and other research efforts has been mainly negative. A qualified observer put it this way:

"The polls give the Central Office a new weapon to use with party zealots who want to take some crank issue—such as birching or hanging—and make it a campaign theme.

Ignore Data

"With the poll results, the party pros can show that no one cares that much about the issue. But the leaders shape their own strategy without much reference to the survey data."

From 1962 through 1964, the Labor Party did use surveys taken by Mark Abrams, whose polls appear in the London Observer, to find what appeals struck the most responsive chords. But the Party, once in power, dropped the effort.

The government itself undertakes no political polls, a research section does make surveys on specific problems such as lobor deployment or plant investment. The civil service has steadfastly and so far successfully resisted suggestions for partisan private polls.

In the fullness of time, Britain may enter the brave new world of market research politics. But in this campaign, there was an old-fashioned reliance on instinct and hunch. Why, for example, did Heath refrain from calling Prime Minister Harold Wilson "Mr. Johnson's poodle" in reprisal for a crack abou being "De Gaulle's spaniel."

"It was considered," said a Tory of impeccable authority, "but the idea was discarded. We could have called Wilson 'LBJ's beagle' or 'poodle,' but there are too many dog lovers in Britain — it's risky politics, the question of taste aside."

A rice field in the beautiful Vale of Kashmir, still the focal point of the long-standing dispute between India and Pakistan despite the recent Russian-sponsored talks at Tashkent which brought a truce but no peace.

SPIRIT OF TASHKENT LOSING SOME OF ITS GLOW

By CYRIL DUNN

NEW DELHI — With the Tashkent peace agreement between India and Pakistan less than three months old, relations between the two countries seem to be returning rapidly to their normal condition of bitterness and hostility.

With their Prime Minister, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, having arrived in the United States, the Indians appear anxious that this trend should not be overlooked. Foreign correspondents stationed here have been called to the Ministry of External Affairs and given a high-level account of happenings beyond the frontier.

'Rivers of Blood'

According to this, the Pakistan Press and radio have in the last few days begun to disregard Article Four of the Tashkent Declaration by reverting to their hate-India line. We were told of "screaming headlines," that mentioned in some instances "rivers of blood." And official emphasis has been laid here on the inclusion of Chinese T-59 tanks and MiG-19 fighter aircraft in Pakistan's display of military might at her National Day parade this week.

Defence officials in Delhi are not at all inclined to denigrate this Chinese armament. On the contrary, they say the T-59 is better than the US Patton tank used by Pakistan in the battles of the Punjab last September. They concede that the Chinese (originally Russian) MiG-19 aircraft has been somewhat outmoded by the Russian MiG-21, with which the Indian Air Force is equipped, but add that the former is still highly effective. There is also no tendency here to minimize numbers. We are told that 80 T-59s landed from a Chinese ship at dead of night in the Pakistan seaport of Karachi some time ago, and that at least 150 Pakistani pilots have been trained in China.

Indo-Pakistan relations, when strained are apt to be inspired by the dictum: "Anything you can do, I can do likewise." In last September's fighting, when the Indian Army made a destructive attack on the Pakistan village of Dograi, the Pakistan Air Force at once responded by bombing a suburb of Amritsar. So it may be that the four Chinese MiG-19s in the Rawalpindi flypast this week were a straight riposte to the four Russian MiG-21s in the Republic Day flypast here last January.

Films Cancelled

Even so, there is evident cause for concern. It is also true that the Indian Government has been doing its best to extol "the Tashkent spirit" and to restain anti-Pakistan propaganda on this side. For instance, it has imposed heavy losses on the Bombay film industry by calling off a number of well-advanced epics about India's late victory.

It seems reasonable to hope that both sides have merely laid on "alarms and excursions without" to influence the flow of talk between Mrs. Gandhi and President Lyndon Johnson. Certainly India has lost none of her longing to break what she calls "the equation" — thought to be lodged in the Washington mind — between, as she sees things, anti-Chinese India and pro-Chinese (see for yourselves) Pakistan.

Once the White House talks are over, perhaps the Tashkent trend will be resumed.

Momentum Lost

However it is obvious that this trend has lost some of that splendid momentum which carried the two armies to a safer distance apart. The slow-down seems to be happening for the same old reason — Kashmir.

President Ayub and his regime in Pakistan, still insist that this was "the basic issue" at Tashkent and that the Declaration will be meaningless if it does not lead to a settlement. High Indian officials on the other hand say the Declaration means: "You discuss and, if you fail, you discuss again — but you do not go to war."

Surrender

The Indians do not seem to draw from this the inference that, if the Declaration opened the way for nothing but an eternally unprofitable debate, then what Pakistan signed at Tashkent was virtually an instrument of surrender. Nor do the Indians agree that on their side this interpretation of the Declaration is tantamount to accepting the status quo in Kashmir as a permanent arrangement which might as well be given formal recognition.

Meanwhile it begins to appear that Pakistan, while agreeing to discuss other issues with India under the Tashkent agreement is not prepared to settle any of them unless at the same time the Kashmir issue is settled. Indeed, it looks as if Pakistan is using the other issues to put pressure on India.

At all events, Pakistan is keeping her borders sealed — to the detriment of Indian Muslims yearning for a post-war reunion with relatives beyond the frontier.

U.S. Hopes to Stall Off French NATO Demands

By WAVERLEY ROOT

PARIS — American tactics in the NATO crisis will be to stave off as long as possible the implementation of President de Gaulle's decision to "restore French sovereignty" over the American bases in France and to oblige the NATO command (SHAPE) to establish itself elsewhere.

The first step in this process was the delivery to France of American and British replies to the French memorandum announcing this decision, asking France to clarify her position.

When? How?

This means that the United States wants to know when and how France proposes to withdraw her forces from the NATO integrated command, and when she expects her allies to move SHAPE and their bases out of France.

The French answer is expected to be returned not later than Easter — probably about April 6.

When the answer is received, negotiations will be opened on the practical consequences of the changes. They are likely to be complicated and protracted.

On the American bases, the United States will bow to the French contention that this is a matter for bilateral negotiation between the two countries alone, because the five secret treaties which regulate their status are in fact signed only by France and the United States — not by NATO.

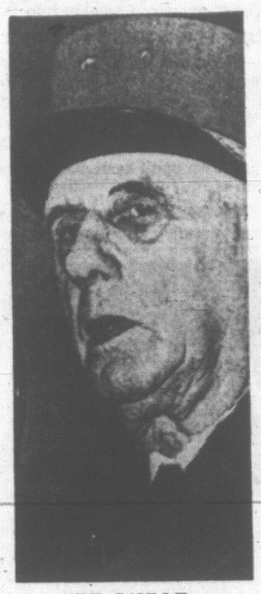
Insist on Talks

But the United States will insist upon her right to consult the other NATO partners on whatever arrangements she is discussing with France, since, whether signatories or not, they are vitally interested. Consultations with 13 other nations will inevitably increase the time necessary to reach agreement.

Of the five treaties, four, according to American sources, are valid for the life of NATO, and contain no provisions for unilateral denunciation.

"Actually," American sources put it, "France as a sovereign power can tell us to get out, and there is nothing we can do about it. But juridically, she is breaking an agreement which she accepted of her own free will. Under international usage, it would be normal for us to ask indemnification for the loss caused by this breach of contract. However, we haven't done so — yet."

It is safe to say that the United States will. The ensuing discussions promise to be lengthy. To begin with, there is the question whether or not France's liability covers the full cost of the present installations, extimated to be an investment of 2.5 billion dollars. Or does the liability cover only residual costs — initial expense less amortization and depreciation?



DE GAULLE
. . . landlord in a hurry

Or should it be considered as damages, representing, for instance, the cost of moving material elsewhere, estimated at about 700 million dollars?

Once this argument has been settled, it will remain to distribute whatever expense has not been covered by French reimbursement among the NATO members as a whole — which involves working out pro-rata quotas, And then the finance ministers of 15 countries and their 15 parliaments must be persuaded to accept them.

Good Tactics

Dragging out an already long prodedure is defended as good tactics on two grounds:

—"If your landlord serves you an eviction order your chanes of getting good compensation for any loss are better before you move out than after," as one U.S. source puts it.

—"De Gaulle is in a great hurry. When the person you're bargaining with is in a hurry, the best tactics for a good settlement are not to hurry yourself."

Lurking behind these arguments is an idea that is not expressed openly: If the day of departure can be postponed long enough, the eviction order may be rescinded.

This could happen through a Gaullist defeat in the 1957 legislative elections or through De Gaulle's departure from power (presumably through death or illness).

Famous Last Words

THEODORE ROOSEVELT
(1858-1919)

Before his death, he said: "I am just an ordinary man without any special ability in any direction, except perhaps this one thing. I do the things I believe ought to be done. And when I make up my mind, I act." His last words were of his home: "I wonder if you will ever know how I love Sagamore Hill."

Martin Luther
(1483-1546)

Dying, the religious reformer exclaimed: "O Heavenly Father, if I leave this body and depart I am certain that I will be with Thee there forever and can never, never tear myself out of Thy hands." He was asked if he would stand steadfast by Christ and the doctrine he (Luther) had preached. He replied: "Yes!" and died.

Little Cause to Celebrate For Resentful Brazilians

By HENRY HOGG

RIO DE JANEIRO — Brazil is celebrating the second anniversary of the revolution which overthrew the left-winger President Joao Goulart and installed a military-dominated government under the presidency of Marshal Castello Branco.

It would perhaps be closer to the turth to say that the government of Brazil is celebrating; for the vast majority of the Brazilian people is doing no such thing.

From the start the revolution has been unpopular, not only for the masses — who still retain sympathy for the deposed Goulart who inherited the aura of his political patron — the late President Getulio Vargas, the "Father of the Poor!" But thinking middle and upper class Brazilians have not been convinced by the proclaimed democratic aims of the present military regime.

Whatever the faults of the regime, it cannot be denied that the 1964 revolution restored discipline to the armed forces and did away with a slight but never serious communist threat. For this it earned the tacit benison of the United States, whose blessing is apparently given to most take-overs in Latin America where the alternative would mean power in the hands of left-wing parties.

The ever-increasing dissatisfaction with the administration among Brazilians is in great part due to the failure by the authorities to curb the cost of living. For the first two months of this year this rose by 9.3 per cent. Planning Minister Roberto Campos had predicted an increase of 10 per cent for the whole of 1966.

But the political situation in general pleases few people, and most of them believe that the time has come for the retreat to be blown and a civilian government installed. But who can oust the military?

Powers given to Marshal Castello Branco by the Additional Act — which sounds so much less dictatorial than "decree" — enable the president, at the stroke of a pen, to strip any Brazilian of all political rights for a period of 10 years. The answer as to who will blow the retreat might be public opinion — if the army leaves any bugles around, which seems doubtful.

Urgent social reforms remain untouched or at least are only being scratched at.

Resentment is steadily mounting against the government, and the Conservative Jornal Do Brasil writes: "The political picture is one of desolation. There is no ambitious initiative or creative breath. It is unbelievable that the government is unaware of the anxiety into which it is plunging the nation deeper and deeper every day."

George Austin Hardy: He Knew World Around Him

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

The all-round naturalist of a generation ago was a very special type of person. He was one who was well-versed in all phases of the out-of-doors and at the same time was an authority in one or two special fields. He could name almost every tree, shrub or flower in the area that he roamed and could identify every bird and insect that came to notice. At the same time he could interpret the patterns of life that flowed by in terms of the rocks, soil and climate that made up the physical world around him.

Dr. Carl

Such a person was George Austin Hardy. Sparked by direct contact with a countryside rich in living things, he developed a keen interest in nature as a youth in Wales where he was born. In those days, more than 70 years ago, no formal training in natural science was easily available but this was offset by living in an area relatively unspoiled by settlement and by association with naturalists who were willing to offer help and encouragement.

★ ★ ★

Well-started as a self-taught student of biology, Hardy later emigrated to Alberta where he continued his interests while trying to make a living as a homesteader. Collections of plants, birds and insects were dispatched back to the Essex museum where he had spent time as an apprentice and in time he himself followed. But after a brief visit he returned to Canada, this time to the Pacific Coast.

Eventually he joined the staff of the Provincial Musuem and he maintained this happy association for a long productive period broken only by a short interlude spent on the prairies in the 1930's.

No matter where he was located George was fascinated by the whole gamut of nature. The plant associations characteristic of the various biotic areas of the province were a constant source of delight and a topic of study and the communities of living creatures along the seashore regularly intrigued him.

He was particularly interested in insects and a great part of his life was devoted to their study. For many years he assiduously collected and studied wood-boring beetles until be became the recognized authority on this particular group. As the possibility of making new discoveries lessened among the wood-borers he became engrossed with studying the life histories of our less well-known moths and produced a long series of papers on these creatures.

To further these studies he became expert in photographing his subjects. A fine collection of color pictures and a most extensive collection of exquisitely mounted insects attest his skill and patience.

While enthralled by the study of individual plants or animals, George had the ability to see the whole picture being displayed by nature and he was very conscious of the orderly process of change going on about him. His interests along these lines culminated in published reports on the natural history of areas such as the Forbidden Plateau, Jordan Meadows, Blenkinsop Lake, Manning Park, and other parts of British Columbia visited on musuem expeditions. In some of these places his lanky frame clad in sort pants and armed with a butterfly net or plant press was a familiar and sometimes startling sight.

New Idea On Mayan Collapse

Archaeologists at work in the Mayan ruins that abound in the soon-to-be new nation of Bleize have come up with a novel theory about why the Indian civilization collapsed so suddenly about 1,000 years ago.

Most previous explanations have held that the Mayans were visited by a famine that compelled them to emigrate from their elaborate temple cities. But workers in British Honduras believe that the real cause was a virtual civil war between the populace and the priesthood.

Drivers Out

According to this theory the quarrel became so intense that the priests, who held the reins of government and guided the people, were driven out of the temples. But because the priests had kept the calendar that regulated the planting of crops, the remaining inhabitants were ignorant of the mechanics of continuing their food supply. Thus famine did descend quickly — within three to five years — but because of man-made rather than natural causes.

LAWYERS STUDY LEGALITY

Man Hypnotizes Own Children To Improve Marks in School

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Matthew Dymond of Ontario said Wednesday night his department's lawyers are studying the legality of hypnosis practised by a suburban Don Mills hotel manager on his own children.

G. Ralph Albert, 37, says he has hypnotized his own children in an effort to improve their marks in school.

"If the man is adequately trained to practice, he is within the law," Dr. Dymond said. "If he is not adequately trained, normally he would not be within the law but since it is his own children he hypnotized it would be touchy whether he's breaking the law or not."

Mr. Albert, who has been holding regular meetings of friends and associates to discuss the mind, said in an interview:

"If the health department or any other body can show me I'm doing anything wrong or harmful in the least, I'll desist right away."

He said he hypnotizes his own children—Joe, 15, Jane, 13 and Randall, 9—but only if they want him to. He said he has managed to get better marks for them by putting them in a shallow state of hypnosis.

"If I thought there was the least danger, I wouldn't do it."

DOESN'T TEACH HYPNOSIS

He said that he doesn't teach hypnosis at meetings of the group he calls Motivation Study Association.

"At nine out of 10 of our meetings, we don't even discuss hypnosis."

He said subjects discussed at the group's meetings include imagination, will power, speed reading, salesmanship, memory, self-confidence and how to relax.

Legislation making it illegal for anyone other than a qualified dental, medical or pshchological practitioner to use hypnosis was enacted in 1961.

Mr. Albert said he knew of the legislation and was sure it didn't apply to him.

He said he would not speak for other parents who might have attempted to hypnotize their children after attending meetings of his group.

Dr. Frederick Minkler, director of education for the suburban North York board of education, said while "what parents do at home with their own children is up to them; if it effects their schoolwork, we would be concerned."

STAR of the Broadway play The Royal Hunt of The Sun, Montrealer Christopher Plummer, will be unable to resume his role. He is in hospital suffering from a blood clot in his right leg. He injured the leg during a performance in January in one of his falls in the first act.

ACCESS TO RECORDS

Johnson May Veto Information Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After 10 years of trying, the U.S. Congress finally seems ready to pass a bill to give the ordinary American the legal right to look at virtually all the non-military records of his government.

By the end of April President Johnson should have on his desk the so-called "freedom of information" bill. Whether he will sign it remains open to question.

Rep. John E. Moss, D—Calif., chief House sponsor of the measure, thinks he will. Rep. Florence P. Dwyer, R—N.J., another sponsor, believes that if he does veto the measure Congress will override the veto.

Administration spokesmen have applauded the motives behind the legislation, but they claim it will cause more problems than it solves. They have hinted Johnson might veto it.

The bill grew out of continuing controversy over alleged denial of access to government records either by the press and public or in some cases by Congress itself.

For the first time it would put on the government itself the burden of proof in cases of such denial. In general, all official records would be declared by law to be public.

Specific exemptions would be made for classified or security matters and for certain other categories of information including personnel files, commercial trade secrets, and investigative files of law enforcement agencies.

U.S. REPLY TO RUSSIA

'Each Must Rely on Other's Wisdom'

GENEVA (Reuters) — The United States told Russia here today that each must rely on the other's proved self-restraint, judgment and wisdom to prevent a nuclear conflict.

Adrian Fisher, the U.S. delegate, was replying at the 17-nation disarmament conference to a Soviet claim that it could not rest its security on a U.S. "veto" on NATO firing nuclear weapons.

Fisher said the Russian argument "fails to recognize the true situation in the world in which we are living and in which we will be living until we achieve general and complete disarmament under effective international control."

Fisher rejected another Soviet assertion that an amended U.S. draft treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons left "a gaping loophole" for nuclear states to transfer these arms to allies inside a military alliance such as NATO.

He said the real and immediate threat of nuclear proliferation was not within existing alliance structures or within Europe.

RISK NOTED

The greatest risk of a break in the dam holding back the spread of nuclear weapons was that in the absence of a non-proliferation treaty one or other nation might decide independently to acquire its own nuclear arms, he said.

Soviet delegate Alexei Roshchin rejected the U.S. amended draft Tuesday as unacceptable as a basis for a treaty.

The Soviet Union has consistently opposed the U.S. draft treaty since it was submitted to the conference last summer, because it says it would allow West Germany access to nuclear weapons through nuclear-sharing arrangements in NATO.

SOVIET MIDDLE CLASS DOMINATES PARTY LIST

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Communist party, although known as the "party of the proletariat," is still dominated by white-collar workers and other groups normally associated with the middle class. In his report to the party's 23rd congress Tuesday, First Secretary Leonid Brezhnev disclosed that clerks, technicians and professional persons make up 46 per cent of the total membership of 12,741,000. Manual workers form only 37.8 per cent and peasants accounted for 16.2 per cent.

BUREAU TELLS A WHOPPER

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba government's tourist development branch told an unintentional whopper recently in an advertising lure to sports fishermen.

Ads in U.S. sporting magazines, florifying Manitoba's Pike and trout fishing, were illustrated with a picture of a granddaddy Pacific Coast spring salmon.

Tourist branch director W. E. Organ said the mistake occurred when a Canadian government photo got into the wrong file at tourist headquarters.

"Anyway," he said. "The salmon is a good cousin of the trout. More people took notice of the ads than they would have ordinarily."

TANK TRUCKS SUPPLY BURNS LAKE

Oil Contaminates Water Supply

BURNS LAKE (CP) — Residents of this small B.C. community have been warned not to use tap water for drinking or cooking until further notice.

The warning was given Wednesday by Dr. James Robinson, a medical health officer from Prince George, 125 miles east of here, who said the water may be contaminated by diesel fuel.

In January, a fuel line to the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority storage tanks near Burns Lake—from which the water supply is taken—was broken by a frost heave and 10,000 gallons of fuel were lost.

With the spring runoff, it is suspected that some of the fuel is being washed into the lake. Four 1,000 - gallon tank trucks on loan from the Department of Highways in Smithers and Vanderhoof, are supplying drinking water to the town.

Budget Won't Slow Down B.C. Projects

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia industrial leaders agreed Wednesday the province's current industrial boom will continue despite Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp's "slow the boom" budget.

Most spokesmen said expansion will continue as planned and the budget is not expected to curtail any major projects.

Robert G. Rogers, president of Crown Zellerbach Canada, said he welcomed the move to remove the tax on production equipment.

"We have been pushing for this and it will definitely have an effect on our long - term plans," said Mr. Rogers. "It will make it practical for us to proceed with plans that might otherwise have been shelved."

The timber company executive said his company will proceed with plans for a $20,000,000 expansion of facilities. He said the budget should make resources development within B.C. easier, rather than prohibitive.

J. Ernest Richardson, president of B.C. Telephone Co., said the budget won't hurt his company this year, but could slow down development "in 1967 or 1968."

Mr. Richardson said a $52,000,000 expansion program will proceed unaltered.

"Our program is geared to commitments to the community and we are bound to this," said Mr. Richardson.

Otto F. Andreason, president of East Asiatic Co., whose subsidiary is involved in a $75,000,000 pulp mill development program at Gold River, B.C. said it appears "some imagination" went into preparation of the budget.

'Not Going to Hurt Us'–Shrum

Mr. Andreason said it is too early to tell what the effect might be on industrial plans not yet formulated, but it should not hurt projects already in the planning or development stages.

Paul M. Marshall, president of Columbia Cellulose, undertaking a multi-million dollar pulp mill expansion at Prince Rupert, said there is no possibility of his company turning back.

And David Odhams, president of Vancouver Wharves, now in the midst of a $7,000,000 development program, said his company has to provide whatever is required by the shipping industry and can't change its Vancouver plans.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of the publicly-owned B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, said a budget proposal to lift the 15 per cent non-resident withholding tax on certain bonds and debentures April 15 "certainly isn't going to hurt us."

The finance minister's budget provides for removal of the tax in specified circumstances to entice greater foreign investment in Canada.

"It might even help us a little bit," said Dr. Shrum.

Budget provisions dealing with the new repayable tax on corporation profits, came under fire from B.C. labor leaders.

Pat O'Neal ,secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said he wished the government would tax his income the same way.

"One thing that fascinates me is that while Sharp voted for (former finance minister Walter) Gordon's budget, everything he's done in his own is downright contradictory to what was in the Gordon budget," said Mr. O'Neal.

The labor federation secretary said the budget reflects the traditional conservative approach to fiscal policy.

"I'm not sure it will accomplish what it sets out to do," he said. "I think in the long range, it will slow down the economy too much."

POWERFUL WEAPON IN BOMB-AND-BUST WAR

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — The new refundable five per cent tax on corporation cash profits is seen here as a powerful new tool the federal government can use in its constant war on boom-and-bust cycles in the economy.

Finance Minister Sharp, who introduced the novel tax in his budget Tuesday night, told reporters Wednesday it is an experiment at present. Its future will depend on its effect on the economy, which will be closely watched.

Other countries — notably Sweden — have used a similar tax, but have put much sharper teeth in it.

The new Canadian tax is five per cent of cash profits amounting to more than $30,000, which is impounded monthly in a separate government account, to be paid back with interest at five per cent at a later date.

The new tax is to run for 18 months, and repayments are to be made in the subsequent 18 to 36 months, depending on the state of the economy then.

Its purpose is to draw off a portion of the spending and investment cash of the big corporations during the present period of strong inflationary pressures on the economy, and then return the funds to the companies at a time when some impetus is needed for lagging economy to keep up its forward march.

AS AN INNOVATION

So far as officials are aware, this is the first time such a tax device has been employed outside Western Europe.

In Sweden, the tax is much stiffer. Virtually all the excess cash of firms is drawn off at boom times, impounded as it were in a deep freeze, and then paid back at a healthy rate of interest out of the treasury when an expansion of plant and equipment is needed.

Mr. Sharp was asked whether his new tax is merely an experiment or whether it is a wedge for much more powerful employment in the future. He replied that so far it is an experiment, but the tax device has been used successfully elsewhere and its future depends on conditions as they develop in this country.

The tax is intended only to apply to major corporations, ones with a sales volume upwards of half a million dollars.

But it strikes at the root of inflation tendencies in the economy whenever they occur.

As the economists see it — and Mr. Sharp is a trained economist — the most powerful influence in encouraging growth is the rate of investment in new plants and equipment, the machinery with which a country produces new goods and services.

LIST THREE SOURCES

There are three main components of this kind of investment—consumer spending, government spending, and corporate investment.

Governments have long been able to adjust their own spending and influence the spending of the consumer element in the economy, the latter through raising or lowering personal income taxes.

Now authorities here see the federal government's new refundable tax on corporate cash profits as a major instrument with which to influence corporate investment.

The finance minister said Wednesday it is too soon to assess the business community's reaction to his new tax. Details of its application are still to be written into law and he has asked for advice on this.

But initial reaction publicly has been that the new tax is moderate and a device that will not add to costs but one that will encourage postponement of excessive investment intentions for the present.

HANGING DEBATE HANGING

MPs Groan Over Prospect Of Short Easter Recess

By PAUL DUNN

OTTAWA (CP)—With its capital punishment debate still hanging, the Commons stayed close to court Wednesday by devoting most of the day to a minor resolution approving the salaries of eight new judges.

The resolution to abolish capital punishment will be resumed, Prime Minister Pearson said Wednesday, possibly within two weeks if members are ready to accept a shortened Easter recess.

This brought groans from MPs. Debate on the death penalty ended Monday night after three days when Ralph B. Cowan (L—York-Humber) refused the unanimous consent required to continue.

Approval was given Wednesday to a resolution providing for the salaries of eight new judges, two for the Ontario Supreme Court, three for the Quebec Superior Court, one for the New Brunswick Supreme Court, one for the Ontario county court and one for the district court of Alberta.

Provinces have the authority to determine the number of judges they require but the federal government appoints and pays the salaries.

The resolution opened the door for the minor parties to debate the partisan politics they feel often play a role in such judicial appointments. Only the Liberals and Conservatives have ever had the opportunity to control appointments to the bench.

"Judicial appointments in Canada are a credit to our nation," said Richard A. Bell (PC—Carleton), a lawyer and former immigration minister. There was "no higher degree of public service than service of a political party."

He took umbrage at remarks by Robert Prittie (NDP—Burnaby - Richmond) who quoted from a newspaper account of a speech by Prof. William H. Angus of Edmonton.

The account said "judicial appointments in Canada are a national disgrace because crass political patronage prevails over merit and ability."

Mr. Bell said the article was "irresponsible . . . totally devoid of reality."

Solicitor - General Pennell said that during his 20 years at the bar he had never heard that "the prior political activities of a judge in any way influenced his judgment."

Justice Minister Cardin said he felt judges were "completely independent of any political party."

R. G. L. Fairweather (PC—Royal) proposed that retired judges carry the title "honorable" to their graves and that they be given higher salaries and pensions.

Mr. Cardin said the government is "considering revision of the judges' salaries but not necessarily in this bill."

Mr. Fairweather, a New Brunswick lawyer, was concerned that retired judges should have to return to practice. He favored judges carrying "their full emoluments until their death . . . so that they can carry their duties with the dignity they ought to be endowed with."

7 Senate Seats Empty As Two Senators Die

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Senator F. Gordon Bradley and former Liberal Senator Allan Woodrow died within 24 hours, leaving seven vacancies in the upper house.

Senator Bradley, 78, died at his home at Bonavista, Nfld., Wednesday after a long illness. A lawyer and former solicitor-general of Newfoundland, he served in the federal cabinet as state secretary for four years before being named to the Senate in 1953.

Former Senator Woodrow, 79, a Toronto business consultant and former honorary treasurer of the Liberal party, died in a Toronto hospital Tuesday. He had resigned for health reasons March 14.

Neither senator had been active in the upper chamber in recent years.

Party standings now are Liberals 61, Conservatives 31, independents two, independent Liberal one and vacant seven, for a total of 102.

Quebec and Newfoundland have two vacancies each. Ontario, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island have the others.

INDONESIA STUDENTS

Constitution Revival Urged

JAKARTA (AP)—More than 8,000 students marched through the streets of Jakarta today with flags and banners denouncing former cabinet ministers under arrest and calling for revival of the constitution.

There was no violence.

The demonstration was sponsored by KAMI, the anti-Communist group of student organizations which led the violent demonstrations that resulted in the ouster of President Sukarno's previous cabinet.

KAMI issued a proclamation today asserting that the new cabinet sworn in Wednesday did not meet the needs of the people.

Although it called for a simplified, efficient government, the proclamation also indicated acceptance of the cabinet for the time being. It expressed appreciation to Lt.-Gen. Suharto, the country's new military strongman, for achieving the first stage in "saving the revolution" and said the cabinet was free from elments of the Communist party and its sympathizers.

SUPPORT SECOND STAGE

The resolution also expressed fulls upport for Suharto in the second stage of the revolution—freedom from vested interests and inefficient elements which the students said still existed in the new cabinet.

The students also called for:

—A free and active foreign policy reflecting the national interest.

—Convening of the People's Consultative Assembly to revive the 1945 constitution. The assembly was appointed by Sukarno and rarely meets but it is the only semblance of a parliament which Indonesia has.

—Indefinite retention by Suharto of the broad powers which Sukarno handed over to him March 11, during the earlier student demonstrations.

Johannesburg Skyline Zooming Up

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — A dozen new skyscrapers will change the skyline of South Africa's biggest city — Johannesburg.

Major building projects for this city of 1,250,000 are estimated at more than $140,000,000 during the next decade.

Topping the list is the 51-storey Carlton Centre, scheduled for completion by 1971. It will occupy four city blocks and include a 37-storey hotel.

Work is already under way on another hotel rising over the northern end of the city centre.

Other projects include a 50-storey residential building, a 45-storey building to be erected by the Transvaal provincial administration and a 35-storey breweries building.

Johannesburg, centre of the world's greatest goldfield complex, is the commercial and industrial metropolis of South Africa.

Cuba Exiles Offered Jobs At Oil Sands

TORONTO (CP)—The president of Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. said Wednesday his company is trying to recruit Cuban refugees to work at its Athabasca oil sands recovery project in northeastern Alberta.

Clarence H. Thayer told the company annual meeting that recruiting of workers is also being done in Korea and in other countries.

He said the company is working on its own, and not through any government agency to hire Cuban refugees. Only skilled workers, such as pipefitters and electricians, are being sought.

Mr. Thayer said the company has been forced to go outside the country for skilled workers because of a shortage in Canada and because of a heavy turnover at the remote Alberta site.

The company plans to expand the project work force to 2,300 workers from 1,200.

SEA LION SHOT DEAD IN GARDEN

TERRACE (CP) — B.C. Game Branch conservation officer Garry Smythe picked up the phone, said hello, and was told there was a sea lion in the garden at the railway station.

He went to the Canadian national Railways station at Kwinitsa, about 50 miles west of here.

Sure enough, there was a sea lion — about 500 pounds worth in the garden.

The animal had strayed from the nearby Skeena River, onto a flatcar and from there into the flower bed. It had broken a window in the station cutting itself.

The animal was shot and a crane brought in to remove the carcass.

'REASSURE CONSUMERS', SAYS DOW

Million Gallons of Beer Destroyed

QUEBEC (CP)—One million gallons of beer—Dow ale and Champlain porter brands—will be dumped into this city's sewage system within the next two to three weeks.

The move, announced in a statement in Montreal Wednesday by Dow Brewery Ltd., follows the deaths of 16 middle-aged Quebec-area men from cardiac troubles.

Although all 16 were said to have consumed large quantities of beer, a three-pronged investigation of the deaths has established no connection between the heart trouble and Dow beer, or any brewers' product. Authorities say it is too soon to make any definite conclusion.

The beer to be discarded is 600,000 gallons in stock at Dow's Quebec brewery and another 400,000 at the brewer's 10 Quebec agents, in retail stores and currently in the possession of the public.

Dow has said it will refund all purchases of its beer in the Quebec area. Pickup of beer outside the brewery was to begin today.

USE MONTREAL BEER

Dow took the step "to contribute further to the official investigation and in order to reassure consumers in the area served by our Quebec City plant." The brewer planned "to supply agents and licensees of that area with beer produced in our Montreal plant."

The decision was made Tuesday night.

Eric Kierans, Quebec minister of health, said Wednesday in the legislature an investigation by his department "has not been able to establish the precise cause of the deaths."

Mr. Kierans said a Quebec brewery had been rigorously inspected, but "nothing was discovered which could indicate there was contamination."

Dow, which will save samples of the disposed beer for examination by a committee named by the health department, said:

"The investigation conducted by federal and provincial authorities and by leading independent consultants has revealed no ingredient in the beer itself nor any manufacturing process to which such cases might be attributed."

WARNED BY DOCTOR

The heart attacks, said Mr. Kierans, were caused by a disease which made the heart muscles degenerate. His department was advised March 19 by a local doctor of a possible relationship between excessive beer drinking and the special type of heart failure.

Forty cases were reported, of which 16 patients died. All had consumed large quantities of beer for several years, said the health minister.

"Until now it has been impossible to establish that the disease has been caused by the consumption of beer. It could be that several of yet undetermined factors may have played a role in the appearance of this syndrome," Mr. Kierans said.

The investigation, which started about two weeks ago, is being carried out by the federal food and drug directorate, the provincial health department laboratories in Montreal and the justice department's medico-legal division.

CPA Bids for Second Cross-Canada Flight

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Canadian Pacific Airlines has made a strong recommendation to the federal government that it be allowed to operate a cross-Canada jetlines flight from Vancouver to Calgary to Toronto to Ottawa, it was learned from informed sources today.

The recommendation was put forward to Stephen Wheatcroft, British commercial aviation expert. Wheatcroft was commissioned by the Canadian government to make an economic study of the Canadian airlines and their main line domestic services.

He was assigned specifically to make a study of the competitive position of Air Canada and CPA. The Wheatcroft report has been received by Transport Minister Pickersgill.

J. C. Gilmer, president of CPA met with Pickersgill Wednesday. It is understood that he put forward the proposal again that CPA would be interested in operating such a second trans-Canada flight daily.

In the submission to Wheatcroft the privately-owned airlines advocated that it be given the opportunity to fly a second trans-Canada route. It now is permitted to fly one cross-Canada route each way daily from Vancouver to Winnipeg to Toronto and Montreal.

The Wheatcroft report is now under study in the transport department. It is understood that it did not make specific recommendations to the government for the operation of additional flights by the two major airlines.

It did set out the competitive position of the two airlines and it is now up to the transport department to carry forward the studies and make recommendations as to whether CPA should be permitted to fly a second trans-continental flight. It will be several weeks before the department is prepared to making its firm recommendations to the minister.

CPA was granted the right to fly its cross Canada route in competition with Air Canada when the Diefenbaker government was in power in 1959. At that time it flew Britannias with a first class capacity of around 100 passengers. Now CPA is flying DC-8s with a capacity of around 141 passengers.

Reductions in Fares Proposed by Airline

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Airlines has proposed fare reductions of up to 40 per cent on services between Canada and Australia, New Zealand and Fiji in a bid to get more South Pacific tourist business.

H. B. Renwick, CPA vice-president, said Wednesday the airline plans to apply to the appropriate governments for authority to introduce promotional excursion fares 40 per cent below the current levels.

The excursions would be for 30 days and would operate the year round.

He said the airline also plans to seek approval for a general 30 per cent reduction on all first class and economy fares on its South Pacific routes.

IWA Gets Injunction Dissolved

VANCOUVER (CP) — County Court Judge Kirk Smith Wednesday dissolved an injunction against the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) which ordered its officers to stop counselling workers not to turn up for weekend shifts.

Canadian Forest Products Ltd. had won the ex-parte injunction Saturday. About 90 employees of the company's hardwood plant in New Westminster did not report for work Saturday or Sunday.

The union fought the injunction in court Wednesday and the order was lifted.

The Board of Industrial Relations exempted the firm from the Hours of Work Act, making it possible for the company to schedule weekend shifts, but the union said this was against the terms of their contract with the company.

The IWA is at present negotiating with coast timber operators for a new contract, seeking a 50-cent-an-hour wage increase in a one-year contract and fringe benefits the industry says could amount to another 50 cents.

TREE FRUITS

Okanagan Industry Recovers

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—The Okanagan fruit industry is recovering from a disastrous freeze-up that virtually wiped out some soft fruit crops in 1965.

John Smith, the B.C. government supervising horticulturist here says indications are for a sizable crop in 1966.

The industry was set on its ear as a result of the freeze-up in the winter of 1964-65.

Smith says many trees were killed outright and many more received bud damage. He says it will take as much as six years for the industry to fully recover.

The full extent of the frost damage is still under investigation in many areas of the lush Okanagan valley.

Smith says trees have made a good recovery to date but some freeze damage is expected to become apparent as late as June or July.

He says there will be no reduction on orchard acreage this year. Prior to the big frost there were 2,500,000 fruit trees in the Okanagan and their fruit provided the base for the economy for the large district.

Individual growers could receive up to $9,000 from various government agencies for crop damage. The maximum any orchardist can claim is $4,000 for crop loss and $5,000 for loss of trees. There is no payment for orchards of less than three acres.

Carpenters, Contractors Set Talks

VANCOUVER (CP)—Negotiations will resume Friday in an attempt to break a deadlock in a contract dispute involving more than 7,000 carpenters and 275 contractors across the province.

Conciliation officer George Carmichael said Wednesday he will meet with representatives of the Provincial Council of Carpenters and representatives of the contractors.

He said he then expects both sides to hold a joint meeting.

The resumed meetings follow consultations between the carpenters and deputy labor minister William Sands in Victoria last week. The meeting with Sands was requested by the carpenters who said they feared the contractors planned to bypass conciliation and bring on an early strike vote.

Friday's meeting will be held here and may continue for a week.

The union is seeking a seven-hour day with no cut in take-home pay plus a 30-cent-an-hour wage increase over two years. The present base rate for carpenters in the province is $3.49 an hour.

The contractors have offered a 45-cent-an-hour increase over three years but have rejected the seven-hour-day proposal. They also seek to have the present hiring hall system of employing carpenters abolished.

Del Rio's Profits Jump 52%

CALGARY (CP)—Central-Del Rio Oils Ltd. of Calgary has reported net profit of $3,277,704 in 1965, an increase of 52 per cent over net profit of $2,157,291 in 1964.

Earnings were 50 cents a share compared with 33 cents in 1964, the company said in its annual report. Cash generated from operations was 28 per cent higher than in 1964.

Company president John F. Hardy said a 72-well drilling program during 1965 resulted in the completion of 30 new oil wells and three new gas wells.

"Central-Del Rio's exploratory work was particularly successful in the Flat Lake-Lake Alma area of southeastern Saskatchewan, 90 miles south of Regina . . ." Hardy said.

Results of five wells drilled since early 1965 in the Rainbow Lake area of northwestern Alberta have not been released, he added.

GRAIN CHIEF RESIGNS POST

WINNIPEG (CP)—James W. Clarke, president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, has resigned.

The board of governors announced today that Clarke is leaving to accept a senior partnership in a firm of economic consultants.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

"Jeez, wotta fight, eh?"

"Naw."

"Whatcha' mean, 'naw'?"

"Nobody got kilt."

"Awright, so there's not blood all over. George still give it to him good."

"He did?"

"Sure. I heard the guy on the radio. Dunphee or Dopey or sumpin'.

"I heard the guy on the radio, too. Y' think those guys on the radio are paid to make it sound like afternoon tea at the Old Folks Home?"

"But the guy says it ain't a mismatch."

"No mismatch, uh?"

"Naw, George is pounding 'im at the end."

"Yeah, at the end. But what's George doin' in the beginnin'? Or in the middle. I'll tell you. He's catchin'."

"But Muhammed Mouthy don't put him down."

"You take a side of beef, 200 pounds, and plant it and how many guys are gonna' put it down? You can leave welts on it but it ain't gonna fall. It's like hitting a tree with your bare hands. You get sore hands but the tree is still standin'."

A Dollar a Whack—70,000 Worth

"Still George shouldna' been any 7-1 underdog."

"No. He shoulda been 100-1 or 1,000-1."

"How can y'a say that? He goes the limit."

"They coulda gone until the middle of May and Mouthy is the winner."

"You think Clay is some kind of god with the gloves?"

"You show me who's better. Had 23 fights. Won 23. What else ya want? Sells tickets, too. He could fight Mickey Mouse and talk it up like it was the battle of the century."

"Wonder Mouth didn't do so good on this one. Only made $175,000."

"He was lucky he didn't have to pay 'em a hunnert grand to promote the thing. Here's a guy who's stoking the stocking for the Black Muslims, goin' against a guy who'd lost 11 of his last 47. Y'know who Chuvalo lost to last time? Some Argentine. Eddie Collapsible or sumpin'.

"Chuvalo didn't do bad. He picked up 70 grand.

"Yeah, one buck for every punch he took. Not bad."

"Lookit, Ungerman—he's George's manager—said he felt they deserved a draw. But he ain't gonna protest."

"If they get a draw out of that everybody's gotta get in line for saliva tests."

George's Got Interesting Fortitude

"So you don' think George put up a good fight?"

"He's got what Dunphee calls interesting fortitude. But that ain't ever gonna' take the place of speed and savvy and a good right hand and a perfect jab. Apart from those things which Clay has I'd hafta say they was pretty even."

"Well, you can't say the referee and the judges was even. They only give George one round. How could they do that?"

"I dunno. Maybe tbecaz they was there. Maybe becaz they didn't have addin' machines to count the times Mouthy hit 'im."

"Joe Louis was in George's corner. He musta thought George hadda chance."

"A helluva chance. Some newspaper guys is watching Chuvalo work out before the fight and one of them can't see. So he says to Louis, 'Move over, Joe, you're blockin' my view.' And Joe fires back at 'im, 'You don't know how lucky you are'."

"That Louis was kiddin,' of course."

"So was Clay. You see what he did to Chuvalo's face? At the end it looked sumpin' like one of Gaglardi's roads where he puts up the sign 'Sorry for the Inconvenience'."

As Desirable as Leftover Fish . . .

"If it was such a bad fight, why did Maple Leaf Gardens let 'em in?"

"Toronto got the fight because Turkey Neck, Saskatchewan and Hen's Tooth, Alta., was a little late getting in their bids. Everybody else treated it like stale fish:"

"Naw, can't be. I read where Conny Smythe resigned as a director—he was so heated up over Clay saying 'I ain't got no quarrel with the Viet Congs'."

"Clay better have something against them pretty soon."

"That's not what Mouthy says. He tol' the radio guys he was to fight Henry Cooper next and then keep on fightin'."

"Yea, well, Cooper better not hold his breath."

"Whaddya' mean?"

"Mouthy's next bout is with the guy in the Pentagon that writes those 'Dear Friend' letters. This is gonna be one match Clay's gonna lose. You wanna hear Clay's newest song?"

"Why not? I ain't got anything better to do."

"It goes like this: 'Sayonara, Louisville . . . Hello, Saigon' . . ."

PROVINCIAL MEET

Vics to Defend Volleyball Title

Competition is expected to be tight and torrid Friday and Saturday as Victoria High attempts to retain the B.C. high school volleyball championship.

The Vics will have the advantage of playing on gymnasiums at their own school, but they have lost most of the players from last year's championship squad and other schools throughout the province are reported to have improved the calibre of their play.

Sixteen teams from various areas of the province will begin play at 8 p.m. Friday. Competition will continue all day Saturday with the championship final expected to be played about 9:30 p.m.

FOUR SECTIONS

For opening rounds, teams will be divided into four sections of four clubs each. Top two teams from each section will advance into a championship playoff, while the third and fourth squads will enter a consolation round.

Seeking to dethrone Vic High will be teams from Creston, Maple Ridge, Agassiz, Salmo, Windsor, Pitt Meadows, Edward Milne, Nanaimo, Winfield, Claremont High, Handsworth, Lake Cowichan, Queen Elizabeth High and two clubs from Mission.

Roy Didn't Need Proof Of Lou's Sniping Talent

Oh, Where Are You Going, Johnny Boy?

Sprawling far from his net is Victoria goalie John Henderson, who went dashing up ice in second period at Memorial Arena Wednesday night to knock puck away from Buffalo scoring ace Alain Caron, turning after going back for puck. Henderson's dash gave Fred Hucul (2) and Sandy Hucul (4) time to protect Maple Leaf goal. Henderson's sharp netminding also helped Leafs to 4-2 win over Bisons. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Jankowski Gets 30th Goal As Leafs Bounce Bisons 4-2

Buffalo 2, Victoria 4

By DOUG PEDEN

Roy Edwards probably didn't need a reminder of why people around the Western Hockey League consider Louis Casimer Jankowski almost as sure a thing as taxes.

He certainly didn't want it, but Roy, currently guarding the nets for the American League's Buffalo Bisons, got one anyway Wednesday night at Memorial Arena.

Edwards was the victim as Jankowski popped in his 30th goal of the season while Victoria Maple Leafs were coasting to a 4-2 triumph and handing the Bisons the fourth straight defeat of their series of interlocking games in Western League cities.

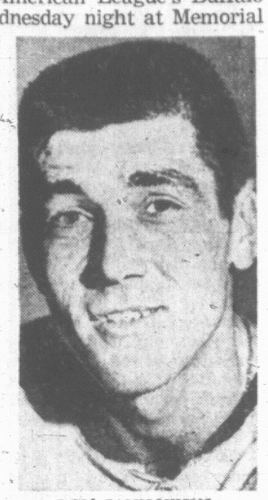
Roy was also around for the start of the remarkably consistent Jankowski scoring string that has now produced 30 or more goals in seven of the last eight WHL seasons.

That was seven years ago while Edwards was winning a WHL rookie award with Calgary Stampeders. It was a happier association for Roy. He was watching Lou win the league goal-scoring crown by notching 45 tallies for the Stamps.

Since then Jankowski has collected more than 40 goals four more times, including a league record 57 in 1960-61, and last season he fired an even 30 for the Leafs. His Wednesday marker made it 316 for his WHL career, tying him with Rudy Filion for third place on the all-time league scoring list.

It's no wonder WHL coaches each year consider Lou a near cinch for the 30-goal bracket.

This hasn't been as easy campaign for the 34-year-old winger. Away to a slow start, Jankowski had only 13 goals at Christmas and he's been battling a series of aches and ailments.



LOU JANKOWSKI
. . . just a habit

He was slowed down for several games in November by a torn thigh muscle. In early January he acquired a painful shoulder injury that hampered him for a month and he had a bout with the 'flu bug in early March, just before being hobbled for several games by an ankle injury.

Nothing Happened to Those Wrists

But nothing happened to the strong wrists and the accurate shot and here he is in his usual place among the 30-goal men.

"I was happy to get that goal," Jankowski said later. "My ankle isn't bothering me any more and I never felt stronger. I should be in good condition for the playoffs."

Already certain of a spot in the playoffs, the Leafs clinched for no worse than a tie for second place with their victory before 2,623 fans. Vancouver's third-place Canucks remained 10 points behind by winning 7-4 Wednesday at Los Angeles and can tie the Leafs only by winning their remaining five games while the Victorians lost their last four.

Andy Hebenton was also shooting for his 30th goal Wednesday and Andy declined his best chance for it to give Milan Marcetta a perfect pass that resulted in Marcetta's 27th.

Marcetta's goal, which made it 3-1 for the Leafs at 13:37 of the first period and proved to be the game-winner, came at the end of a brilliant passing play that involved Claude Labrosse, Bob Barlow and Hebenton.

Steve Witiuk had opened the scoring for the Leafs and Alain Caron, the AHL's leading goal-scorer, evened the count two minutes later on a worm-high boomer from the right side after intercepting a Sandy Hucul pass.

Jankowski neatly steered a Witiuk pass into the net midway in the period and the Leafs were in front to stay.

Buffalo Forwards Neglected Duty

Action was lively in the opening period with the Leafs skating at a good lick and threatening to overwhelm the Bisons with alert and determined forechecking.

Buffalo forwards, who appeared less willing than the Leafs to risk bruises for scoring chances, several times left their defencemen in trouble. While the Victoria front-liners were always ready to help out on defence, the Buffalo wingers often elected to let their rearguards worry about clearing the puck from near the Bison goal and that may have been the difference as the Leafs built up their winning margin.

Perhaps sensing they had a big enough margin for a victory, the Leafs eased up after the opening session and the last two periods were dull and aimless.

The clubs got around to scoring again in the final period. Victoria defenceman Fred Hucul, also a teammate of Edwards with the 1958-59 Stampeders, got his 15th goal and his 53rd point on a blazing slap shot and Buffalo's Mel Pearson wrapped up the scoring.

Leafs, who appear to be recovering from a collection of minor injuries and rounding into top condition in time for playoffs, make their next start Saturday night at Memorial Arena, clashing with the fourth-place Seattle Totems.

SANDY KOUFAX
. . . he's happy

Koufax, Drysdale Sign For Year and More $$$

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale were to start limbering up today after coming to terms with Los Angeles Dodgers.

General manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi said the National League stars signed for "more than $210,000," for one year.

The club Tuesday offered $110,500 to Koufax and $97,500 to Drysdale. But exact figures were not announced after the signing Wednesday.

Speculation is that 26-game winner Koufax, the 1963 and 1965 Cy Young Award winner, got $120,000 and his right-handed team-mate, who had 23 victories, $105,000.

Whatever the figure, it is certain the Dodgers have the first $100,000-a-year pitchers in the history of baseball.

The Dodger duo held out for 32 days. But Koufax said he felt sure they could pitch during the first week of the season, which opens here April 12 against Houston Astros.

The windup of the holdout was dramatic but perhaps not as stunning as the players' original request Feb. 22 for $1,000,000, or $500,000 apiece, on a three-year contract.

Bavasi obtained the release of Koufax and Drysdale from a contract to appear in a movie at Paramount Studios.

Koufax seemed to summarize the attitude of all when he said: "Let's put it this way. Don and I are both happy."

Koufax, who at 196 pounds is about seven or eight under his playing weight, said he hopes to cut down the usual six weeks of spring training to 2½ weeks.

The National League campaign begins April 12.

Koufax said he has not thrown a ball all winter, but his arm feels good and his elbow, which all but put him out of business last spring, feels even better than last year.

Stampeders Sign Star Linebacker

CALGARY (CP)—Wayne Harris, 27, Calgary Stampeder linebacker named outstanding lineman in Canada in 1965, has been signed to a 1966 contract with the Western Football Conference Club.

He was named on the all-Canadian team in 1963, 1964 and 1965, and was runner-up as outstanding lineman in Canada in 1962.

SCHOONERS WIN

Manitoba Clinches Final Spot

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba became the only undefeated team in the Canadian senior men's basketball championship tournament Wednesday when the Winnipeg club sidetracked Ontario 92-75 in the double knockout event.

The victory, Winnipeg's third in a row, assured Manitoba a berth in the championship final Saturday and a finish no worse than 1965 when they were runners-up.

In the other contest, Halifax Schooners kept Nova Scotia's hopes alive by downing Saskatchewan 55-48 to knock the Moose Jaw All-Stars out of the competition. Moose Jaw joins Alberta's Lethbridge squad on the sidelines with four teams left in contention.

In the only contest today, Nova Scotia meets British Columbia. In their first meeting Monday the Schooners dumped the favored Vancouver Grocers 70-64.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The UBC Thunderbirds and Westminster Royals virtually knocked each other out of the Pacific Coast Soccer League playoffs by playing to a 2-2 tie here Wednesday night.

The single point was not enough to keep the Royals' playoff hopes alive. UBC, with one game still to play, against fourth place Columbus Sunday, is one point behind Columbus, but the Italians have four games remaining.

Vancouver Snares Third Hoop Title

HAMILTON (CP)—Vancouver captured its third consecutive Canadian women's senior A basketball title here Wednesday night, edging Hamilton Kittens 41-36.

Vancouver won all three games in the three-day, double-knockout tournament. Hamilton, St. Vital, Man., and Windsor, Ont., each won two games and lost one while St. Lambert, Que., dropped its three games.

Hamilton earned the right to play Vancouver in the finals by whipping St. Vital 55-29. Windsor downed St. Lambert 50-30.

Hamilton took a 14-13 first-quarter lead over Vancouver and held the team to a 25-25 half-time tie. In the third quarter, Vancouver switched to a fast-breaking attack to offset a close-checking Hamilton defence and slowly pulled away.

Darlene Currie paced Vancouver with 18 points while Vale Kingswood scored 10 for Hamilton.

CHUVALO PRAISED . . . . . . FOR VALIANT BATTLE

Sonny Still Losing to Cassius

Times News Services

Aftermath of THE fight . . .

Jack Hand, Associated Press: "Nobody thought George Chuvalo was close to winning, except his own manager, who thought a draw would have been fair.

"To call Chuvalo a winner would have been like giving the catcher credit for a no-hit ball game by Sandy Koufax."

★ ★ ★

Add appraisals of Chuvalo: "If I could get the chance to train him, he'd be the best heavyweight champion after Clay. This is one tough guy." —Angelo Dundee, Clay's manager.

"Tougher than Ernie Terrell, tougher than Sonny Liston, tougher than Floyd Patterson, tougher than all of 'em. That guy's head is the hardest thing I've ever hit and both my hands are swollen," said Cassius Clay.

★ ★ ★

Liston? He's still losing to Clay.

Sonny arrived in Anchorage, Alaska, Tuesday night for an exhibition bout on Saturday, and found no one to meet him.

His manager, his handlers and the promoters were all downtown . . . listening to the Clay-Chuvalo fight.

They said they hadn't expected Liston until Wednesday.

Clay flew back to Chicago early Wednesday, but his pay cheque didn't accompany him.

The Canadian government attached Clay's earnings from the live gate and Canadian closed-circuit television revenue until income tax is deducted.

Meanwhile, Main Bout Inc., the promoter and a financial loser, suffered another setback. Two gunmen Wednesday robbed Los Angeles' Lindy Opera House of $5,300 — the entire cash receipts of Tuesday night's closed-circuit presentation of the bout.

McNeill on Spree; Adds Six to Lead

By The Canadian Press

Vancouver Canucks' centre Bill McNeill increased his lead for the Western Hockey League's scoring championship, picking up six points on two goals and four assists to lead Vancouver to a 7-4 victory over Los Angeles Blades in Los Angeles Wednesday night.

McNeill's season total is now 97 points. Also picking up two goals each in the contest were veteran Phil Maloney and winger Howie Hughes. Larry Cahan scored the other Canuck goal.

Howie Young scored two for Los Angeles, and Bill Orban and Mark Boileau added another each.

Chicago Black Hawks might have to wait another year before they win their first National Hockey League championship.

Montreal Canadiens assured themselves of at least a tie for first place in the standings by defeating Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1 in the only scheduled NHL game Wednesday night.

The Canadiens need only one point out of a possible four in their remaining two games of the schedule to clinch their eighth championship in 10 years while the Hawks must win their two remaining games and hope Montreal loses both.

That would give Chicago a tie for first place. Should this happen, the championship will be decided on the number of goals scored over the season. The Hawks hold an eight-goal lead over the Canadiens so far.

Toronto's loss Wednesday night eliminated any Leafs hopes had of finishing first. Toronto holds down third place, nine points behind Montreal with three games left.

GOALS CAME LATE

The Canadiens got goals from Yvan Cournoyer, Henri Richard and Gilles Tremblay, all in the third period, to wipe out a 1-0 deficit.

Bob Pulford scored his 28th of the season and gave the Leafs the lead in the opening period.

Cournoyer's goal was his 16th of the season and came on a power play with Eddie Shack serving a high-sticking minor penalty early in the third period. The goal was Cournoyer's 15th on a power play this year.

Richard put Montreal ahead mid-way through the third period when he uncorked a hard drive from 35 feet out for his 21st goal of the season.

Tremblay's goal, his 26th of the season, came with less than four minutes remaining to play.

The game ended in a near-fight between Shack and hard-rock John Ferguson of Montreal, who engaged in a brief tugging match at the Montreal blue line. Officials broke it up before any real blows were thrown.

Avery Rink Leads In Seniors' Spiel

WINNIPEG (CP) — British Columbia walked into first place in the national seniors curling championship Wednesday night through a door opened by Russ Sholds' erratic shots.

Sholds, an automobile dealer from Lunenburg who throws skip rocks lefthanded for Nova Scotia, missed key shots in three ends to pave the road for a 9-4 B.C. triumph in the sixth round that pushed Frank Avery of Vancouver into the lead with five victories and one defeat.

Sholds' rink dropped to fifth place with a 3-2 record.

Heading into today's three rounds in the 11-rink round-robin tournament, Alberta and Ontario were second with 4-1 records.

Alberta and B.C. were opponents in the seventh round that also matched Prince Edward Island (4-2) and Ontario, Nova Scotia and Northern Ontario (2-4), Manitoba (3-2) and Saskatchewan (3-3), and Quebec (1-4) and New Brunswick (1-4). Newfoundland (0-6) had the bye.

Alberta swept to its fourth consecutive victory Wednesday as Con Ferguson of Edmonton tripped Jim Burgess of St. John's 12-7 to rap the Newfoundland skip with his sixth successive setback.

Ontario collected its fourth win when Jim Johnston of Cooksville disposed of Scotty Anderson of Winnipeg 9-5 in the fifth round. But defending champion Manitoba bounced back with an 8-4 decision that pushed Wendell Macdonald of Charlottetown and Prince Edward Island out of the top ranks.

WAYNE MacDONNELL
. . . faces 'killer' next

Arnie Shoots Torrid Round

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, playing almost flawless golf, warmed up for the $100,000 Greater Greensboro Open Wednesday by firing an eight-under-par 63 in a pro-am warmup to the tournament which started today.

Palmer stalked the 7,000-yard course with deadly accuracy as he shot a 30-33. He posted six birdies and an eagle.

Junior Startles Senior Rollick

QUEBEC (CP)—Jamie Paulson of Calgary, a junior playing in senior competition by special permission, Wednesday beat Vancouver champion Bruce Rollick in the semi-finals of the Canadian closed badminton championships here.

Paulson, 18, the defending junior singles champion, displayed the footwork of a boxer and the stamina of a miler as he defeated his experienced opponent 15-10, 15-10.

Several hours earlier he whipped former Ontario champion Ed Yablonski of Toronto 15-6, 15-8.

Paulson meets Canadian closed champion Wayne MacDonnell of Vancouver for the men's singles title tonight.

In the other singles semi-final, MacDonnell defeated his longtime doubles partner, Bert Fergus of Vancouver, 15-4, 15-7.

In the women's doubles semi-finals, defending champions Marg Shedd and Dorothy Tinline of Toronto defeated the Victoria twosome of Judy Humber and Alison Daysmith 15-8, 15-7.

The Montreal combination of Mrs. Jean Miller and Patricia Espley downed Sharon Whittaker and Barbara Hood of Toronto 15-5, 15-10 in the other game.

Two brothers from Vancouver, Ed and Rolf Paterson, defeated Yablonski and John Holehouse of Toronto in the men's semi-finals, 15-8, 15-7. They are to meet Jim Carnwath of Toronto and Rollick for the championship today.

In the mixed doubles semi-finals, Montreal's Espley and Yves Pare beat Alison Daysmith and Ed Paterson of Vancouver 15-7, 10-15, 15-4.

Vancouverites Barbara Nash and Ed Paterson also advanced to the finals by defeating the Toronto combination of Marg Shedd and Carnth.

In the junior matches, Sherri Boyce of Calgary whipped Susan Letournerie of Winnipeg 11-1, 11-6. She is defending her singles title this year.

SAMMY STEIN DIES

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Sammy Stein, 60, a professional football player in the 1930's, veteran wrestler and movie actor, died Wednesday. The cause of death was not disclosed.

OLDEST JOCKEY active on North American tracks, Pat Remillard, 60, decided this week to retire after 38 years of racing. President of Ontario branch of Jockeys' Guild, Remillard rode 1,922 winners in 12,896 races.

Another Piece Of Old England Chipped Away

LONDON (AP) — Mrs. Mirabel Topham was granted permission Wednesday to sell the Grand National steeplechase track at Aintree for housing, and racing men throughout the land threw up their hands in horror.

"If the National has to go, I feel it will be a calamity," said Neville Crump, trainer of three Grand National winners.

"Another piece of England has been taken away from us," said Crump voicing the feelings of many horse racing trainers and owners.

Mrs. Topham first proposed selling the course—the home of the Grand National—in 1964. It was estimated she would get £1,000,000 ($3,000,000) for the layout.

Lord Sefton, who sold the course to Mrs. Topham's company in 1949, opposed the sale for housing on the grounds that development for housing would be in breach of the sale agreement.

The House of Lords ruled in favor of Mrs. Topham Wednesday.

Lord Sefton said: "I am assured that before anyone can build houses or factories at Aintree they will first have to get planning permission."

So the future of the Grand National — one of the world's most famous races first run in 1837—still is in the balance.

The last Grand National was run last Saturday with Anglo winning over the tough four miles, 856 yards and 30 obstacles.

Thousands of stories are linked with the National. The first steeplechase—then called the Aintree—was in 1836 won by a horse called the Duke. Captain Becher, a jockey in the race, did not fall at the brook named after him. He dived in for safety.

An indication of the toughness of the course was the fact that in 1839 the obstacles included a five-foot high stone wall and a 15-foot water jump.

There is the story about a horse called Moifaa, winner in 1904. It was said that the horse was shipwrecked on the way from New Zealand and swam nine miles to shore and safety.

Pickles in Stew; Rival Seeks Pot

LONDON (AP) — Pickles, the mongrel dog who found the missing soccer World Cup, found himself with a rival for the £3,000 ($9,000) reward. He is Joe Mears, chairman of the English Football Association.

Pickles went into the financial section of London with his owner, David Corbett, 26, who claimed the reward on behalf of the dog who sniffed out the stolen cup.

"It is unbelievable," said Corbett after talking to the insurance firm. "I didn't think there would be any trouble. I thought the money was as good as in my hand.

"When they told me that Mr. Mears was lodging a claim for information before the police, I was shattered."

Mears said he had put in his claim because "I gave information to the police that led to the eventual finding of the trophy."

This is only half the story...

the other half begins in vineyards uniquely favored by soil and climate, where the Andres' vines of old world heritage, French Columbar, Golden Chasselas and Johannesburg Riesling are tended by master vintagers. After careful pressing of the choicest grapes the new-born wine is deposited in oaken casks to ag and mellow naturally. Every unhurried step, from the ripening of the grapes to the final bottling, is attended by experts who are dedicated to producing fine wine.

This is the half of the story most people never know, but without it, there couldn't be a happy ending.

Cup Choices Avoid Clash

LONDON (Reuters) — Manchester United and Chelsea, the first and second favorites, again avoided each other when the draw for the semifinals of the English Football (Soccer) Association cup was made Monday.

Manchester United, which replays against Preston Wednesday, was drawn to meet either Manchester City or Everton. Chelsea, which still has to overcome Hull in a replay Thursday, will clash with Sheffield Wednesday if successful.

The semifinals will be played on neutral grounds, Saturday, April 23.

A Lancashire club is certain of reaching the final with Manchester fans getting the chance of seeing their two main teams in a semifinal meeting.

Chelsea and Hull have never reached the Wembley final. Sheffield Wednesday was last there 31 years ago.

REDS DIG IN ACROSS BORDER

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops squared off today against a large force of North Vietnamese troops in the dusty hills astride the Cambodian border.

U.S. troops poured into the battleground 220 miles northeast of Saigon as the North Vietnamese were reported digging in just across the frontier. One report said two U.S. helicopters were shot down this morning, raising the number lost in the battle to six.

The battle started Wednesday afternoon when 1,000 North Vietnamese regulars pounced on a U.S. company searching for the crews of two helicopters shot down earlier in the day.

Before dawn today, helicopters brought in two more companies and the Communists, apparently realizing the change in the odds, retreated across the Cambodian border just over a mile to the west, U.S. officers reported.

Continued contact was reported this morning, and American officers said the North Vietnamese were digging in just across the border.

Enemy casualties for the week of March 20-26 were reported as 1,988 killed and 249 captured, compared with 627 killed and 59 captured the week before.

American casualties were 123 killed, 515, wounded and four missing or captured, the command said. The week before there were 80 Americans reported killed, 816 wounded and 17 missing.

BUDDHIST MAJORITY APPLIES PRESSURE

Junta Faces New Threats Over Election Demands

By STEPHEN SOMERVILLE

SAIGON (Reuters)—The pace of the Viet Nam war has been as hot as ever in the past month, but for the ruling Saigon generals it has been overshadowed by a new political threat from within.

Mounting agitation for a speedy return to civilian government has swept out of the northern cities into the capital.

Officials admit that for the United States, with more than 220,000 men fighting the Viet Cong, the unrest is cause for great concern.

The present military government, which assumed power peacefully nine months ago, has proved the most stable since the overthrow of the nine-year regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem in November, 1963.

The 10 generals took over by request last June from Phan Huy Quat's four-month-old civilian government which could not cope with the pressures of the powerful religious groups.

Now, the military government is faced with similar pressure, mainly from the Buddhist majority, to give their power back to civilians.

The movement was triggered March 10 by the decision of the ruling directorate to curb the growing power of one of their number, Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, commander of the northern military region.

Informed sources said Chief of State Lt. - Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky had felt confident they could remove Gen. Thi without much trouble.

But the Buddhists, experienced in effective agitation since the days of Diem, took advantage of signs of protest against Thi's ousting to call for a rapid return to a democratic system of government.

TANK UNIT DEFECTS

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A South Vietnamese armored tank regiment mutinied near Saigon last week and went over to the Viet Cong with its vehicles, the Communist party newspaper Pravda says.

BUS-TRUCK MISHAP

Students Want U.S. Apology

SAIGON (Reuters) — Cartoon drawings of the three leaders of South Viet Nam's ruling military junta were nailed to execution stakes in Saigon's central market place today as thousands of students demonstrated against the government.

The mass demonstration — aimed at forcing the junta to hand over power to an elected civilian administration—was the second and biggest anti-government manifestation here in the last week.

Organized by Buddhist youth members, the demonstrations follow almost three weeks of similar displays of opposition in the major northern cities of Hue and Da Nang.

In Da Nang today, student leaders called on the United Nations to intervene over a traffic accident which occurred Wednesday. They claim that a U.S. military truck tried to break up a line of buses in an anti-government demonstration in the key garrison city.

The Americans said the bus-truck collision was purely accidental.

The students also sent a telegram to President Johnson, demanding an apology within 48 hours, adding that if no reply was received by midnight Friday night "the Vietnamese people cannot guarantee the life and property of Americans in Da Nang."

MLA URGES:

Protect Public On Mining Stock

Two opposition MLAs locked horns Wednesday over whether the government should protect investors from speculating in penny mining stocks.

Gordon Dowding (NDP — Burnaby) said the mines department should take steps to insure that drill core assays and stock promoters' claims coincided.

"The public seems to be going mad about buying shares in moose pastures," he said.

Gordon Gibson (L — North Vancouver) countered that no one knows when a moose pasture will produce a mine.

"Anybody who buys a mining share at less than $1 is buying a sweepstake ticket," he said.

But Mr. Gibson said the government should not try to interfere with the hazards of stock speculation because it would only stultify mining exploration and development.

Mines Minister Donald Brothers steered a middle course between the two positions.

He said his department has no intention of becoming a policing agency but mines department engineers who see suspicious circumstances in the field do report to the superintendent of brokers in the attorney general's department.

'Dangers of Marijuana Should Be Told Students'

The provincial government should spur more education among university and high school students of the dangers involved in taking marijuana for kicks, the legislature was told Wednesday.

Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby) said that at the same time the attitude towards marijuana by society should be changed so it was not classed as a drug as dangerous as cocaine or heroin.

Mr. Dowding said the government should ask the Narcotics Foundation to pursue both matters.

He said more youths continually are taking marijuana and facing stiff penalties for what amounts to a fling.

Mr. Dowding said he heard of one case where a university student faced a mandatory seven-year jail sentence because he received some marijuana in the mail from Mexico.

"I always hate to see students gets into trouble because their whole careers are blasted by some folly in their youth," he said.

"The provincial secretary and attorney-general should give some thought to the use of the Narcotic Foundation for educating university and high school students of the dangers of getting involved with this thing."

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said he agreed.

PILOTS FLY AGAIN

More than 1,000 pilots have saved their lives by using ejection seats.

But he said the law should be more severe on drug pushers.

"I'm for capital punishment for these people. They are the lowest form of animal life that crawls upon the face of the earth."

VOTER REGISTRATION

Cabinet May Study Proposal

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black Wednesday said he was certain the cabinet will consider the desirability of a full-scale enumeration of provincial voters.

He was replying to criticisms by Gordon Dowding (NDP — Burnaby) and David Barrett (NDP — Dewdney).

Mr. Dowding said the present system requiring provincial voters to register themselves creates a considerable amount of confusion and frustration, resulting in thousands being disfranchised.

Mr. Barrett said a recent survey of Vancouver showed that a large number of Greater Vancouver residents change their residence each year.

"That would seem to indicate that hundreds of thousands of people will not have the vote simply because they have moved since these registration cards will not be forwarded to their new addresses," he said.

Both said enumeration — as is done for federal elections — must be undertaken before the next provincial election.

"As far as I'm concerned, the cabinet will certainly consider enumeration," Mr. Black replied.

Hearing Set For October

Attorney-General Robert Bonner Wednesday said the Supreme Court of Canada reference on off-shore mineral rights will be heard in October.

He said a tentative date has been set for that month.

Mr. Bonner was replying in the legislature to questions by Liberal Leader Ray Perrault regarding the constitutional reference ordered to decide the jurisdictional dispute between B.C. and the federal government.

Park Mining Revenue Urged for Recreation

Social Credit whip Bert Price Wednesday said any government revenue from mining in provincial parks should be turned over to the recreation and conservation department.

Mines Minister Donald Brothers made no comment on the proposal.

"It appears there will be some mining in the parks and I hope it will be as little as possible," Mr. Price said in the legislature.

"Any revenue from mining operations within a park area should become available to the department of recreation and conservation. It seems to me that that department has little enough revenue."

Mr. Price was secretary of the special legislative committee which recommended that Western Mines Ltd. be given permission to build a townsite inside Strathcona Park.

Fire Doused In Poolroom

City fire engines were called to the Royal Olympic Hotel, 642 Johnson, at 10:45 Wednesday morning when a fire broke out in the hotel poolroom.

The fire, which had been started by a cigarette butt, was quickly exinguished.

Hotel proprietors report only slight smoke damage.

GORGE SOCIETY PRESIDENT:

Municipalities Not Paying Share of Hospital Costs

Municipalities are not chipping in their due share on local hospital costs, Gorge Road Hospital Society's annual meeting was told Wednesday night.

While federal and provincial governments both are willing to pay their share, municipalities are not contributing what they should, said president Mrs. Irene Warren in her report.

"Some equitable method of garnering the community's share of capital funds" must be reached, she said, "if we are to keep pace with the health care needs of the community."

ANTIQUATED METHOD

"The now antiquated method of knocking on doors, hat in hand" was rapped.

Instead, the report stated, a cost-sharing plan between all three levels of government should be worked out.

Hospital improvement districts, municipal grants and regional boards fill the gap in other B.C. municipalities, Mrs Warren said.

Current annual operating budget of Gorge Road Hospital is more than $500,000, Mrs Warren said in her report.

Number of patients treated at the hospital in 1965 rose 4.3 per cent over the previous year's figure, she stated.

But length of stay was reduced 4.7 per cent during the same period.

Mrs. Warren was re-elected president of the society. Harold Lupton was elected vice-president; George Maycock, honorary treasurer; and W. L. Straith, honorary solicitor.

Ken Leeming, William Hooson, George Maycock and Harold Lupton were elected to the board of directors.

Impaired Driver Fined $350 After Collision

A motorist involved in a March 7 collision at Gorge and Government pleaded guilty in central court Tuesday to impaired driving.

Donald MacSween, 2401 Alpine Crescent, was fine $350.

He was also placed on a $350 bond to drive only for business purposes for six months.

Court was told damage to both autos was $875.

PAINT UP DRIVE STARTS

First Swing for Brush

Victoria's third annual "paint up" drive opened officially Wednesday at a Victoria Real Estate Board luncheon at the Empress Hotel.

Guest speaker Mayor A. W. Toone told the meeting that Victoria must continue with its major urban renewal projects.

"What we do or fail to do now will have a profound effect on our lives," he said.

Mayor Toone added that the paint-up campaign in 1964 was of average success but that one year later the program had come into its own.

"In 1965 some 85 buildings joined in the paint-up plan," the mayor said. "The paint-up plan for 1966 is not a make-work program nor a paint sales campaign. People like to shop in pleasant surroundings therefore the paint-up campaign should be regarded as a sound business investment."

Howard Quinn, color consultant for the city, followed Mayor Toone on the speaker's rostrum.

With colored slides demonstrating the progress the city has made in brightening areas stricken by urban blight, Mr. Quinn said it was "mandatory that we so arrange our environment that it is pleasing to the eye and good for the soul."

With Mayor Toone at the head table were Reeves Allan Cox of Oak Bay, Hugh Curtis of Saanich and Ray Bryant of Esquimalt.

Chairman of the meeting was Leslie Pope, president of the Real Estate Board.

FARMER WINS CONTRACT FOR OFFICES

Farmer Construction has won the contract to build a second storey above the stores flanking one side of Centennial Square.

At a special meeting called Wednesday afternoon it was announced that the project, costing $49,615, would commence immediately with a 60-day completion clause written into the contract.

When completed the second storey will offer 2,200 square feet of floor space for rent.

Air Canada will occupy the office section facing Douglas Street and the square. The balance of the building will be rented to professional businessmen.

Ape Bites Hand

SAIGON (Reuters)—A school boy who stuck his hand through the bars of the ape cage at Saigon Zoo to tease the occupants had two fingers bitten off by an ape.

Labor, Chamber To Meet

Mayor A. W. Toone takes on the role of peace maker next Tuesday when he attempts to get the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the Victoria Labor Council to see eye-to-eye.

Labor Council has criticized Victoria City Council for making an annual grant of $2,500 to the chamber.

Labor has claimed that the chamber is an anti-labor group and undeserving of support.

Countering the attack the chamber has stated that the labor group is uninformed on the work done by the chamber in the community.

Next Tuesday chamber president Richard Bower and Council secretary-treasurer Harry Anderson will meet in the mayor's office in an attempt to get the two groups working together.

One NDP-er Against 5% Ceiling

The bill limiting school assessment increases to 5 per cent a year as a result of rising market values passed third reading in the legislature with only one dissenting vote Tuesday night.

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) opposed the measure because the government did not agree to adjourn it so that Vancouver city council could have time to make a formal protest.

Mr. Macdonald said the council felt the limitation would increase homeowners' taxation because it would shift some of the burden from promoters, speculators and industrial property owners.

Ex-Premier Dies

Uvic Physicists Win $57,800 In Three Grants

Three University of Victoria physicists have received Defence Research Board grants for work under way at the university.

The grants total $57,800.

The largest is $30,000 for Dr. W. M. Barss, who is conducting research into noise made by sea ice grinding together. Sonar equipment for sounding depths is hampered by the noise.

A $14,000 grant has been given to Dr. J. M. Dewey for shock tube research at the university.

Dr. Harry W. Dosso has received a $13,800 grant for research into electrical and magnetic fields of the earth.

Dr. Dewey and Dr. Barss hope to link their research with Uvic's new graduate studies school, starting in fall.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1966--PAGE 25

Arthur Mayse

As a taxpayer with an optimistic turn of mind, I have always retained a lively little hope, when each successive federal finance minister prepared to bring down his budget, that he would turn out to be the Robin Hood we've been waiting for.

The new finance chief would break the established pattern. He would take from the rich, give to the poor, and keep his hooks out of the hard-pressed fellow who has toiled a few rungs up the fiscal ladder.

Last year I ventured to think we might have such a one in Walter Gordon, who ordained a 10 per cent personal income tax cut that let me put new rubber on my wheels.

But Gordon's out—Mitchell Sharp is in—and the budget released this week by the Hon. Mr. Sharp knocks optimism galley-west.

What he's going to do, Mr. Sharp tells us with a wolfish smile, is borrow from the rich at five-and-a-half per cent interest, give the low bracket earner a barely visible easement, and smack the middle-income Canadian right in the kisser.

★

Since that's the way it's going to be, I suppose we had better accept Finance Minister Sharp's assurance that prosperity will linger longer if he lightens our pockets of excess spending money.

First, though, I propose to deliver myself of certain thoughts that have been irking me for a considerable time.

These concern Canada's forgotten man: the patient, hard-working, uncomplaining character who supports our national sky with one hand and his family with the other.

His gross income may reach $10,000 a year. The rich look down on him, the loafer is convinced he makes it by robbing widows and orphans and the intellectual despises him as bourgeois.

He must dress himself, his wife and his children reasonably well. He is a payer of insurance premiums and dues to this organization or that. He supports charities, and is expected to help his young achieve an education which may extend into and through university.

Each month he shucks out car and mortgage payments and from him each year are extracted taxes both direct and hidden, by local, provincial and federal governments.

This is the middle income man; and personally, I consider him our country's unsung hero.

Even on his vacation he rarely has much fun. The habit of work is too deeply ingrained and the chances are strong that he comes to his playtime overweight and under-exercised.

If a coronary doesn't get him, retirement will. He may go up but he daren't go down. Except for his wife, nobody is likely to spare him a moment's pity.

★

More than once, in this city or others, I have seen how it goes with the middle income man when circumstance topples him off his perch.

His small business, if he owns one, goes on the rocks. Or, as happens frequently enough these days to point a warning, a company policy revised to match the advance of automation makes his job unnecessary.

He finds himself adrift with his severance pay, the sum of his contributions to a pension plan, such slight savings as the family may have been able to acquire, and the cash in his pockets.

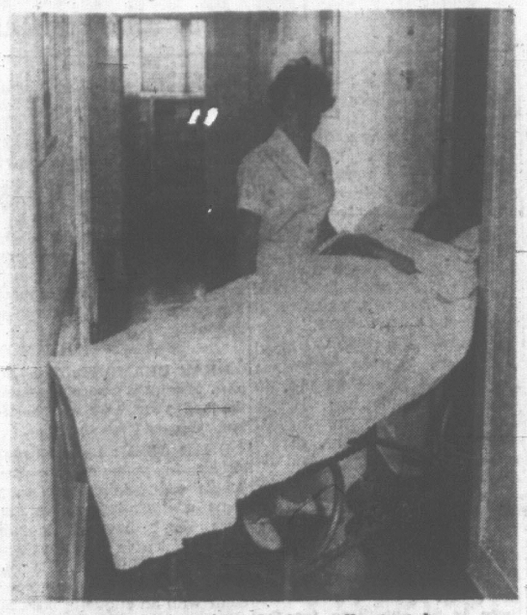
At this point in his life, he is, let us say, 47 years old.

The thing he must not, dare not, do is visibly depart from the way of life he has established. For him to give up, start again at the bottom, is unthinkable. The jobs down there are for the young beginner.

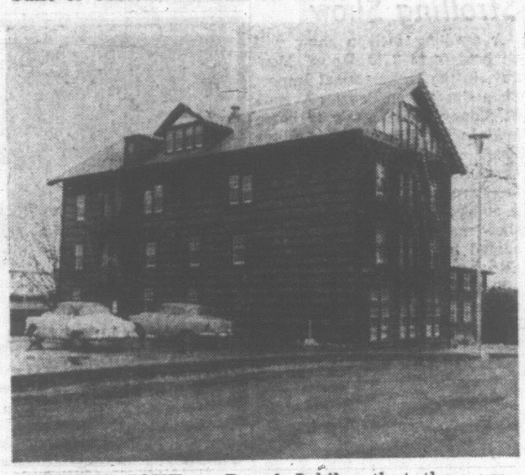
Only by maintaining his front can he hope to re-establish himself.

Even though the family doesn't miss a meal, there is a deal of plain and fancy suffering involved in these unpublicized tragedies. They have put men in mental hospitals and even removed them by the carbon monoxide route.

The lucky, soon or late, find a life-line. Rescued, restored to the middle income bracket, they can once more help prop the sky with one hand, while with the other, they pay unto Caesar their whopping taxes.



SMALLER PATIENTS and small stretchers are needed at Rest Haven Hospital, Sidney, where corridors are too narrow for turning and where beds must be dismantled if moved from room to room. The 56-bed hospital is 54 years old and built of obsolete wooden frame.



INTERNS JOKE at Royal Jubilee that they are called interns because they are interned in this 57-year-old wooden structure which also houses many of the hospital's offices. Qualified staff prefers hospitals with modern facilities. Hospital competition for trained staff is intense. Victoria suffers in comparison, often loses trained people.

Needs of Sick Not Being Met Hospital Official Maintains

By PETE LOUDON

A worsening situation of overcrowding and obsolete facilities in capital district hospitals was outlined to the Victoria Rotary Club today.

Patrick Blewett, assistant administrator at St. Joseph's Hospital, underlined his story with photographs taken in various hospitals.

He charged at a luncheon meeting of the club at Empress Hotel that the needs of the sick and the injured in this community are not being met.

His slides and commentary revealed:

- There are still 1,700 people waiting admission to acute hospital beds and the shortage of beds is increasing by 30 beds every 12 months.
- Persons who are ill but not in danger are waiting up to three months for hospital admission.
- At St. Joseph's it is not uncommon to see patients lined up waiting to use a bathroom.
- Patients waiting X-ray examination rest on stretchers or wheelchairs in a crowded public corridor.
- Interns and administration staff in Royal Jubilee share facilities in a 57-year-old frame building. Rest Haven Hospital is itself a 54-year-old frame building which was never designed for hospital use, but as a clinic.
- A typical room in the nurses' residence at St. Joseph's uses apple boxes for furniture and the major storage space is under the bed.

Mr. Blewett said:

"I am not suggesting that the standards of care in local hospitals are lacking. On the contrary the staff recognizes the deficiencies and puts forth an extra effort to ensure that the quality of care is equally as good as will be found anywhere.

HOW LONG?

"The point I make is, how long are we going to be satisfied with having our sick cared for in sub-standard hospital facilities?"

Mr. Blewett charged that Victoria "unlike most areas in this province and in this country," has never developed a systematic approach towards the provision of capital funds for hospitals."

He said hospitals are themselves responsible for 35 per cent of new construction costs, one-third of renovation costs and two-thirds of the cost of equipment.

The practice has been to raise these amounts by public appeals. Last November an attempt was made to bring all the municipalities and districts of the capital region into a plan whereby a regular income would come to hospitals through a property tax levy. The plan was defeated by ratepayers.

STUDY COMING?

"I understand a study of the whole question of provincial-municipal finance, including the question of financing hospital capital requirements is under consideration by the minister of municipal affairs and the local mayor and reeve." He hoped these studies would produce an answer to the current problems.

Mr. Blewett added:

"Even if we commenced construction immediately, additional beds could not be made available in less than 18 months to two years. By that time, at the present progression, you would have to wait a full six months for an elective surgical operation."

PATRICK BLEWETT . . . makes appeal

SURGICAL WARD at St. Joseph's holds 41 beds, crammed together so that working areas are too small. Rigging special equipment like oxygen tents is an almost hopeless chore. Patients often are lined up waiting for bathroom.

PUBLIC CORRIDOR is waiting room for stretcher and wheel-chair patients awaiting X-ray at St. Joseph's. X-ray equipment is 25 years old. Patients have strong views on need for new, larger facilities. But there is no provision for anyone who is in hospital to vote.

Wonder Drug Fights Five New TB Infections

Five local schoolchildren who registered positive to tuberculosis skin tests are being dosed with a TB "wonder drug."

The youngsters, known to have been infected recently, are being treated to prevent the possibility of developing active TB disease, said Operation Doorstep officials.

The five are among nearly 1,000 Greater Victoria schoolchildren who have had positive reactions to the skin tests in the massive campaign to locate TB and other chest diseases.

No active cases of TB have been discovered among them so far, say officials, although 25 "positive" cases are still being investigated.

The percentage of "positive" reactions among youngsters here, higher than in Vancouver, does not mean that more Victoria children have been infected by the TB germ than on the mainland, said officials.

"It is true that a higher percentage of children had a positive reaction to the TB skin test than in Vancouver but there are other reasons for this," said Dr. R. M. Lane, medical director of the Vancouver Island Chest Clinic.

"There are many Victoria children, especially those of military personnel, who have lived in Europe, Quebec or Newfoundland.

"Many of them have received BCG vaccine."

BCG vaccine is a short-term TB vaccine, similar to polio or smallpox vaccines, although less effective.

While BCG gives the youngsters some protection from TB, it also gives them a positive reaction to the TB skin test, said Dr. Lane.

Effect of the vaccine is being studied by Operation Doorstep officials and will be taken into account in the final results of the campaign.

MOBILE UNITS

The first day of the operation's work using four mobile units this week in the Greater Victoria area saw 1,169 persons tested.

In the Sooke and Colwood areas, officials reported 10,266 persons were tested, or slightly over 100 per cent of the estimated population, because of recent growth.

One nurse reported that in one day's testing of 511 persons, 232 of them were under six years old.

Grievances On Ferries May Be Heard

The provincial cabinet will consider appointing a board to hear grievances of B.C. Ferry Authority employees, the legislature was told Wednesday night.

But Provincial Secretary Wesley Black would not say when he will take the matter to the cabinet.

"Can the minister assure me a board of reference will be appointed immediately?" asked Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East).

Mr. Black would only reply that he realized "problems are taking place in the ferry service of a serious nature and I don't want to minimize this at all.

"I had hoped some of the dissatisfaction which exists there can be ironed out" by William T. McLaughlin who assumes the post of personnel officer for the authority Friday.

LONG HOURS

Ferry workers have petitioned for a board of reference to hear their complaints against a new shift system involving long hours during the summer season.

Mr. Macdonald said it appeared the cabinet was trying to ignore the request.

"You are courting trouble when you deny the limited appeal these people have," he warned.

"If labor relations deteriorate further, the sole responsibility will be on the government's shoulders."

Research Ship Starts In June

A construction start will be made in June on a $2,000,000 ocean research ship ordered by the mines department earlier this year, a spokesman for Yarrows Ltd. said today.

Yarrows was low bidder on the contract for the 130-foot vessel last February and working drawings are now being prepared.

The ship, scheduled for completion within 18 months, will be 570 gross tons, with a 31-foot beam and a draft of 14 feet, three inches. It is to have a single screw with 580 shaft diesel horsepower.

Deposit Seals Building Sale At Bastion

Victoria's finance committee confirmed this morning that a definite offer has been received by the city for the Heaney building on Bastion Square.

Sale of the building to a syndicate of businessmen was first reported in the Times on March 17.

City assessor Alfred Joyce told the finance committee a 10 per cent deposit cheque had been received and that detailed plans for the renovation of the building were being worked out.

Price of the building has been set at $37,000.

"We had hoped to be able to bring the completed deal to committee this morning, but the syndicate hasn't worked out details of its plans yet," city manager Dennis Young said.

Before the sale can be completed the syndicate's plans must be approved by city council to ensure that any changes planned fit in with the renovation of Bastion Square.

No Tax Return Costs Man $25

Richard Paiha, 1543 Mortimer, was fined $25 in central court today for failing to file a 1964 income tax return.

He pleaded guilty to a charge laid under the Income Tax Act.

GRANT HASSLE

Victoria to Pay —Perhaps Alone

Three organizations assured of municipal grants several months ago will get at least Victoria's share of the monies promised.

Grants had been promised to the Junior Mens' Basketball Association ($1,250) the Left-Handed Golfers' Association ($3,500) and the Dominion Drama Festival ($4,000) on an intermunicipal basis.

But although the Intermunicipal Committee agreed to go along with a five-way split of the $8,750, Esquimalt council later declined to share the costs.

Oak Bay said it was prepared to go along with the grants providing all municipalities were counted in. Victoria made the same promise. Saanich council has not yet made a decision, neither has Central Saanich.

This morning the finance committee decided Victoria could no longer sit on the fence awating unanimous approval from all municipalities.

"We are abligated to pay our share whatever the others decide," said Ald. Clyde Savage. "I think we should recommend to council that we pay our share on the Intermunicipal formula. If other councils follow Esquimalt and decline to pay their share we'll have to take another look at the situation."

The decision means that Victoria, providing city council agrees with the committee decision, will pay its share of the costs now and may later pick up the entire tab.

The grants for the three organizations aroused the ire of Oak Bay and Esquimalt representatives at an Intermunicipal Committee meeting some weeks ago when Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay complained that the grant promises had been made by Victoria without the backing of other municipalities.

QORs Planning Boom Encore

Members of the Queen's Own Rifles will be conducting firing exercises again Saturday morning at Albert Head.

An armed Forces spokesman said the exercises would not be cancelled despite a large number of protests over cracking booms which resulted from a similar exercise last Tuesday.

Parents Fear For Children In Poisoning

Seven Dogs Victims Of Scattered Strychnine

By GLEN ALLEN

A small Colwood crossroads community of young families spent the past week in fear of their children's lives.

The paths, parkland and playgrounds of their neighborhood had been littered, in some unknown way, by some unknown person or thing, with poison.

The evidence is incontrovertible.

Four dogs, pets of families in the Pickford and Donovan Roads area, just off Sooke Road near Metchosin Road intersection, ate poison and died. Another three nearly died.

SPCA and Colwood spokesmen today confirmed that almost all of the stricken dogs ate strychnine.

Mrs. Irene Noakes, 3044 Pickford, lost a five-month-old Springer Spaniel puppy March 19. Four days later her other older dog, Spot, went into convulsions. Spot recovered.

"We just hate it," says Mrs. Noakes. "The puppy kept the old dog young and the kids happy."

"But what about our children?" Do we have to wait for a child to die before something is done?"

UP IN ARMS

Mrs. Patricia Heaslip, 718 Donovan, whose own cougar hound, Trixie, was poisoned and recovered, and who two days later, March 20, found a dog dead on her back lawn, echoes her neighbors feelings.

"We're up in arms about it. The children use the same paths, go through the same bushes as the dogs. And they don't always do what they're told.

"You can keep your dogs locked up, but not children."

Mrs. Heaslip, who has children aged eight and five, had kept her cougar hound locked in the house for 42 days while the dog was in season. She let her out one afternoon at four o'clock, looked out the window an hour later to see her on her side twitching on the lawn.

On March 20 a dog belonging to Wayne Antrobus, 3037 Pickford was poisoned. It later recovered.

The same day Mrs. R. Richardson, 701 Donovan lost her dog.

The first dog to die, a part Labrador, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heller, 2323 Sooke Rd., was poisoned March 16. "Doc" was their seven-year-old boy's pet.

"We thought we'd wait awhile before getting another one," said Mrs. Heller.

David Beeching, SPCA manager who has been investigating the epidemic of poisonings agrees that the real danger, despite the anguish of loss of pets, is to children.

"The kids and dogs are always together out there," he said.

Colwood RCMP who have been making an intensive search for the source of the poison, say they haven't come up with an answer yet.

"There are a few rat poisons containing strychnine, and sometimes mink farmers use it, but we don't see how dogs would be exposed to it," said an RCMP officer.

"We have been working with the community on this — they haven't given us a lead so far. They can't point a finger at anyone who might want their dogs killed."

This is the second rash of dog poisonings in the Greater Victoria area to come to light recently.

A number of dogs and cats were found to have been poisoned around Cadillac Avenue in Saanich shortly after Christmas.

Ask The Times

Q. Which city in Canada gets the most sunshine? How does Victoria rate with other cities? A.R.P.

A. Regina is tops with an average of 2,278 hours per year, says the local weather office.

Edmonton comes next with 2,208 and Victoria is third with one hour less at 2,207.

The statistics are based on a 30-year average.

Q. I wrote a civil service exam and I flunked. Do I get an opportunity to try again? G.R.

A. In most cases the answer is 'yes,' say both federal and provincial civil service commissions.

In the provincial exam, there is a waiting period and in the federal exam it depends on the job you applied for and when the next competition will be.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

4-H DELEGATES URGED

'Discourage Teen-Age Drinking'

Fifteen 4-H Junior Farm Club members from British Columbia will be chosen to attend a centennial seminar in Quebec and to visit Expo 67 in Montreal.

Sharon R. McArthur, 4-H extension home economist, told a two-day meeting of the 4-H Club Advisory Council Wednesday that delegates will be chosen at Provincial 4-H Club week in July, 1967.

The young farm people will leave B.C. by train Aug. 2 and will arrive Aug. 5 for the seminar to he held at L'Esterel, a resort in the Laurentians.

They will later spend two days visiting Expo. 67.

A total of 200 4-H delegates representing Canada's 10 provinces will attend the seminar.

Eighteen 4-H leaders from all parts of the province are attending the meeting at Century Inn. They were welcomed Wednesday by A. H. Turner, deputy minister of Agriculture.

Ralph Barichello, president, expressed concern at the growing tendency of young people to rely on alcoholic drinks in order to have a good time.

Consumption of alcohol by high school and university students seemed to be on the increase, he said.

Agricultural students at the University of B.C., he said, cancelled a dance because the dean refused to request for a licence for the sale of alcohol.

He urged 4-H leaders as indivicuals to do what they can to discourage the consumption of spirits among young people.

Parties Never Fail When You Use These

By PENNY SAVER

Spring fever seems to have hit fatally in Victoria. Nothing would be more idyllic than to spend the days wandering listlessly through blossomed lanes, absorbing the sunshine and taking deep breaths of perfumed air. It sounds so very tempting. A new season is always exciting, I suppose, for the sole reason that it is a new segment of the year when changes from the last are evident. Spring is a debut into summer, and a season for parties and fun.

At the last party that I had, I thought I had been organized enough to think of everything. The idea that for once I had remembered everything did not seem plausible in lieu of so many past experiences, but I was hopeful anyway. As the evening progressed, and everything was in full swing, I ran out of ice. The few trays I did have melted away, and in my hurry to make more cubes, I turned the temperature of the refrigerator down to what I thought was the coldest. Unfortunately, I had set it on "defrost".

I found an item that I'm sure will avoid a repetition of such a calamity. It is an insulated ice bucket. This handy device, of course, prevents ice cubes from melting while they are ready and convenient to use on demand.

This party saver has a solid black background with a Japanese motif in delicate shades. It's a boon to all special occasions for just $4.95. The inside of the bucket is lined with aluminum, so there are no worries at all about leakage.

Insulated tumblers are always handy to have around the house. I found a set of six 12-ounce tumblers selling for $9.95. These vacuum-sealed gems are made of tough plastic with a scratch-proof finish. The double-walled insulation is ideal for hot or cold beverages. These come in a deep gold shade, with a gleaming black trim around the thin drinking lip. If you are in the party mood, these are for you.

If you would like to know where Penny found these items, give her a call at 382-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Know These Equivalents for Reducing and Recipe Reading

I think many women would like a quick review of the correlation between ounces and drops, teaspoons and tablespoons, and half-cups and pints, etc.

Lowman

This is important not only when following a recipe, but when reducing. It is impossible to count the calories correctly unless you have this information since different measures are used in different recipes.

For instance, if you are using an artificial sweetener in a recipe, and it says so many drops, you may not have a dropper. Therefore, it is helpful to know that there are 60 drops in a teaspoon. You may already know some of the following, but look the list over.

There are 60 drops in a teaspoon.

There are 3 teaspoons in 1 tablespoon.

Two tablespoons equal 1 ounce.

Four tablespoons equal ¼ cup or 2 ounces.

Five tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon make one-third cup.

There are 8 tablespoons or 4 ounces in ½ cup, and 16 tablespoons, or 8 ounces in a cup or a usual-size glass.

Ten tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons make two-thirds cup.

Sixteen tablespoons equal a full cup.

Two cups make 1 pint, or 1 pound.

Two pints make one quart or 2 pounds.

When reducing, a menu says "1 teaspoon" or "1 tablespoon." This means a level teaspoon or tablespoon. When it says "a medium portion of meat or fish or fowl," it usually means about 3 ounces, not more than 4.

A pat of butter usually means a slice off a quarter-pound stick. The slice should be about ¼ inch thick. This is a little more than ½ tablespoon. Since 1 tablespoon of butter has 100 calories, then the pat has about 65.

When no amount is given, you can eat all you want. This is often done on reducing diets, with such items as celery or greens.

If you would like to have my calorie chart, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Grandmother Here From England For Willoughby-Oldman Wedding

Travelling from Wallsend-on-Tyne, England, to hear vows exchanged between Diane Oldman and Francis Willoughby May Jr., Saturday evening were the groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Jobling, and his aunt, Mrs. Nellie Davison. Here from Tofino, B.C., was Miss Kathy Brooks.

Fr. M. Costelloe officiated at the ceremony in St. Andrew's Cathedral, uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. James Oldman, Hampshire, England, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. May, 828 Reed Street. Arrangements of spring flowers decorated the church.

The bride wore a dress of aqua blue crepe, styled with an A-line skirt, overlayed with blue lace. The bodice featured a scoop neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Her shoulder-length veil misted from a jewelled tiara. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white hyacinths. John R. Webb gave the bride in marriage.

Maid of honor Miss Dana Fee wore a sheath dress of pink crepe, with an overlay of pink lace. A sleeveless coat with a high neckline topped her ensemble. A pink satin rose held her veil. Pink carnations and heather were in her bouquet.

Little Patricia Moore was flower girl in a dress of coral nylon chiffon over taffeta. Her short veil was held by a matching rose. She carried a bouquet of coral carnations and heather.

Raymond May was best man for his brother, and guests were ushered by John Troughton and Alex Wilks.

Spring flowers decorated the Tally-Ho Travelodge for the reception which followed. Alex Wilks proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

For travelling on a honeymoon motoring trip to California, the new Mrs. May chose a navy blue shift dress with white accents around the collar and sleeves. A three-quarter-length pink knit coat topped her ensemble. Her outfit was completed by a pink flowered hat.

When they return, the couple will live at 934 Selkirk Avenue.

DEAR ABBY . . .

No Substitute For the Truth

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We don't exactly need advice but we do need your help. My daughter, (I'll call her Maureen) became engaged to a very nice young man she'd gone through college with. He gave her a diamond and we announced their engagement at a lovely dinner party. We started making the wedding plans when Maureen told us that the young man had asked for more time to think about it because he wasn't "sure."

Maureen says she has good reason to believe there is another girl in the picture, so she returned his ring. Here's where you come in. I told Maureen not to worry, that I would write to you, and good old Abigail would help us make up a convincing story to tell people. Will you?

MAUREEN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: "Good old Abigail" quit making up stories years ago when she learned there is no substitute for the truth. Tell people the engagement is off and don't volunteer any details.

DEAR ABBY: Last night my husband and I went to a housewarming party for some friends. The invitations read, "From 7 until 9." About 9 a couple of guests began moving the furniture so they could dance. My husband wanted to leave, but I thought it would be okay to stay and dance a while since a few others were dancing. The party lasted a lot longer then we thought it would. Were we wrong to stay and dance?

BEAMONT

DEAR BEAMONT: Yes. At 9 p.m. promptly, you should have thanked your host and hostess and "danced" out the door.

DEAR ABBY: I see so many letters in your column from people complaining because some of their friends or relatives don't have good table manners. I once read that when Albert Einstein wanted a good laugh, he'd curl up in a comfy chair with an etiquette book and go into hysterics. He thought the "rules of etiquette" were the funniest things ever written. So do I.

Why should there be only one "proper" way to eat a spear of asparagus? How ridiculous to judge a person on his table manners. My husband is the kindest, most gentle man in all this world, and if he wants to cut up all the meat on his plate at once, and butter a whole slice of bread and shovel it in, God bless him. He paid for it himself, which is more than you can say for a lot of society moochers.

SAID MY SAY

CONFIDENTIAL TO RUTH: All men do not cheat on their wives. But it's a pretty safe bet that the man who says they do, cheats on his!

Ceremony at Sooke

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will officiate at the opening, Saturday afternoon, of the new club lounge of Sooke Branch No. 54, Royal Canadian Legion. That evening, His Honor and Mrs. George R. Married in Arizona

A wedding of wide interest to Victorians took place last Friday in Arizona, when Ona Lee Oviatt, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Oviatt of Vancouver, became the bride of Airman Charles Brian Small, USAF, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Small, 1584 Elm Street, Victoria. The chapel in Luke Air Force Base, Phoenix, was the setting for the double-ring ceremony at which Capt. H. Pike officiated. Given in marriage by Mr. W. L. Cooper, the bride wore a knit suit of navy blue, accented with white accessories. Her chapel-length veil misted from a fan-shaped headpiece of peau de soie and she carried a white Bible. Yellow roses were in her corsage. Her only attendant was the groom's sister, Miss Helen Small, who, with his mother, flew from Victoria for the ceremony. The bridesmaid was in a linen suit of olive green, complemented with a floral headpiece en tone, edged with a veil, and white accessories. Best man was Airman Rudolph Torres, USAF. PARENTS ATTEND GREENWICH CEREMONY

Victorian Wed in Connecticut

A wedding of wide interest in Victoria took place in St. Mary's Church in Greenwich, Conn., when Cathleen Louise Olin became the bride of Patrick Carlyle. Grant. The groom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ronald M. Grant, 1514 Shorncliffe Drive, Victoria, travelled to Connecticut to attend the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Olin of Greenwich and was given in marriage by her father. Her statuesque gown had an A-line skirt of silk satin and detachable cathedral train. Imported re-embroidered Alencon lace formed the gown's bodice.

Framing her face was a delicate mantilla of the same lace. Her cascade bouquet was formed of white dianthus and Jack Frost roses, accented with ivy sprays.

The church was decorated with white gladioli, snap dragons and carnations for the morning service at which Rev. John Gilmartin officiated.

Miss Ellen Keough was maid of honor for her cousin. She chose a straight-lined gown of avocado green satin, fashioned with a back panel and overblouse of Chantilly lace, intriguingly lined in blue. Delicate veiling edged her matching headbow and ivy enhanced her cascade bouquet of Elegance dianthus.

Lawrence King was best man and ushering guests to their pews were the bride's brother, John J. Olin Jr. and Richard Muldoon. Mr. King later proposed the toast to the bride's happiness at the champagne reception which followed in the Greenwich New Englander Hotel.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Post of New York, Mr. and Mrs. D. Gedney of Danbury, Conn., brother-in-law and sister of the groom.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Bermuda, the bride wore a turquoise walking suit and hat of white fur.

The newlyweds are now making their home at Greenwich.

Suggests Family Living Diploma Become Requisite for Marriage

MONTREAL (CP) — A member of the Quebec Family Superior Council would like to see the day when engaged couples could be married only if they had a certificate from a course in family living.

"I hope the day will come when ministers will refuse to marry couples unless they have taken just such a course," says Mrs. Peter Kerrigan, one of two women sitting on the nine-member council.

The council was set up in 1964 to advise the minister of family and social welfare on matters relating to the role of the family in Quebec.

Mrs. Kerrigan, who is also a vice-president of the Montreal Council of Social Agencies and the Family Service Association, says:

"If we are agreed that family is the best institution yet invented to bring up children — and certainly all social scientists seem to agree that it is— then improving family life is the basic way of attacking social problems.

CUTS DIVORCES

"I feel very strongly about education for family living, as does the council, since it is usually the people who get a bum start in life who suffer these problems."

Experiments conducted with engaged couples in Chicago seemed to bear this out. There had been a lower divorce rate among 800 couples who had discussed all aspects of marriage with a doctor in interviews.

Mrs. Kerrigan, mother of four children aged 10 to 17 and holder of a master's degree in social work, says the council is concerned with problems faced by families at all income levels.

"The basic thing is to strengthen all families and not just the ones that are economically weak. There's so much discussion about the war on poverty, but social problems attack families at all levels."

She says some existing legislation encourages families to break apart. The council, in its advisory capacity, hoped to help bring about changes.

For example, the government would support a child in a foster home but wouldn't help the same child if its mother was a widow and wanted to keep the child at home.

One area of family life being investigated by the council is that of the mother who must work because her earnings are essential to her family's upkeep.

The council is looking into the effects of her role on the children, it's checking on services she might require and is looking into the availability of part-time jobs and day nurseries.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice:

What is the secret of a nice flat "faced" edge of a garment?

Mrs. T. B.

Dear Mrs. T. B.:

First, grade the seams properly. This means trimming the seams to ⅛-inch and then trimming the facing seam ⅛-inch shorter. Never trim the seams close to the stitching line, there won't be enough fabric in the seam to control the edge of your garment.

Next, press all faced edges open on the edge of a board. For more information on pressing, please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Eunice Farmer, in care of this paper.

Remember, the most inexpensive garments are usually pressed beautifully. This is what gives them a more expensive look. Yet, the average home sewer falls down miserably in this very important technique which can "make or break" your garment.

Dear Eunice:

I have learned to underline my garments just as you have suggested, and I can't tell you how happy I am with my new results. I dreaded the extra work at first, but now can't imagine making anything good without underlining.

You have been a little vague about the information on underlining sleeves. I am uncertain how to proceed. Please help us by going into more detail.

"The Circle Sewing Gals"

Dear Gals:

I imagine from your letter that there are a group of you who sew together. This is a wonderful idea because you can help each other with fitting and creative ideas. The competitive spirit is a challenge, too.

Ordinarily I don't recommend underlining the sleeves, especially if they are "set-in" sleeves. For a narrow sleeve, if you underline with anything too stiff or heavy, it will look like you have a cardboard in your sleeve, besides being very uncomfortable. If you must underline because of the color or open weave of your fabric, choose the softest, lightest weight fabric possible for this.

If you are making a coat with raglan sleeves, the fabric of the garment would determine how you would treat the sleeves. Often you can underline the sleeves if they are raglan because they are naturally cut larger and require more "shape." Whenever you are underlining any part of your garment, always consider the weight and type of fabric plus the pattern shaping.

Sleeves seem to be the most difficult of all sewing techniques for the amateur to master. Take the guesswork out of sleeves by sending 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Eunice Farmer, in care of this paper, and request your copy of my complete leaflet, "All About Sleeves."

PREFER CUTE BLONDES

Automatic Disappointment To Every Male Patient

CALGARY (CP)—One of the difficulties of being a male nurse is that you're automtically a disappointment to male patients who assume hospitals are filled with cute blondes.

"The last thing they want is a male nurse," says Charles Boyer, 24-year-old third-year nursing student at the General Hospital here.

Mr. Boyer, Brian Wright, 21, and Bruce Botheras, 22, the hospital's only male nurses, also agree that children occasionally are confused.

"Children don't see you as a nurse—you don't wear a dress," says Mr. Boyer. "They don't know whether to regard you as an orderly, doctor, intern or nurse."

Nevertheless, the three agree that nursing is a good career for men. Mr. Wright says there are many opportunities for men in nursing education, administration and social welfare.

They say that in Eastern Canada men are more readily accepted as nurses while in the West they are regarded as oddities.

"Society straps us into the roles we play," says Mr. Boyer. "Step out of them and people think there is something wrong with you."

FOURTH HEARING

Kanester Wins Fight for New Trial

A Victoria man who is now serving a 10-year jail term has been granted a new trial on a charge of raping a Victoria University co-ed in January, 1964.

For Larry Kanester, 26, it will be a fourth hearing in a bizarre case highlighted by a dramatic escape and recapture.

KANESTER
... lists nine points

Court of Appeal judges in Vancouver Wednesday, in a two-to-one decision, ruled that there had been a miscarriage of justice at an Assize Court trial last June.

Kanester listed nine grounds in his notice of appeal. One of the main issues was the editing of notes written by Kanester, which were admitted as evidence. The notes were edited with the knowledge and co-operation of defence counsel D. E. Greenfield.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice A. E. Branca said the knowledge and consent of a defence counsel did not relieve the trial judge of a duty to see that only proper evidence was submitted to the jury. Mr. Justice T. G. Norris agreed. Mr. Justice H. A. Maclean dissented.

He said Kanester had no ground for complaint and that if any error was committed during the trial, no "substantial wrong or miscarriage of justice had occurred.

The case goes back to January, 1964, when two university girls here complained to police of rape. Each told of being picked up on their way to classes by a motorist who said he had to pick up some tools at an out-of-the-way spot. There, on separate occasions, each was raped.

Kanester was later identified in a police lineup and was convicted in two separate trials for rape and sentenced to 10 years on each count, the sentences to be consecutive.

On Sept. 2, 1964, while being held at Essondale mental hospital, Kanester escaped along with two companions. They forced two girls at knifepoint to drive them to Vancouver.

He was returned to custody in October after 57 days of freedom after protesting his innocence to a Vancouver newspaper. In April, 1965, B.C. Appeal Court judges ordered a new trial for Kanester and threw out the two earlier convictions because of technicalities in the way the defence case was put to the jury.

The new trial found Kanester guilty of rape of one girl and a new sentence of 10 years was imposed. He was serving this sentence at New Westminster Penitentiary when the recent appeal was made for a new trial.

Farmers Fear Spring Flood

NORTH COWICHAN—Reeve Donald Morton is to voice ratepayers complaints to E. & N. Railway officials regarding flooding danger at Westholme.

Railway works crews recently narrowed three railroad overpasses across Bonsall Creek at Westholme. Farmers fear the work will increase considerably the flood danger in spring and fall.

The overpasses were narrowed with gravel fill from 100 to 45 feet.

Mrs. K. E. Sewell, wife of one of the farmers most threatened, said Wednesday: "We can have two floods during the year and our livelihood depends on our hay fields.

"The hay fields could be seriously damaged by flood water.

"In past floods Bonsall Creek has been frightening and now we don't know what might happen."

Bonsall Creek drains into Chemainus River and even with the wider spans, in severe floods the water spilled across the railroad tracks.

Mrs. Sewel admitted there had been no serious flooding this year.

But she said: "With heavy snow still in the mountains a spring runoff might raise the water level dangerously."

Reeve Morton said: "A meeting is being arranged with railway officials at which I will represent the ratepayers."

A Nanaimo housewife, Mrs. Mildred Hemer, today received damages for severe injuries sustained in a car accident near Ladysmith on Dec. 8, 1964.

The amount was not stated as the damages were settled out of court.

Mrs. Hemer and her husband, Albert L. Hemer, brought an action against Robert Taillefer, the driver of a tanker truck which crashed into the back of their car on the Trans-Canada Highway, near the Chemainus cut-off.

The trial opened before Mr. Justice George Gregory and an eight-man Victoria jury, but collapsed at 11 a.m. when Nanaimo lawyer S. G. Clark announced the case had been settled out of court in favor of Mr. and Mrs. Hemer.

Mr. Justice Gregory ruled the amount of the damages need not be announced in open court and dismissed the jury with thanks.

Solution Kills Fish In Stream

Solution to a solution that has killed fish in a Central Saanich creek is being sought this week by Wescraft Manufacturing Ltd. of Victoria.

The company discharged what it believed to be a neutralized alkaline solution into Shady or Sand Hill Creek on March 18 from its factory on Keating Cross Road.

The following morning dairy farmer G. A. Swan, 2330 Shady Creek Road, found dead trout and coho along the banks of the stream that runs through his property.

He said the stream was running white as milk.

Police and fish and game officials were called to investigate and conservation officer Jack Lenfesty later said he was "quite convinced" the company thought it had taken the necessary steps to neutralize the solution.

Wescraft manufactures aluminum window frames and doors at the plant it opened several years ago.

THIRD TIME

This is the third time fish life in the creek has been killed since th plant opened.

However, Mr. Lenfesty said the company has co-operated fully in trying to alleviate the situation and "It wasn't a thoughtless act."

Factory manager Kenneth Franklin explained that the alkaline solution discharged on March 18 is only dumped once each year. Aware that the solution was deadly to fish, he said the company retained the services of a Victoria chemist in an effort to render the solution harmless before it left the plant.

WHITE WATER

When 1,800 gallons of the solution were dumped, mixed with several thousand gallons of neutralizers, it was thought there would be no danger to the fish. But apparently some unknown chemical reaction took place further downstream turning the water white and deadly, Mr. Franklin said.

Plant officials are meeting this week with representatives of the pollution control board and fisheries department to discuss the situation, he said.

Other solutions used in processing the aluminum are dumped regularly into a ditch beside the factory which eventually becomes Shady or Sand Hill Creek, emptying into Saanichton Bay.

Mr. Franklin said about 7,000 gallons of rinse water are discharged into this ditch every day, but it is not toxic.

The first incident of a toxic solution from the factory killing fish in the creek was a result of "sheer ignorance," Mr. Franklin said, as factory employees were unaware that the shallow and almost dry ditch led to a stream supporting fish life. Diluted sulphuric acid and chlorate solutions were discharged without first being neutralized.

When the company was made aware of its mistake it set up a small laboratory in the factory to keep a close check on all wastes before dumping.

The second incident was purely an accident, Mr. Franklin said. A leak developed in an anodizing tank and sulphuric acid drained into the ditch.

Joint Vote On Arena Advocated

DUNCAN — Duncan Musical Club is the latest group to jump on the controversial recreational bandwagon.

The club has submitted a brief to both North Cowichan and City of Duncan Recreation Commissions.

In it president John Sanders says: "Duncan and the municipality should be regarded as one unit for recreational purposes.

"The two districts should vote simultaneously on identical by-laws."

These bylaws would propose an ice arena and sports hall at Fullers Lake, Chemainus.

Also a recreation complex in the vicinity of Duncan to include a sports hall-auditorium, indoor swimming pool, and smaller rooms for activities such as table tennis, group meetings and dinners.

Thirdly, the club suggests the bylaw propose a theatre to accommodate first-class stage performances with a minimum 1,150 seating capacity.

Mr. Sanders said: "The area cannot support nor does it need two ice arenas as proposed in the bylaw defeated recently."

STAFF LACKING TO POLICE PARK

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan hasn't got the staff to properly police mining development in Vancouver Island's Strathcona Park, a leading conservationist said in Vancouver Wednesday.

Roderick Haig-Brown of Campbell River, was referring to a report by a special legislative committee which recommended Tuesday that Western Mines Ltd. be allowed to build a townsite inside the park.

Mr. Haig-Brown said it was a joke to suggest Mr. Kiernan can properly supervise the Western Mines operation at Buttle Lake.

"He has neither the policy nor the staff," Mr. Haig-Brown said in an interview. "There is no parks staff in this province.

NOBODY THERE

"There are a few men in Victoria — able men at that — but this doesn't make a parks staff," he said. "There is absolutely nobody on the ground at Strathcona."

The committee report, submitted to the legislature, said conditions under which the townsite is built and maintained must be within rigid controls determined by Mr. Kiernan.

It said the Pollution Control Board should exercise the most stringent controls with a continuing survey and inspection of Buttle Lake when the mine starts production in July.

I didn't believe the saleslady, when she said that Just Fabulous stockings last twice as long. They looked so wildly sheer. Naturally, I bought them. Well, those fragile-looking stockings turned out to be almost non-runnable. (They're knit with a special lock-stitch.) They have a comfortable ribbed top that fends off garter-snag. And a clever run-guard toe. That was three weeks ago Monday, and I've worn the same pair of Just Fabulous day and night. (They're flattering as a wink.)

Serious Side To Old Joke

By JACK HUTTON

This story is about a psychologist who visits another psychologist in a mental home and finds he's still conducting research.

The second psychologist puts a fly on his hand and shows how the fly will jump to his shoulder on command.

"Great," said his visitor. "That's simply fantastic. This will make world history."

"You haven't seen the most important part," replied the other. He then carefully removed the fly's wings and legs and repeated the experiment. The fly didn't move.

"You see," he said. "When you remove a fly's wings he completely loses the ability to hear."

That story is being told in various parts of the United States and Canada by a 39-year-old owlish-looking professor from the University of Illinois, Dr. J. Richard Suchman, now director of elementary and secondary education research for the U.S. office of education.

Same Mistakes

The trouble is that when you stop laughing you find that Suchman has a serious point. He believes that traditional education in North America has been making the same mistake as the deluded psychologist.

"We've been looking at the facts and drawing the wrong conclusions for too long," he says. "Our traditional education system has been missing the point."

I first heard Suchman describe his theories one year ago and thought they were interesting. But last week I learned that his philosophy is to be tested in Canada for the first time.

A new junior high school level (grades 8, 9, 10) physics course, written by Suchman, is being offered in Canada by Science Research Associates (Canada) Limited.

And you're going to be hearing a great deal about a new approach in the classroom. It's known as the "inquiry development program," aimed at getting both students and teachers to think critically.

Think Back

The Illinois professor explained his philosophy all over again last week. To understand what he is saying you have to think back to how you first started to learn.

"The most rapid learning you will ever experience is that which takes place before the age of six," said Dr. Suchman. "Think of it. You learn to walk. To talk. And how do you learn? By the scientific method.

"You try something out. It works or it doesn't work. Something tastes bad so you don't pick it up again. Every child in a playpen is basically a natural scientist.

"Then he comes to school and what do we do? We change the rules. Suddenly we start telling the child what the facts are—and he has to memorize them."

The inquiry method, developed at the University of Illinois and tested on thousands of children, encourages the student to go on asking questions and forming theories.

The words "right" and "wrong" are discouraged. Instead, theories are described as "more powerful" or "less powerful" by the teacher. And a skilful teacher will encourage students to stretch their thinking.

Stimulate Talk

Teachers using the method stimulate discussion through what Suchman calls a "discrepant event." If, for example, a coin flipped in the air kept going up instead of falling, what happened? There must be some reason.

One experiment in the new course shows a knife blade that bends downward when held over a Bunsen burner, then straightens when plunged into a beaker of liquid. Why?

I watched Suchman demonstrate the experiment before a Grade 6 class last year. It was amazing to watch his classroom wizardry as he drew out answers that soon had the youngsters dabbling in chemistry and physics.

Will students learn more by this method? Suchman doesn't think so, although it's possible. But, more important, they will learn to think critically.

The classroom lessons are no longer teacher-directed. They are student-centred. And any student can be encouraged to move ahead as quickly as he wants.

Remember that phrase — inquiry development program. You'll be hearing a great deal more about it in the next 18 months.

OHIO youngsters in the area served by the Toledo Blade have some strong impressions of Britain, its dress, its long-haired youth, its Beatles. Associated Press artist Len Paznanski has strong impressions, too, as he drew a composite Briton as described by the youngsters. (AP Wirephoto.)

Lot of Letters To Explain UFOs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force said Wednesday it has an open mind about unidentified flying objects and makes no attempt to hush talk about flying saucers.

A spokesman, asked about allegations that the air force tries to squelch UFO reports, said:

"In the first place, we'd be utterly foolish to try to keep people from telling about something they've seen with their own eyes. Our job is to explain what is seen — not necessarily to change anybody's mind."

The air force has a special public relations office which answers thousand of letters a year from inquisitive persons.

Last year it turned out 3,717 replies to letters about UFOs. The count for January and February already has run over 800 requests for information of explanations, and scores are being received in the wake of recent Michigan sightings.

DON'T SEE SPACE SHIPS

Based on the bulk of its findings, the air force has decided that most people do not see interplanetary space ships but bright stars, balloons, satellites, comets, fireballs, aircraft, moving clouds, vapor trails, missiles reflections, mirages, searchlights, birds, kites, spurious radar indications, fireworks or flares.

The answers the air force has been able to turn up have led it to these conclusions:

1. No UFO has ever given any indication of threat to U.S. national security.

2. There is no evidence that UFO's represent technological developments or principles beyond present day scientific knowledge.

3. There is no evidence that any UFOs are "extra-terrestrial vehicles."

IT WAS JUST A BALLOON WITH FLARES

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Two students at the California Institute of Technology admitted Tuesday they and others were responsible for flying objects sighted by hundreds Monday night.

The objects, on eight-foot-diameter plastic balloons, were red flares dangling from rotating blades. They are equipped with aluminum foil streamers so that on radar screens they appear to be a block long.

'Homemade Saucer' Sighted

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A bright blue ball with a tail of sparks eight to 10 feet long is the way they described it.

People in Newton, Hickory and other North Carolina towns saw it Sunday night. So did some in Union, S.C.

It probably was a balloon propelled by a kerosene-soaked wad of fibreglas insulation.

Folks who prefer to remain anonymous say they soaked a large ball of fibreglas in kerosene, set it afire, and sent it aloft with a paper balloon about 45 miles from Hickory and Newton.

They said the wind caught the contraption and away it went.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Marilyn Magdeburger, age 11, of Atherton, Calif., for her question:

What exactly is leprosy?

Most of us try to put this disease from our minds in favor of less horrifying illnesses. Throughout history, mankind has tried to shun both leprosy and the leper. This, of course, is no way to solve a problem but explains why little or nothing was done to treat or cure it for ages. To tackle a disease, we must put aside our feelings of horror and fear and investigate its nature in sound scientific terms.

Leprosy is caused by a rod-shaped germ called Mycobacterium leprae. These cruel bacteria measure about 4,000 to an inch, and it is believed that they may enter the human body through open wounds and scratches. The leprosy bacterium was identified in the 1870s by a Norwegian doctor named Armauer Hansen. It is sometimes called Hansen's bacillus or Hansen's disease in his honor, perhaps because a new name seems to carry less horror than the old one.

Once established in a human body, the bacteria begin their cruel work on the nervous system. Signs may not show for months or even years — but gradually the nerves lose their power to feel and the wasted nerves cause weakening and then wasting of the muscles. The victim cannot feel a stab or a burn. His weakened body is susceptible to other, more fatal diseases. Leprosy itself is a slow destroyer of the body rather than an outright killer.

Scourge Spreads to Europe

Slowly at its own pace it mars and scars the skin with unsightly sores and bit by bit wastes away fingers, toes and even limbs. It is this disfigurement of the victims that tends to horrify us. It is one reason why the leper of old was an outcast and why India and China, Japan and Indonesia try to isolate their victims in leper colonies. Another reason is fear of spreading the cruel disease. It is not so easy to catch leprosy from a leper as our ancestors thought—but so far science is not certain of how it is spread.

Chaulmoogra oil and sulphur drugs are used to halt the progress of the ancient scourge. Many lepers get no worse as long as treatment continues—but they are not cured. Research and more research, open-minded and fearless, is needed to close forever this cruel page of human history.

It is estimated that the modern world has perhaps five million lepers, most of them in the tropics and semitropics. History suggests that it originated in Africa and China. From Africa the Roman legions carried it through the Middle East, and the medieval crusaders spread a scourge of leprosy throughout Europe. From China, it spread through the Pacific Islands. It reached North America with the slave ships and the world's best efforts to end it are being made in our own National Leprosarium.

Massey-Ferguson Wins Big Contract

LONDON (UPI)—The Massey-Ferguson group has announced winning the biggest single order for farm machinery ever made by the government of Afghanistan with a Western country.

The firm said it was won against strong Russian competition. In the past the Soviet Union has supplied most of Afganistan's agricultural machinery.

The contract covered 200 tractors and 1,000 implements worth more than $896,000 and included technical and training help.

Will the Laird allow his single malt whisky to marry?

The Laird's pride and joy is a rare malt whisky his family has been distilling for generations, deep in the Scottish highlands.

It's one of the 42 different whiskies that are expertly blended to create Ballantine's Scotch. Once blended, these whiskies are allowed to mingle, or "marry", in oaken casks for a period of years.

It's a natural process. And it's the only way to impart the mellow smoothness and authentic flavour that is Ballantine's.

Most whiskies are made this way. But with some, it's a marriage of convenience.

The Laird would have none of that.

His whisky, and the others that go into Ballantine's, are made for each other.

You might even call it a love match.

Your first sip of Ballantine's will tell you what marriage is all about.

AIR CANADA'S NEW DC-9 JET

...it's the shape of things to come – and go in – quickly, quietly.

With the addition of the remarkably quick, quiet DC-9 Jet to its all-turbine fleet, Air Canada strengthens its position as one of the largest and most modern airlines in the world. It also assures an ever-increasing frequency of jet service as well as the convenience of fan-jet flight, for more Canadian air travellers, especially on busy, inter-city routes across Canada. Later, by early '67, a number of cities in Canada not presently served by jet will be added to the DC-9 travel map.

Although smaller than its big brother, the DC-8, the DC-9 maintains the family tradition for speed, cruising as it does at 555 mph. The twin Pratt & Whitney rear-mounted engines make sure of that and, at the same time, leave the sound of jet travel 'way behind to give you a quieter ride.

Eighteen of these short-to-medium range DC-9 Jets will join Air Canada's fleet over the next 18 months. The first group of these to be delivered will begin service this Spring on several inter-city routes.

And so, Air Canada—one of the first airlines in the world to order the DC-9—continues to add to the jet character of its fleet and to your air travel comfort and convenience. That's why you fly the finest—always—when you fly Air Canada.

Dupuis Tried To Halt Inquiry

Favreau Says Documents Falsified By Ex-Minister

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Guy Fraveau, former federal minister of justice, testified Wednesday night that Yvon Dupuis urged him to stop the inquiry into allegations of influence-peddling laid against Mr. Dupuis.

Mr. Favreau, a surprise witness at the trial of Mr. Dupuis, former minister without portfolio, who is appearing on charges of influence-peddling in connection with an attempt to obtain a racetrack permit from the provincial government.

He said he met Mr. Dupuis twice in 1964, the first time Dec. 14 at the request of Prime Minister Pearson.

At that time, Mr. Dupuis had said that at first he had had no interest in the racetrack affair but reconsidered after a talk with Premier Jean Lesage.

Mr. Favreau said Mr. Dupuis told him that the then provincial revenue minister, Paul Earl, said a $10,000 deposit was necessary as proof of solvency.

Mr. Dupuis and Mr. Earl had agreed to have the money brought to Ottawa June 29, 1961. Mr. Earl was to dispatch a messenger to pick up the money.

Mr. Favreau testified that at the time he had asked Mr. Dupuis if he had obtained a receipt. Mr. Dupuis had said no.

Three days later, on Dec. 17, Mr. Favreau again met Mr. Dupuis and received a bundle of documents which were to explain Mr. Dupuis' participation in the affair, Mr. Favreau testified.

He said the bundle was delivered to the prime minister.

Mr. Favreau said the documents had been falsified by Mr. Dupuis in such a way as to make it appear that Mr. Earl had accepted the $10,000 in question.

(Mr. Earl died a few months prior to the meetings between Mr. Favreau and Mr. Dupuis.)

Mr. Dupuis, using the falsified documents, had tried to have the inquiry stopped, testified Mr. Favreau.

Witness Recalled To Stand

Earlier Wednesday, Roch Deslauriers, the St. Johns, Que., chiropractor who unsuccessfully sought the racetrack permit, was recalled to the witness box.

Mr. Deslauriers told of his relations with Mr. Dupuis during the period 1961-64, with particular reference to 1961, the year Mr. Dupuis is alleged to have accepted the bribe.

He said he increased his efforts to obtain the permit during the years which followed the provincial government's refusal of a permit in June, 1961, and that Mr. Dupuis was always involved in whatever new steps were taken.

These steps, Mr. Deslauriers said, included various meetings with influential members of the Liberal party, including Rene Hebert, then a secretary-treasurer of the party, Real Rousseau, whom Mr. Dupuis described to him as "the thinker of the Liberal party," and with provincial ministers Bernard Pinard and Eric Kierans.

Mr. Deslauriers said he went with Mr. Dupuis to the office of Mr. Hebert where Mr. Dupuis asked for the concession for all restaurants on the planned racetrack as compensation for his efforts.

With Mr. Dupuis, Mr. Deslauriers said, he made a number of visits to Quebec City in order to meet with Mr. Earl and that these visits continued until the death of Mr. Earl.

In January, 1964, Mr. Deslauriers said he saw Bernard Pinard, the roads minister, because the financial situation had become intolerable. Mr. Pinard, he said, asked him for some kind of proof that he had given $10,000 to Mr. Dupuis.

Mr. Deslauriers said that as a result of this request he approached Raoul Gobeil and obtained from him a written declaration.

Admits Declaration Was False

In this document, which he has since admitted to be false, Mr. Gobeil said he saw Mr. Deslauriers give the money to Mr. Dupuis.

Asked by Crown prosecutor Jean Bienvenue why he addressed himself to Mr. Gobeil, Mr. Deslauriers said he borrowed part of the $10,000 from Mr. Gobeil and that Mr. Gobeil had accompanied him to Ottawa with the money.

Mr. Deslauriers said it was true that Mr. Gobeil had remained in the car while he (Deslauriers) went into Mr. Dupuis' office to give him the money. However, he said, Mr. Gobeil later went to lunch with him and Mr. Dupuis, and was present when Mr. Dupuis said that the granting of the permit was no more than a day away.

As a result of an urgent call from Mr. Dupuis, Mr. Deslauriers said, he and his wife went to Ottawa Dec. 9, 1964.

Mr. Deslauriers said that by this time Mr. Dupuis had become a minister without portfolio and occupied a new office. It was at this meeting, the chiropractor said, that he was introduced to Real Rousseau, whom Mr. Dupuis referred to as the thinker of the Liberal party.

At the same meeting, Mr. Deslauriers testified, Mr. Dupuis also said Mr. Rousseau was a colleague of Premier Lesage.

Mr. Deslauriers said that he spoke to Mr. Rousseau about the racetrack project and that it seemed to him Mr. Dupuis had fully informed Mr. Rousseau about it.

Mr. Rousseau said he would approach both Prime Minister Pearson and Mr. Lesage about the racetrack and asked for all the documents on the business, said Mr. Deslauriers.

The witness said he gave the documents and then on Dec. 16 he had a call from Mr. Dupuis in St. Johns, Que., and as a result went to see Mr. Dupuis at his home.

Mr. Dupuis told him rumors were circulating in Ottawa about the $10,000 and that he would have to prove his integrity to Mr. Pearson as he expected to get a new ministry in January, Mr. Deslauriers continued.

The witness said Mr. Dupuis told him that if he could not justify himself to Mr. Pearson he would lose everything and there would perhaps be an RCMP inquiry.

Man Admits Stealing Radio Equipment

Gary Stewart, 4209 Douglas, Wednesday in central magistrate's court admitted stealing radio equipment worth $348 from a Saanich electronics firm March 19.

Saanich police said he was seen leaving Ball and Schemilt, 1 Burnside West, at 3 a.m. and was chased three blocks and stopped in a park on Irma St.

Stewart broke through a glass door in the building, reached in and unlocked the door and took five transistor radios, a mike splitter and a tape recorder.

Police said he appeared to be intoxicated.

He was remanded to April 7 for a pre-sentence report.

BOOMING U.S. JETS HARMING OUR MINK

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer was asked Wednesday in the Commons to have U.S. jets stop flying over Nova Scotia during early April, when the mink have their kittens.

John O. Bower (PC — Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare) asked Mr. Hellyer whether he has had protests about jets from Maine "breaking the sound barrier over Digby and Yarmouth counties where mink raising is an important industry."

Mr. Bower asked that steps be taken to prevent the sonic booms in early April, the birth period for mink.

"Disturbances such as sonic booms can cause the mothers to eat their young."

Speaker Lucien Lamoureaux cut the question off there, adding that he trusted it would be taken into account by Mr. Hellyer.

'MUST BE PROTECTED'

Assault on Police Brings Jail Term

A 26-year-old man who said he came to Victoria from the prairies to get away from jail-term associates received a four-month jail sentence in Victoria County Court Wednesday afternoon for assaulting a city policeman.

Robert H. Roy was convicted of assaulting Constable James Ramsay with intent to resist arrest at about 2 a.m. on Nov. 27 last.

He had pleaded not guilty and conducted his own defence without legal aid.

"I came out here to get away from people I knew on the prairies who served jail terms," he told Judge Montague Drake. "I got a steady job here and got married. I have one son and another baby is on the way.

"Any break the court can give me will not be wasted."

Judge Drake ruled that he was convinced Roy had assaulted Constable Ramsay, although the accused had said he did not remember striking him.

"The police must be protected," Judge Drake said. "They are exposed to some danger in keeping the public peace and they are entitled to the protection of the court"

"Assaulting a police officer is a very serious offence, but the circumstances of the assault were stupid. I shall therefore impose a light sentence."

Earlier, Crown prosecutor Robert B. Hutchison called four city policemen as witnessas to the assault on Constable Ramsay, which took place outside a house at 1543 Morley Street

Hutchison said Robert Roy had previously been convicted of assaulting police.

"It is evident," he added, "that the accused did assault Constable Ramsay and that Constable Ramsay only put a hammer-lock on him when he couldn't calm him down."

Mr. Hutchison said that, under the Criminal Code, anyone who assaulted a police officer was liable to a two-year prison term.

Loan Firm Agent Fined For Assault

The Victoria agent of a Vancouver finance company was fined $50 after being found guilty Wednesday of a charge of assault causing bodily harm to a man whose car he repossessed.

Ronald Stokes of 710 Catherine, an employee of Delta Finance in Victoria and acting on telephone instructions from the Province Acceptance Corp. of Vancouver, sprained the little finger of Lawrence Albright in a struggle for the keys to Albright's car.

Stokes testified he followed Albright's car March 1, passing it and then cutting in front of it, forcing Albright to stop the car.

Magistrate Ostler said Stokes' "high-handed arrogance was almost unbelievable."

The magistrate said he had little difficulty in finding Stokes guilty.

DIVORCES

A divorce was granted in Victoria Law Courts last week to Mrs. Jeanne-May Schlievert, 1566 McHattie Road, Victoria, from Wilfred N. Schlievert, 423 Quebec Street, Victoria. They were married at Ottawa in 1950.

UNLIMITED POTENTIAL
SHELL CANADA LIMITED

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Since Canadian television is going into the color game seriously by the end of the year, CBC color TV seminars are the big hit from coast to coast.

The corporation has two men conducting seminars across the country for its own producers, film and television cameramen, set and dress designers, make-up girls, graphic artists and others.

Stephen

The seminars even cater to advertising agency executives, free-lance cameramen and private station representatives. At least one private station had 50 staff members present at one seminar. They were welcomed with open arms.

The public agency's view is that the higher general standards of color TV in Canada were, the better it would be for all in television—public and private.

The lectures are in color basics, colorimetry, color psychology, and additive and subtractive systems.

It sounds complicated but, after explanation, is simple. The apparent color of an object is determined by three things. The quality of light reflected from the object, which most people call the real color; the quality of the light in which the object is seen whether flourescent or natural; and the quality of the complicated eye and brain mechanism that makes a man see color.

The objective of the seminar is not to train people. It is to give them a quick look at the scope of the subject, and to show people where they can get more as a follow-up.

After that, it is a matter of reading and practice and experience by which the vast new subject of color in general and color television in particular, must be learned.

The CBC seminars are stirring up an enthusiasm among television workers to study color and color television. It is an enthusiasm that will likely mean more viewing enjoyment for color TV set owners.

All TV stations in Canada will begin experimenting after sign-off as of July 1.

Beginning with its 1966 fall schedule, CBC-TV will carry about 30 hours weekly of color program. Private stations are expected to follow suit, though no definite announcements have yet been made.

$5,000 FOR GERDA INTERVIEW

Aged Senator Raps CBC

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Thomas A. Crerar (L — Manitoba) said Wednesday the top officials of the CBC should be "put on the carpet" for paying $5,000 to Gerda Munsinger for a 20-minute television interview.

Senator Crerar, who will be 90 June 17, got a rousing round of applause in the Senate when he rose to make his first speech there in some months. He had been absent due to ill health.

The senator, who was a cabinet minister in the governments of both Sir Robert Borden and Mackenzie King, was speaking about the Senate finance committee's examination of government spending estimates.

He said it had been reported in the press that "that famous German lady" had been paid $5,000 for her interview with the CBC. Frau Munsinger was the central figure in an alleged sex-and-security scandal that blew up in the Commons and is the subject of a judicial inquiry.

Accompanied by cries of "hear, hear" from a number of senators, Senator Crerar said: "There is no fundamental reason why that should have taken place."

SENT CREW

Not only had the CBC paid Mrs. Munsinger the $5,000, but they had sent a costly camera crew, equipment and news reporters to interview her.

He suggested CBC officials might appear before the Senate finance committee when their estimates come up for discussion to explain their policies.

"The CBC is becoming more and more a little empire unto itself."

The Senate would be asked to vote a sum of $110,000,000 to the CBC for 1966-67, and should give full consideration to where this money was going.

He told the Senate he intends to retire from the upper chamber at the end of May.

OPENS FRIDAY

Music Hall Here First of 5 Planned

A music hall with a modern touch will make its first appearance on the Victoria entertainment scene Friday night.

Jon York's Music Hall, to open at 1417 Government below the Century Inn, will be run by the well-known singer who has appeared frequently in Victoria and at other West Coast entertainment spots.

Folk, country and blues singers will make up the main part of the Music Hall's program.

The Music Hall is not a coffee house, stresses owner Jon York, because "we don't want the beat element."

Instead, it will offer a wide variety of folk music to appeal to all tastes, he says.

"We're not folk purists," says the tall, lanky singer who will frequently have his name on the program.

Other singers who will appear are Jana Bergh, Mike Dorsey, Dean Dickson, Steve Barett, Wanda Munday and Don and Eileen.

Opening nights are Friday through Sunday, beginning at 9:30 p.m.

The Music Hall here is the first of five planned in B.C. by Mr. York.

Others will be in Penticton, Kamloops, Vernon and Vancouver.

The first one is being opened in Victoria, however, because "it's always been a good town for me," says Mr. York.

New Drama Group Scores in Opener

A new drama group, the Country Church Players of Colwood scored a success in their first public presentation Wednesday.

Their production of Christopher Fry's Boy with a Cart was adequately staged in all departments.

There were three outstanding performers. Joyce Wallace as Cuthman's mother was consistently excellent; Bob Campbell in the smaller part of Tawm created an impressive character, and Doug Linton as Cuthman, the boy, achieved the sincerity the part demanded.

The production was ably directed by Barbara Meicklejohn and stage managed by Bill Parker.

Snap Firemen's Strike Cripples U.S. Railways

YOUTHS, many of them en route to high school, attack David Benson, 18, one of a group who earlier had burned their draft cards in front of court house in Boston. Benson, from Morgantown, W.Va., burned his classification notice since he had burned his draft card a few days ago. The man in white coat just behind Benson is John Phillips, 22, of Boston, whose head is down and hidden. Both were treated at hospital. (AP Wirephoto.)

STUDENTS BEAT, STOMP GROUP OF PACIFISTS

BOSTON (UPI)—A jeering crowd of 25 to 30 high school students today beat and stomped a group of pacifists including four who burned draft cards on the steps of a courthouse. One pacifist was hospitalized.

The students who were en route to school charged into 11 pacifists assembled on the steps of South Boston District Court where four of them set their draft cards afire.

The 11 were at court for arraignment on charges stemming from a peace demonstration last Friday outside the Boston army base. The pacifists are members of the New England Committee for Non-Violent Action.

As the four ignited their draft cards, the students moved in with cries of "Yellow," "Coward" and "Chicken." The students, including several girls, tossed punches. At least seven pacifists were knocked to the ground and kicked and pummelled.

No arrests were made.

The pacifists did not fight back. They covered their face with their arms to ward off blows. Some kneeled on the steps or fell limp in the manner of non-violent demonstrators.

Two agents of the FBI and one agent of the army's criminal investigation division were knocked to the ground as they went to the defence of the pacifists.

LBJ Appeals For Halt In Spending

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today appealed to all Americans to fight inflation by immediately cutting unnecessary spending to the bone.

The president issued an appeal to citizens—from leaders of business and labor to housewives and workers—to help halt the mushrooming trend in the economy.

Johnson said he had not decided that such steps as a tax increase were yet necessary. He said there was no need for such measures as long as voluntary restraints could keep the economy in check.

Daughter of Draft Boss Continues Hunger Strike

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) The daughter of Michigan's selective service chief and five companions, all on a hunger strike, began their second day on a picket line today in protest over the jailing of four young critics of the Viet Nam war.

Meanwhile, the four youths in jail turned away their trays of food.

The picket line, on duty overnight, marched at the home of John A. Hannah, Michigan State University president.

The six pickets—three young men and three girls—showed up at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday.

"We'll stay here until they (the war critics) get out of jail," said Louise Holmes, 20, daughter of Col. Arthur Holmes, the Michigan draft boss.

"I don't like dragging my father into this," said Miss Holmes. "I've stayed clear of telling him what to do and he stays clear of telling me."

Picketer Jane Munn, 22, daughter of MSU athletic director Clarence (Biggie) Munn, said she felt sure her father disapproved but that she expected her parents to "overlook it."

BOTH FATHERS AWAY

Both Munn and Holmes are in Florida.

Dr. Hannah was represented as planning no action on demands of the group that he intervene in the jailed youths' behalf.

"As long as they don't block the sidewalk they can sit there as long as they want to," an aide quoted the university presidents as saying.

The misses Holmes and Munn and their adherents charged that due process of law was violated in the four jailings.

They said that the Viet Nam war had no part in their feelings. They said they objected to denial of bond to the four while an appeal was pending.

Circuit Court Judge Marvin Salmon handed down jail terms ranging from 10 to 30 days on conviction of the four for trespassing in a demonstration last Oct. 12. The four has passed out leaflets opposing the Viet Nam war at a marine corps exhibit on the MSU campus.

Air France Grounded By Strike of Pilots

PARIS (UPI) — Almost 2,500 Air France pilots and hostesses struck for higher pay today, grounding the airlines' world-wide fleet of planes.

The strike grounded the 94 Air France flights out of Paris scheduled today. Out of 97 scheduled arrivals from abroad, only 14 aircraft landed and they were in the air when the strike started at midnight.

The 48-hour Air France walkout headlined the snowballing wave of labor unrest hitting government-run services this week.

The Air France stoppage provided a bonanza for the 25 foreign airlines operating out of Paris, whose services were not affected.

APARTHEID BACKED

Record Win By Verwoerd

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's white Nationalists won South Africa's general election today and seemed headed for a record victory.

This would be an overwhelming endorsement by the country's white voters for the party's apartheid policy of rigid racial segregation.

With 130 of 166 house of assembly seats accounted for, the Nationalists had 92, United party 37 and the Progressive party one.

Unofficial computer analyses, which in previous elections here have proved accurate, indicated the Nationalists would win a record 124 seats. The highest previous total won by any party was 111, by the now main opposition United party in 1938.

Parliament has been enlarged by 10 seats to 170 including four white members representing the mixed-blood population.

Results of Wednesday's voting showed a swing of about 16 per cent away from the main opposition United party, led by Sir de Villiers Graaff. Observers said this swing confirmed the firm support of white South Africans for Verwoerd's apartheid (racial separation) policy and toughness towards the West.

The United party so far had won 36 seats and the Progressive party one seat.

Only white persons voted Wednesday in the elections for another all - white assembly to serve for five years. Persons of mixed blood (called coloreds) already had voted separately for four white persons to represent them.

OUTNUMBER THE WHITES

There are about 2,000,000 coloreds out of the total non-white population of 14,138,000. The whites number 3,335,000, and about 1,700,000 were eligible to vote.

In the old Parliament, which had only 160 seats, the Nationalists held 106 seats, the United party 49, the Progressives one and four whites represented the coloreds.

Verwoerd, 65, was returned at Heidelberg in the Transvaal with a 5,516-vote majority. He was unopposed in the 1961 election.

De Villiers Graaff got back in Rondebusch, near Cape Town, with a margin of 6,238 votes.

Mrs. Helen Suzman, sole torchbearer in Parliament of the multi - racial Progressive party, kept her seat in the Johannesburg district of Houghton with a slightly increased majority—711 votes compared with 564 in 1961.

Spaceship To Orbit Around Moon

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia has launched a new unmanned spaceship in an attempt to put the first satellite into orbit around the moon.

The blast off of Luna 10 came almost two months after history's first successful landing on the moon's surface.

The official news agency Tass, which announced the Luna 10, launching at 1:47 p.m. Moscow time (3:47 p.m. PST) said:

"The main purpose of the station is to test a system ensuring the setting up of an artificial moon satellite."

The indirect language, similar to that employed during the soft landing attempts, was attributed to the Soviet practice of building a "hedge" into their space announcements in case of failure.

66 TO 1 CHOICE

Wilson Victory A Cinch

LONDON (UPI) — Britons crowded into polling places today to choose a new 630-member parliament. Bookmakers gave 66-to-1 odds Prime Minister Harold Wilson's labor government would be returned to power with a sweeping mandate.

The weather was cool but dry, favoring a good turnout among the 35.9 million eligible voters. It was expected to at least equal the 77 per cent total of eligible voters who gave Wilson's party a slim majority in October of 1964.

This time, Wilson was expected to emerge with the greatest majority — possibly 200 seats — since Sir Winston Churchill was swept out of office following the Second World War. The Laborites then were led by Clement Attlee.

Among the first to vote was Conservative Leader Edward Heath, whose polling place is in Central London. Wilson was in his constituency at the Liverpool suburb of Huyton and Liberal party leader Jo Grimond was voting at Finstown in the far north of Scotland.

ODDS SHIFTED

As voting began at 7 a.m. the big London bookmaking firm of Ladbrokes shifted its odds to 66-to-1 on a Labor victory.

The polls were to close at 9 p.m. (noon PST).

Throughout the country there was an early morning flurry of party rosettes and streamers and last-minute passing out of party literature.

A clearcut win for Wilson would give him another five unchallenged years in power and a free hand to carry on policies based on continued close relations with the United States, support of U.S. action in Viet Nam and co-operation in the Atlantic alliance.

Pilot's Body Near Wreck

ST. LUCIE, Que. (UPI)—Searchers today found the body of an RCAF test pilot beside his downed tutor jet trainer.

Judge Orders Return to Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge ordered today a halt to strikes and picketing against eight U.S. railways by the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

U.S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff granted the order at the request of railway lawyers.

By UP International

Locomotive firemen climaxed a seven-year battle with U.S. railroads and the federal courts today to save some 30,000 firemen's jobs by striking eight major railroads.

A railroad spokesman said the walkout "will have a serious adverse effect on the national defence." General Motors in Detroit said the strike would force it to begin closing assembly plants "within a day or two."

Passenger service, freight haulings and mail service were affected from coast to coast. The strike paralyzed commuter operations in Chicago and Boston, forcing 45,000 commuters in those cities to seek other means of getting to work.

Barred by federal court order from striking directly over the eliminated jobs, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen called 8,000 firemen on strike without warning at 12:01 a.m. EST, on grounds the railroads refused to negotiate on a program for training apprentice firemen.

There are no apprentice firemen coming into the industry. There have been none for the past two years.

The strike came as a "complete surprise," Asst. U.S. Labor Secretary James J. Reynolds said in Washington. It also caught other railroad unions off guard, although members of other unions were honoring the firemen's picket lines.

Action Denounced by Engineers

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers blasted the firemen's walkout as "an illegal strike" and in violation of the Railway Labor Act.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the 78,000-member BLFE, said at a news conference at the union's headquarters in Cleveland the railroads' failure to discuss an apprentice training program was "just another typical delaying tactic . . . and we can tolerate it just so long."

He said "federal mediation has had its chance since early in January and yet nothing has been done about this issue."

Gilbert said he had been summoned to Washington to meet with President Johnson.

Earlier Gilbert had indicated he would call an end to the strike if asked by President Johnson to do so.

The strike affected rail service over more than 42,800 miles of track in 38 states from Maine to California and from the northern plains to the deep south.

The eight struck railroads were the Pennsylvania, west of Harrisburg, Pa., and the entire systems of the Boston and Maine, Illinois Central, Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Grand Trunk Western, Central of Georgia, and Seaboard Airline.

By the end of the day about 164,000 union employees of the eight roads were expected to be idled. All other unions were expected to honor the firemen's picket lines, as has been the case in past railroad strikes.

A spokesman for the Missouri-Pacific said the strike would halt the "heavy volume of military freight which has been moving in great volume in recent weeks . . . it is impossible to separate the military from the other freight included in the freight trains."

Canada Gives Own Economic Guidelines

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is asking Canadian subsidiaries of foreign firms to handle pricing, procurement, earnings disposal, resource development and related matters with the interests of Canada in mind, Trade Minister Winters announced today.

Mr. Winters told the Commons these economic guidelines are contained in a letter he is sending to the heads of the Canadian subsidiaries. He tabled the letter in the Commons.

The aim, he said, is to "help subsidiaries of foreign companies conduct their affairs as good corporate citizens of Canada."

The move was seen as a reaction to U.S. economic guideline aimed partly at curbing investment by the foreign subsidiaries of U.S. firms.

Mr. Winters said the economic principles emphasize "the need for subsidiary companies to strive for maximum realization of their potential and for full participation in, and identification with, the life of the Canadian community."

The underlying objective sought was equally applicable to Canadian companies.

EMPHASIZES GROWTH

A key recommendation was for the retention by the subsidiary "of a sufficient share of earnings to give appropriate financial support to the growth requirements of the Canadian operation, having in mind a fair return to shareholders on capital invested."

Subsidiaries should also strive to allow opportunity for financial participation by the Canadian public in ownership.

LICENCE SEIZURE IMPROPER SAYS LAWYER

VANCOUVER (CP)—The chairman of the civil liberties committee of the B.C. Bar Association says the proposed legislation permitting police the right to seize licences of suspected drinking drivers is improper.

W. J. Wallace said here Wednesday only a court of competent jurisdiction should be able to take away the right to drive.

Mr. Wallace said his committee will submit a recommendation to this effect to the bar association's annual meeting in June.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1966--PAGE 25

Arthur Mayse

As a taxpayer with an optimistic turn of mind, I have always retained a lively little hope, when each successive federal finance minister prepared to bring down his budget, that he would turn out to be the Robin Hood we've been waiting for.

The new finance chief would break the established pattern. He would take from the rich, give to the poor, and keep his hooks out of the hard-pressed fellow who has toiled a few rungs up the fiscal ladder.

Last year I ventured to think we might have such a one in Walter Gordon, who ordained a 10 per cent personal income tax cut that let me put new rubber on my wheels.

But Gordon's out—Mitchell Sharp is in—and the budget released this week by the Hon. Mr. Sharp knocks optimism galley-west.

What he's going to do, Mr. Sharp tells us with a wolfish smile, is borrow from the rich at five-and-a-half per cent interest, give the low bracket earner a barely visible easement, and smack the middle-income Canadian right in the kisser.

★

Since that's the way it's going to be, I suppose we had better accept Finance Minister Sharp's assurance that prosperity will linger longer if he lightens our pockets of excess spending money.

First, though, I propose to deliver myself of certain thoughts that have been irking me for a considerable time.

These concern Canada's forgotten man: the patient, hard-working, uncomplaining character who supports our national sky with one hand and his family with the other.

His gross income may reach $10,000 a year. The rich look down on him, the loafer is convinced he makes it by robbing widows and orphans and the intellectual despises him as bourgeois.

He must dress himself, his wife and his children reasonably well. He is a payer of insurance premiums and dues to this organization or that. He supports charities, and is expected to help his young achieve an education which may extend into and through university.

Each month he shucks out car and mortgage payments and from him each year are extracted taxes both direct and hidden, by local, provincial and federal governments.

This is the middle income man; and personally, I consider him our country's unsung hero.

Even on his vacation he rarely has much fun. The habit of work is too deeply ingrained and the chances are strong that he comes to his playtime overweight and under-exercised.

If a coronary doesn't get him, retirement will. He may go up but he daren't go down. Except for his wife, nobody is likely to spare him a moment's pity.

★

More than once, in this city or others, I have seen how it goes with the middle income man when circumstance topples him off his perch.

His small business, if he owns one, goes on the rocks. Or, as happens frequently enough these days to point a warning, a company policy revised to match the advance of automation makes his job unnecessary.

He finds himself adrift with his severance pay, the sum of his contributions to a pension plan, such slight savings as the family may have been able to acquire, and the cash in his pockets.

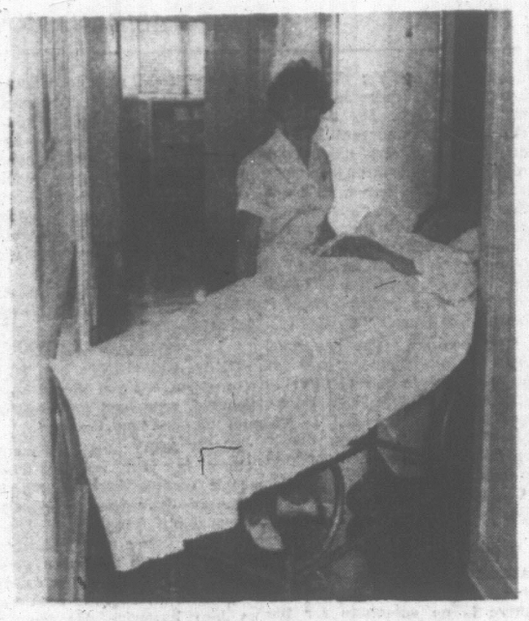
At this point in his life, he is, let us say, 47 years old.

The thing he must not, dare not, do is visibly depart from the way of life he has established. For him to give up, start again at the bottom, is unthinkable. The jobs down there are for the young beginner.

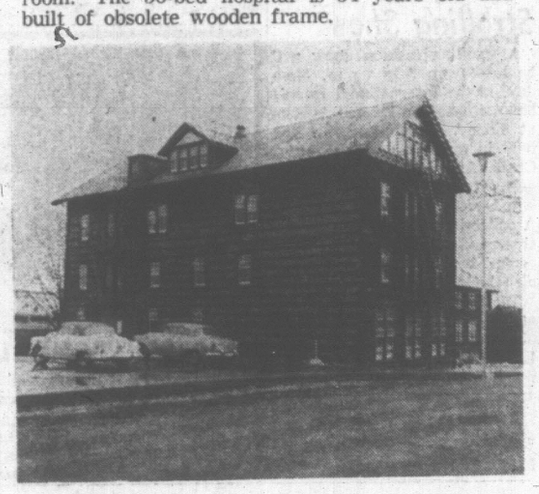
Only by maintaining his front can he hope to re-establish himself.

Even though the family doesn't miss a meal, there is a deal of plain and fancy suffering involved in these unpublicized tragedies. They have put men in mental hospitals and even removed them by the carbon monoxide route.

The lucky, soon or late, find a life-line. Rescued, restored to the middle income bracket, they can once more help prop the sky with one hand, while with the other, they pay unto Caesar their whopping taxes.



SMALLER PATIENTS and small stretchers are needed at Rest Haven Hospital, Sidney, where corridors are too narrow for turning and where beds must be dismantled if moved from room to room. The 56-bed hospital is 54 years old and built of obsolete wooden frame.



INTERNS JOKE at Royal Jubilee that they are called interns because they are interned in this 57-year-old wooden structure which also houses many of the hospital's offices. Qualified staff prefers hospitals with modern facilities. Hospital competition for trained staff is intense. Victoria suffers in comparison, often loses trained people.

Needs of Sick Not Being Met Hospital Official Maintains

By PETE LOUDON

A worsening situation of overcrowding and obsolete facilities in capital district hospitals was outlined to the Victoria Rotary Club today.

Patrick Blewett, assistant administrator at St. Joseph's Hospital, underlined his story with photographs taken in various hospitals.

He charged at a luncheon meeting of the club at Empress Hotel that the needs of the sick and the injured in this community are not being met.

His slides and commentary revealed:

- There are still 1,700 people waiting admission to acute hospital beds and the shortage of beds is increasing by 30 beds every 12 months.
- Persons who are ill but not in danger are waiting up to three months for hospital admission.
- At St. Joseph's it is not uncommon to see patients lined up waiting to use a bathroom.
- Patients waiting X-ray examination rest on stretchers or wheelchairs in a crowded public corridor.
- Interns and administration staff in Royal Jubilee share facilities in a 57-year-old frame building. Rest Haven Hospital is itself a 54-year-old frame building which was never designed for hospital use, but as a clinic.
- A typical room in the nurses' residence at St. Joseph's uses apple boxes for furniture and the only storage space is under the bed.

Mr. Blewett said:

"I am not suggesting that the standards of care in local hospitals are lacking. On the contrary the staff recognizes the deficiencies and puts forth an extra effort to ensure that the quality of care is equally as good as will be found anywhere.

HOW LONG?

"The point I make is, how long are we going to be satisfied with having our sick cared for in sub-standard hospital facilities?"

Mr. Blewett charged that Victoria "unlike most areas in this province and in this country," has never developed a systematic approach towards the provision of capital funds for hospitals."

He said hospitals are themselves responsible for 35 per cent of new construction costs, one-third of renovation costs and two-thirds of the cost of equipment.

The practice has been to raise these amounts by public appeals. Last November an attempt was made to bring all the municipalities and districts of the capital region into a plan whereby a regular income would come to hospitals through a property tax levy. The plan was defeated by ratepayers.

STUDY COMING?

"I understand a study of the whole question of provincial-municipal finance, including the question of financing hospital capital requirements is under consideration by the minister of municipal affairs and the local mayor and reeve." He hoped these studies would produce an answer to the current problems.

Mr. Blewett added:

"Even if we commenced construction immediately, additional beds could not be made available in les than 18 months to two years. By that time, at the present progression, you would have to wait a full six months for an elective surgical operation."

SURGICAL WARD at St. Joseph's holds 41 beds, crammed together so that working areas are too small. Rigging special equipment like oxygen tents is an almost hopeless chore. Patients often are lined up waiting for bathroom.

PATRICK BLEWETT
. . . makes appeal

PUBLIC CORRIDOR is waiting room for stretcher and wheel-chair patients awaiting X-ray at St. Joseph's. X-ray equipment is 25 years old. Patients have strong views on need for new, larger facilities. But there is no provision for anyone who is in hospital to vote.

Wonder Drug Fights Five New TB Infections

Five local schoolchildren who registered positive to tuberculosis skin tests are being dosed with a TB "wonder drug."

The youngsters, known to have been infected recently, are being treated to prevent the possibility of developing active TB disease, said Operation Doorstep officials.

The five are among nearly 1,000 Greater Victoria schoolchildren who have had positive reactions to the skin tests in the massive campaign to locate TB and other chest diseases.

No active cases of TB have been discovered among them so far, say officials, although 25 "positive" cases are still being investigated.

The percentage of "positive" reactions among youngsters here, higher than in Vancouver, does not mean that more Victoria children have been infected by the TB germ than on the mainland, said officials.

"It is true that a higher percentage of children had a positive reaction to the TB skin test than in Vancouver but there are other reasons for this," said Dr. R. M. Lane, medical director of the Vancouver Island Chest Clinic.

"There are many Victoria children, especially those of military personnel, who have lived in Europe, Quebec or Newfoundland.

"Many of them have received BCG vaccine."

BCG vaccine is a short-term TB vaccine, similar to polio or smallpox vaccines, although less effective.

While BCG gives the youngsters some protection from TB, it also gives them a positive reaction to the TB skin test said Dr. Lane.

Effect of the vaccine is being studied by Operation Doorstep officials and will be taken into account in the final results of the campaign.

MOBILE UNITS

The first day of the operation's work using four mobile units this week in the Greater Victoria area saw 1,169 persons tested.

In the Sooke and Colwood areas, officials reported 10,266 persons were tested, or slightly over 100 per cent of the estimated population, because of recent growth.

One nurse reported that in one day's testing of 511 persons, 232 of them were under six years old.

Grievances On Ferries May Be Heard

The provincial cabinet will consider appointing a board to hear grievances of B.C. Ferry Authority employees, the legislature was told Wednesday night.

But Provincial Secretary Wesley Black would not say when he will take the matter to the cabinet.

"Can the minister assure me a board of reference will be appointed immediately?" asked Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East)

Mr. Black would only reply that he realized "problems are taking place in the ferry service of a serious nature and I don't want to minimize this at all.

"I had hoped some of the dissatisfaction which exists there can be ironed out" by William T. McLaughlin who assumes the post of personnel officer for the authority Friday.

LONG HOURS

Ferry workers have petitioned for a board of reference to hear their complaints against a new shift system involving long hours during the summer season.

Mr. Macdonald said it appeared the cabinet was trying to ignor the request.

"You are courting trouble when you deny the limited appeal these people have," he warned.

"If labor relations deteriorate further, the sole responsibility will be on the government's shoulders."

Research Ship Starts In June

A construction start will be made in June on a $2,000,000 ocean research ship ordered by the mines department earlier this year, a spokesman for Yarrows Ltd. said today.

Yarrows was low bidder on the contract for the 130-foot vessel last February and working drawings are now being prepared.

The ship, scheduled for completion within 18 months, will be 570 gross tons, with a 31-foot beam and a draft of 14 feet, three inches. It is to have a single screw with 580 shaft diesel horsepower.

Deposit Seals Building Sale At Bastion

Victoria's finance committee confirmed this morning that a definite offer has been received by the city for the Heaney building on Bastion Square.

Sale of the building to a syndicate of businessmen was first reported in the Times on March 17.

City assessor Alfred Joyce told the finance committee a 10 per cent deposit cheque had been received and that detailed plans for the renovation of the building were being worked out.

Price of the building has been set at $37,000.

"We had hoped to be able to bring the completed deal to committee this morning, but the syndicate hasn't worked out details of its plans yet," city manager Dennis Young said.

Before the sale can be completed the syndicate's plans must be approved by city council to ensure that any changes planned fit in with the renovation of Bastion Square.

No Tax Return Costs Man $25

Richard Paiha, 1543 Mortimer, was fined $25 in central court today for failing to file a 1964 income tax return.

He pleaded guilty to a charge laid under the Income Tax Act.

GRANT HASSLE

Victoria to Pay —Perhaps Alone

Three organizations assured of municipal grants several months ago will get at least Victoria's share of the monies promised.

Grants had been promised to the Junior Mens' Basketball Association ($1,250) the Left-Handed Golfers' Association ($3,500) and the Dominion Drama Festival ($4,000) on an intermunicipal basis.

But although the Intermunicipal Committee agreed to go along with a five-way split of the $8,750, Esquimalt council later declined to share the costs.

Oak Bay said it was prepared to go along with the grants providing all municipalities were counted in. Victoria made the same promise. Saanich council has not yet made a decision, neither has Central Saanich.

This morning the finance committee decided Victoria could no longer sit on the fence awating unanimous approval from all municipalities.

"We are abligated to pay our share whatever the others decide," said Ald. Clyde Savage. "I think we should recommend to council that we pay our share on the Intermunicipal formula. If other councils follow Esquimalt and decline to pay their share we'll have to take another look at the situation."

The decision means that Victoria, providing city council agrees with the committee decision, will pay its share of the costs now and may later pick up the entire tab.

The grants for the three organizations aroused the ire of Oak Bay and Esquimalt representatives at an Intermunicipal Committee meeting some weeks ago when Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay complained that the grant promises had been made by Victoria without the backing of other municipalities.

QORs Planning Boom Encore

Members of the Queen's Own Rifles will be conducting firing exercises again Saturday morning at Albert Head.

An armed Forces spokesman said the exercises would not be cancelled despite a large number of protests over cracking booms which resulted from a similar exercise last Tuesday.

Parents Fear For Children In Poisoning

Seven Dogs Victims Of Scattered Strychnine

By GLEN ALLEN

A small Colwood crossroads community of young families spent the past week in fear of their children's lives.

The paths, parkland and playgrounds of their neighborhood had been littered, in some unknown way, by some unknown person or thing, with poison.

The evidence is incontrovertible.

Four dogs, pets of families in the Pickford and Donovan Roads area, just off Sooke Road near Metchosin Road intersection, ate poison and died. Another three nearly died.

SPCA and Colwood spokesmen today confirmed that almost all of the stricken dogs ate strychnine.

Mrs. Irene Noakes, 3044 Pickford, lost a five-month-old Springer Spaniel puppy March 19. Four days later her other older dog, Spot, went into convulsions. Spot recovered.

"We just hate it," says Mrs. Noakes. "The puppy kept the old dog young and the kids happy."

"But what about our children?" Do we have to wait for a child to die before something is done?"

UP IN ARMS

Mrs. Patricia Heaslip, 718 Donovan, whose own cougar hound, Trixie, was poisoned and recovered, and who two days later, March 20, found a dog dead on her back lawn, echoes her neighbors feelings.

"We're up in arms about it. The children use the same paths, go through the same bushes as the dogs. And they don't always do what they're told.

"You can keep your dogs locked up, but not children."

Mrs. Heaslip, who has children aged eight and five, had kept her cougar hound locked in the house for 42 days while the dog was in season. She let her out one afternoon at four o'clock, looked out the window an hour later to see her n her side twitching on the lawn.

On March 20 a dog belonging to Wayne Antrobus, 3037 Pickford was poisoned. It later recovered.

The same day Mrs. R. Richardson, 701 Donovan lost her dog.

The first dog to die, a part Labrador, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hellor, 2323 Sooke Rd., was poisoned March 16. "Doc" was their seven-year-old boy's pet.

"We thought we'd wait awhile before getting another one," said Mrs. Heller.

David Beeching, SPCA manager who has been investigating the epidemic of poisonings agrees that the real danger, despite the anguish of loss of pets, is to children.

"The kids and dogs are always together out there," he said.

Colwood RCMP who have been making an intensive search for the source of the poison, say they haven't come up with an answer yet.

"There are a few rat poisons containing strychnine, and sometimes mink farmers use it, but we don't see how dogs would be exposed to it," said an RCMP officer.

"We have been working with the community on this — they haven't given us a lead so far. They can't point a finger at anyone who might want their dogs killed."

This is the second rash of dog poisonings in the Greater Victoria area to come to light recently.

A number of dogs and cats were found to have been poisoned around Cadillac Avenue in Saanich shortly after Christmas.

4-H DELEGATES URGED

'Discourage Teen-Age Drinking'

Fifteen 4-H Junior Farm Club members from British Columbia will be chosen to attend a centennial seminar in Quebec and to visit Expo 67 in Montreal.

Sharon R. McAruthur, 4-H extension home economist, told a two-day meeting of the 4-H Club Advisory Council Wednesday that delegates will be chosen at Provincial 4-H Club week in July, 1967.

The young farm people will leave B.C. by train Aug. 2 and will arrive Aug. 5 for the seminar to be held at L'Esterel, a resort in the Laurentians.

They will later spend two days visiting Expo. 67.

A total of 200 4-H delegates representing Canada's 10 provinces will attend the seminar.

Eighteen 4-H leaders from all parts of the province are attending the meeting at Century Inn. They were welcomed Wednesday by A. H. Turner, deputy minister of Agriculture.

Ralph Barichello, president, expressed concern at the growing tendency of young people to rely on alcoholic drinks in order to have a good time.

Consumption of alcohol by high school and university students seemed to be on the increase, he said.

Agricultural students at the University of B.C., he said, cancelled a dance because the dean refused to request for a licence for the sale of alcohol.

He urged 4-H leaders as indivicuals to do what they can to discourage the consumption of spirits among young people.

Ask The Times

Q. Which city in Canada gets the most sunshine? How does Victoria rate with other cities?
A.R.P.

A. Regina is tops with an average of 2,278 hours per year, says the local weather office.

Edmonton comes next with 2,208 and Victoria is third with one hour less at 2,207.

The statistics are based on a 30-year average.

Q. I wrote a civil service exam and I flunked. Do I get an opportunity to try again? G.R.

A. In most cases the answer is 'yes,' say both federal and provincial civil service commissions.

In the provincial exam, there is a waiting period and in the federal exam it depends on the job you applied for and when the next competition will be.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

The Parking Lot

THE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE considering the establishment of a mining townsite within Strathcona Park—the mine itself is already conceded — has come up with some nice recommendations for the future. It would like to see Forbidden Plateau added to the parklands of the province. It wants the company to be careful about polluting Buttle Lake with its mine operation. It wants the pollution control board to keep an eye on things. And it hopes that what it has decided will not, of course, be considered as a precedent for similar decisions in the future.

And what did it decide? It decided to recommend that the mining company be allowed to build its town within Strathcona Park.

This decision is a shabby betrayal of the whole parks concept. To pretend that it will not be held up as a precedent by the next applicant for industrial exploitation within a park is poppycock.

To worry about safeguards against pollution and to insist that the townsite must be removed some day when the mine is abandoned—these are just decorative gestures to try to obscure the fact that one of the finest natural wonderlands in the province has been thrown open to industrial development. It's like insisting that only a doctor of the highest qualifications shall be called to attend a rape case. It does nothing to stop the crime.

It is now up to the legislature to deal with the committee's report.

The government can claim, of course, that it is only a Class B park that is being commercialized. It can claim this because it had already reduced the area from Class A to B for this purpose. Under existing legislation, any park boundary can be re-drawn for any reason, any park can be eliminated almost overnight, any park or a part of it can be re-classified to remove its protective category.

All this adds up to what the provincial government calls a parks policy. But our parks are not sanctuaries. They're sitting ducks.

Focus on the Indian

INTEREST WAS FOCUSSED from three directions on the British Columbia Indian this week and two major issues were sharply definite — educational opportunity and status.

George Clutesi, discussing some of his display pieces at the University of Victoria, noted that while he was making a serious effort to combine something of truly Indian character with modernism in his art, the department of education regards him solely as a handy-man painter in its school system at Alberni. White people teach the Indian children art, he touches up the schools that need a lick of paint.

The talented Indian's remarks came at approximately the same time that Mr. John Andrews, administrator of Alberni Indian students' residence, was commenting on the difficulty of persuading Indians to seek higher education. They lack enthusiasm, in many instances, because they have found that those who complete Grade 12 have a great deal of difficulty in finding jobs.

"There is," says Mr. Andrews, "no doubt that the Indian measures up intelligently just as well as his white counterparts. Unfortunately he has been tarred with a brush as someone who cannot sustain and keep up a job for a long time."

The position of B.C. Indians was also indicated in the report of the B.C. Advisory Committee and the director of the Indian Advisory Act, Mr. R. J. McInnes.

He presents an encouraging report on increased integration in public schools—half of all Indian school-age children now attend them—and he calls for a change in the racial attitude of both Indians and white people in this part of the world.

A recognized artist is told that he "doesn't rate." School trustees are told by the administrator of an Indian residence that Indians with Grade 12 or better educations find difficulty in locating adequate jobs, and the director of the Indian Advisory Act calls for a change of outlook not only by white people towards Indians but by Indians towards white people. These are disturbing remarks.

We have a long way to go to achieve equality of opportunity. There is, however, some movement toward that end, though it may be revealed merely in the recognition of the need to progress. Apathy at least is diminishing.

Costs and Smaller Classes

THE GREATER VICTORIA Teachers' Association argues in favor of smaller classes—a reduced pupil-teacher ratio—in this community and the argument from a teaching point of view is generally sound.

The district, according to the association, is using 15 fewer teachers than it is entitled to on the government approved basis. But, says the association, in Victoria elementary schools during 1964-65, the ratio was 35.7 pupils per teacher, compared with the classes of 30 pupils which the association would like to see established.

Assuming there is a sufficient number of competent teachers to meet all needs, it is difficult to argue against a reduction to the 30-to-1 ratio, except on grounds of cost.

On a rough mathematical basis, this would require six teachers to handle classes now conducted by five. The teaching costs would, on this figuring, run to about 20 per cent more than is now being paid.

The advantages of the small class under a suitable teacher are widely recognized. Now if the teachers can suggest a means whereby the financing can be accomplished without pain to the taxpayers, the reduction of classes should follow quickly.

As the situation exists here, however, one important question remains unanswered: If the supply of excellent teachers is limited—and the existence of low certification is admitted—does the student not have a better chance for a good education in a relatively large class under a capable teacher than he does in a smaller class under a less qualified one?

Worth Encouraging

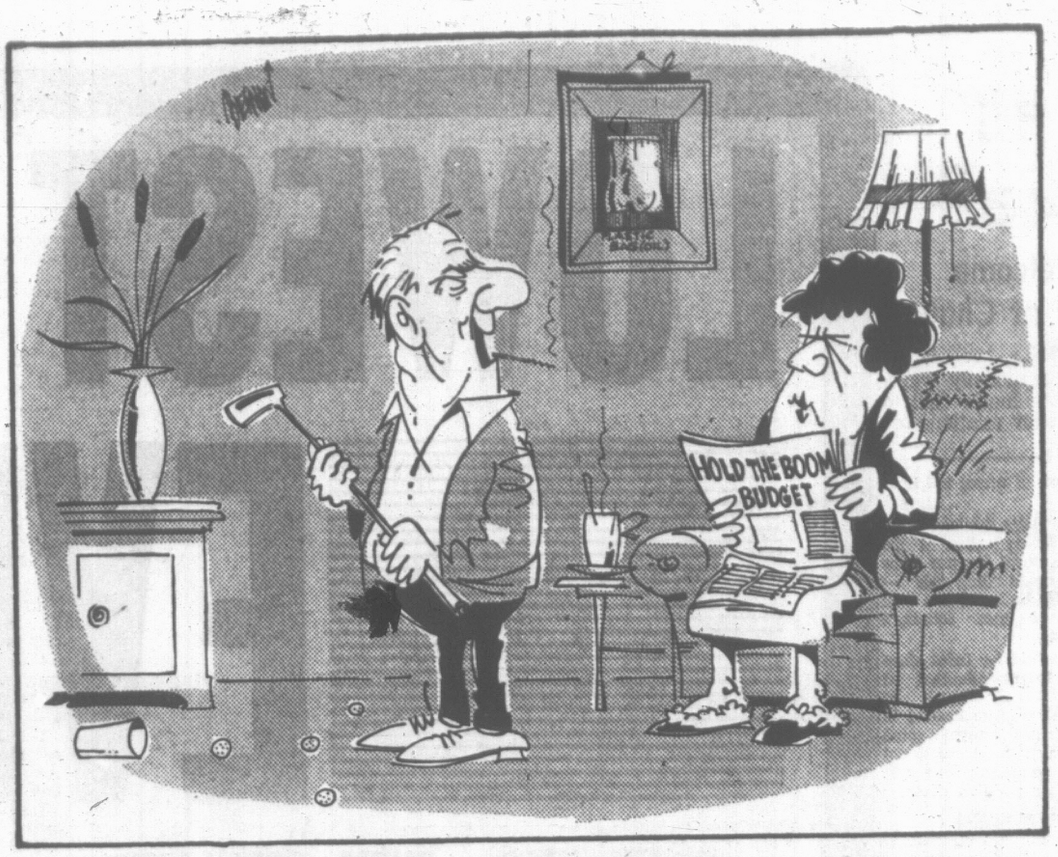
THE PROVINCIAL 4-H Advisory Council is impressed by the fact that many of the young members of the clubs within its jurisdiction lack a knowledge of the various parts of their province.

Very reasonably, the council feels that these young people could be encouraged in their activities and made better all-round citizens if they had the opportunity to visit similar groups in other parts of British Columbia.

The council hopes to work out a program that will enable club members to exchange visits.

This is a large province. Too many of its residents have had little opportunity to see more than a fraction of it — and consequently may have only a limited appreciation not only of its many attractions, but also of the conditions under which other citizens live.

If the 4-H group can facilitate travel among like-minded young people to different areas, the educational value of such visiting would be exceptional—and perhaps merited by none more honestly than by the young people who, through their 4-H associations, show so deep a concern for the land and what flourishes on it.



". . . To put it in layman's language . . . ease off on buying shovels, lawn mowers, rakes, wheelbarrows, fertilizer, summer dresses, new drapes . . . and take up low-expenditure occupations like fishing, hunting, golf . . ."

FROM OTTAWA — By MAURICE WESTERN

To Control a Boom to Avoid a Bust

BASIC to Mr. Sharp's boom control budget is a frank recognition that "we Canadians are trying to take on more than we can handle." Paced prosperity is the minister's alternative to "the kind of boom that will lead to a bust." It is sometimes objected that there can be no case for restrictive measures while pools of unemployment and unused resources are still to be found in various parts of the country. Mr. Sharp agrees that there is a margin between our present performance and our potential.

Western

But there is no margin between our present performance and our present capacity. The distinction is vital. We could do better if we had a more highly skilled labor force, better industrial organization, higher mobility and so on. But we can achieve these only over time. Lacking them, we face an inflationary surge that is real and urgent.

Price Surge

What is feasible, with our present and prospective resources for 1966-67, is an expansion of about 5 per cent in the volume of output. Mr. Sharp was faced, however, with a probable increase of 9 per cent in GNP with four points attributable not to volume but to the price surge. This would also mean a substantial worsening in the balance of payments deficit.

In his efforts to regain control of this situation, Mr. Sharp has initiated action on a number of fronts. To begin with, he has restored about two-thirds of Mr. Gordon's ill-considered income tax cuts of 1965. There are some wispy concessions to persons in the lowest brackets but for most taxpayers, it is pretty much a case of as you were in 1964.

Secondly, the government has deferred another group of construction expenditures, with a total value of $34.8 millions. At the same time, it has promised to forego new spending programs except in emergencies and has appealed to the provinces to exercise similar restraint, notably in regard to highway programs.

Forced Loan

A third major measure is the refundable tax on cash profits; in effect a 5 per cent forced loan applied to corporations. This is not a revenue measure and the sum realized—about $250 millions in a full year—will not appear as a budget item. Mr. Sharp hopes, by this device, to divert, probably for 18 months, a portion of the flow of business funds into capital expenditures.

Two other changes are intended to check inflationary pressure by inducing postponements of the capital programs which are bidding up costs. One of them throws into reverse Mr. Gordon's expansionary engine of capital cost allowances. Instead of increasing them to accelerate investment, Mr. Sharp has decreased them selectively. The new restrictions will not apply to heavy construction equipment or to equipment required in long term utility projects but they will bear on such assets as building and machinery.

In the same fashion, and with the further purpose of stimulating higher productivity, Mr. Sharp has partially reversed his predecessor's highly controversial sales tax policy. Here again a distinction has been made between production machinery, which is to be relieved of the tax by stages, and building materials, which could scarcely be cheapened without stimulating an already excessive demand. By staging the reductions, Mr. Sharp is dangling a carrot before business; the longer it waits, the cheaper the final investment.

There are other less important changes with the same general intent. Some special inducements to early construction are being allowed to lapse; conversely the deadlines in designated areas are being set back in order to relieve the competitive pressure for scarce materials.

Mr. Sharp's economic case for anti-inflationary action seems unassailable. Is the action adequate for the purposes so clearly indicated? Mr. Walter Gordon plainly under-estimated the strength of the economic upward surge and in the end lost control of it. What is the measure of the present budget?

Unimpressive

The magnitude of the tax changes is scarcely impressive: about $80 millions in total. Furthermore, even with the construction postponements and the government's self-denying ordinance in respect to future programs, expenditures will be up 10 per cent in a single year. The budgetary deficit is some $150 millions although, on a national economic accounts basis—taking in non-budgetary transactions affecting the incomes of individuals and businesses and specifically the refundable tax—there is a healthy prospective surplus of $615 millions.

Taking all these changes together, however, the prospect is still for an increase of 8½ per cent in GNP with 3½ points attributable to price increases. This is not a budget to stop inflation; it is a budget to control inflation. Mr. Gordon's colt has become a bronco too wild and too strong to tame without an extended struggle; Mr. Sharp's best hope is that he can ride him without being thrown.

None Too Favorable

From the standpoint of our economic objectives for 1970, developments are none too favorable. There was a sag last year in our man-hour productivity increase and inflation is not favorable to an improvement; what it does is to call into play less efficient resources; the semi-skilled, for example, in place of the skilled. Furthermore a two-year price increase of 7 per cent is far beyond the limits considered permissible by the Economic Council of Canada.

This situation is not of Mr. Sharp's making. He has taken the courageous course by introducing a budget which cannot be popular. He has carefully delineated the problem facing us in 1966-67. By his program of restraints he is attempting to discipline the boom; to transform it from a dangerous threat into paced and sustainable prosperity.

Is it in fact manageable by these relatively modest measures? Can it be brought gradually under control without hurt to anyone? These are the unanswered questions. If Mr. Sharp succeeds, he will be the first finance minister in our history to do so without such external assistance as the Korean War.

Letters

Letters will be considered for publication only if the writer is clearly identified to the editor, who may permit pen names at his discretion. Submissions will be edited and may be condensed. Short letters are favored. None will be returned.

Instead of Fountains?

After reading Mr. Malone's report on the junior basketball tournament held in Victoria (both men's and women's) I was left truthfully heartsick to think our city council and officials could act in the manner described.

We hear so much of the trouble the few youngsters of today, or any era, perpetuate yet nothing of the goodness of the majority.

I imagine if Mr. Harold Turner had asked for another fountain erected in this fair city of ours instead of encouragement and financial support, or even a banquet for the visiting youngsters, it would have had council's immediate concern.—Disillusioned.

But Not Proved

Your contributor from Ottawa, Maurice Western, should read something other than newspaper reports in order to keep fully informed.

He says that after Evans was hanged "it was proved that another man committed the murder."

Correction please. True another convicted murderer confessed to that crime, but a government inquiry found no proof—the two murderers just happened to stay at the same time in the same "skid row" boarding house.

What about the "confession" in the Coffin case?—Walter White, 3821 Miramontes.

A Note of Harmony

At a recent meeting at Uvic, Dr. Hugh Keenleyside mentioned that a musician friend of his had told him that a Chinese-manfactured piano he had tried out during a visit to that country was at least the equal of any Steinway he had ever touched.

I would like to suggest that it would be a fitting gesture if a Chinese grand piano were purchased by the Norma MacDonald Memorial Fund. Mrs. MacDonald was particularly attached to China—her last visit was the third within 12 months. I imagine that the fund would save a certain amount of money on the Chinese piano; it would be something towards reciprocity in trade between Canada and China; and in particular it would be a goodwill gesture which I am certain the Chinese would greatly appreciate.—Mrs. W. Burchill, 1350 Dallas.

SOLITARY GRANDEUR

Walking round the ruins of Angkor Wat, one is overawed by the immensity and magnificence of it all. As many as maybe ten million people lived here once; now Buddhist priests in their brilliant saffron robes live in newer temples beside the towering Angkor Wat. But apart from them the bats are in sole possession. And perhaps it is the vast, echoing uninhibited, emptiness that impresses most of all.

FROM WASHINGTON — By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Uneasy Peace With China

THE Peking government has lost no time in making it known that Chinese-American relations will continue to be irreconcilably hostile. Recently there have been some indications in Washington of a disposition to soften the quarrel. They have appeared not only in the Senate hearings but also from within the administration itself. Peking will have none of it. It has chosen to keep the quarrel as sharp as possible—just short of war. For Peking wants nothing to be done which would relieve this country of the onus of being solely responsible for the exclusion of one quarter of the human race from the world community.

Lippmann

Though I have no pretensions myself to expert knowledge of Red China, it is evident that the Chinese-American conflict is irreconcilable. The fundamental fact is that we are locked into the unfinished Chinese civil war, and that we have established in Taiwan a military protectorate over the remnant of the regime that was overthrown on the Chinese mainland. The two Chinas, which actually exist today, are mortal enemies. The victory of either one over the other would mean the destruction of the loser, and the United States is irretrievably committed by treaty and in honor to defend the Chinese remnant in Taiwan.

Matter of Time

There is no reason to suppose that the quarrel can be composed by some bold and imaginative act of statesmanship. This is the kind of quarrel that can be composed only if and when the time comes that it has been outlived. There is no hope of a reconciliation between Mao and Chiang. Neither will accept a Two-China policy, sensible as it would be. For each has staked his life on the thesis that there is only one China and that he is the leader of it.

Civil wars are never easy to settle, as we have the strongest reasons for knowing. It is a hundred years since the end of our civil war, and only in our day are we seeing the advent of a new generation who have got beyond the old issues. The same pattern is likely to apply in all the divided countries. Some day, after Mao and Chiang are gone, there will be a new generation of Chinese in Peking and Taipei who will compose the quarrel. Something like that is likely to happen in Germany; the country will reunite when the Stalinist agents and the anti-Russians, the Nazis and the anti-Nazis have passed on.

Distant Settlement

This puts off into the rather distant future the prospect of a general settlement in Asia. For without the participation and goodwill of a satisfied China, no Asian settlement can, I believe, be imagined. The crucial problem before us today is how to live through what may be a long interval of time—perhaps a generation of time—without precipitating or slithering into that great war which, though no one in his senses can want it, is an ever-present possibility.

In trying to solve the problem of preserving the general peace in the long interval before a settlement becomes possible, we can rely on the fact that all the great powers concerned, all the powers cabable of waging a great war, are aware that nothing can be gained and everything lost in a great war. This is true, I believe, of mainland China just as well as of the Soviet Union and the United States.

The chief cause for worry, the largest risk of all, is that the one step will lead to another, with nobody intending to produce a collision and nobody quite able to avert it. There has never been any reason to doubt the good intentions of the President, to doubt his earnest desire to avert a great war and bring about an end to the little war. What is not so certain is that he knows how to limit his war aims. The ambition of making South Viet Nam a free and independent country is almost certainly beyond hope of realization.

The danger for us lies in the risk of an unending pursuit of the unattainable.

'From the Lip'

Vancouver Sun

It would be assumed that Trade Minister Loffmark would know what he is talking about when he states that "the rates charged by the National Harbors Board administration in Vancouver are three times those levied in Montreal." Unfortunately, as it so happens, Mr. Loffmark is shooting from the lip again.

The NHB has now produced detailed comparisons, down to dollars and cents. They are compiled on the basis of the same vessel, carrying the same cargo, visiting competitive ports for a 96-hour layover. The examples are drawn from specific ships which have visited the ports in question.

Taken into account are such variables as harbor dues, dockage, service charges, cargo rates, wharfage and piloting charges. They show that the same vessel would pay $2,247.33 at Vancouver, $2,388.67 at Montreal, $4,103.12 at Tacoma, $4,701.12 at Portland, $5,203.12 at Bellingham and $6,143.12 at Seattle.

Mr. Loffmark and several other critics obviously have been caught short in their homework. They have failed to note, for one thing, that harbor dues in Vancouver are payable only for the first five visits by any vessel. In Montreal they are payable on every visit. . .

The Port of Vancouver is not yet heaven on earth. But it might be expected that a provincial minister so vitally interested in the trade moving through this harbor would have access to the facts before making charges that damage the port's reputation abroad.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From The Times of March 31, 1906:

Cowichan Lake — (despatch from Prince Arthur of Connaught's fishing party. The Prince arrived on the island three days ago): Dripping with rain and rubbing his hands in the cold, His Highness returned to the Lakeview Hotel proudly carrying four magnificent trout, victims of his prowess. He had used two flies, a Coachman and a March Brown, his first cast yielding nothing. But he was busy after that, once hooking a trout on each of the flies, which made for an interesting fight.

Budget Won't Slow Down B.C. Projects

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia industrial leaders agreed Wednesday the province's current industrial boom will continue despite Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp's "slow the boom" budget.

Most spokesmen said expansion will continue as planned and the budget is not expected to curtail any major projects.

Robert G. Rogers, president of Crown Zellerbach Canada, said he welcomed the move to remove the tax on production equipment.

"We have been pushing for this and it will definitely have an effect on our long - term plans," said Mr. Rogers. "It will make it practical for us to proceed with plans that might otherwise have been shelved."

The timber company executive said his company will proceed with plans for a $20,000,000 expansion of facilities. He said the budget should make resources development within B.C. easier, rather than prohibitive.

J. Ernest Richardson, president of B.C. Telephone Co., said the budget won't hurt his company this year, but could slow down development "in 1967 or 1968."

Mr. Richardson said a $52,000,000 expansion program will proceed unaltered.

"Our program is geared to commitments to the community and we are bound to this," said Mr. Richardson.

Otto F. Andreason, president of East Asiatic Co., whose subsidiary is involved in a $75,000,000 pulp mill development program at Gold River, B.C. said it appears "some imagination" went into preparation of the budget.

'Not Going to Hurt Us'–Shrum

Mr. Andreason said it is too early to tell what the effect might be on industrial plans not yet formulated, but it should not hurt projects already in the planning or development stages.

Paul M. Marshall, president of Columbia Cellulose, undertaking a multi-million dollar pulp mill expansion at Prince Rupert, said there is no possibility of his company turning back.

And David Odhams, president of Vancouver Wharves, now in the midst of a $7,000,000 development program, said his company has to provide whatever is required by the shipping industry and can't change its Vancouver plans.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of the publicly-owned B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, said a budget proposal to lift the 15 per cent non-resident withholding tax on certain bonds and debentures April 15 "certainly isn't going to hurt us."

The finance minister's budget provides for removal of the tax in specified circumstances to entice greater foreign investment in Canada.

"It might even help us a little bit," said Dr. Shrum.

Budget provisions dealing with the new repayable tax on corporation profits, came under fire from B.C. labor leaders.

Pat O'Neal ,secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said he wished the government would tax his income the same way.

"One thing that fascinates me is that while Sharp voted for (former finance minister Walter) Gordon's budget, everything he's done in his own is downright contradictory to what was in the Gordon budget," said Mr. O'Neal.

The labor federation secretary said the budget reflects the traditional conservative approach to fiscal policy.

"I'm not sure it will accomplish what it sets out to do," he said. "I think in the long range, it will slow down the economy too much."

Riders Hit Trail On Weekend

Judges will take their posts along the route, and each will judge riders at an obstacle point.

Motorists in the Metchosin district are asked to use caution when the ride is in progress as several horses and riders may be on the road at once.

POWERFUL WEAPON IN BOOM-AND-BUST WAR

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — The new refundable five per cent tax on corporation cash profits is seen here as a powerful new tool the federal government can use in its constant war on boom-and-bust cycles in the economy.

Finance Minister Sharp, who introduced the novel tax in his budget Tuesday night, told reporters Wednesday it is an experiment at present. Its future will depend on its effect on the economy, which will be closely watched.

Other countries — notably Sweden — have used a similar tax, but have put much sharper teeth in it.

The new Canadian tax is five per cent of cash profits amounting to more than $30,000, which is impounded monthly in a separate government account, to be paid back with interest at five per cent at a later date.

The new tax is to run for 18 months, and repayments are to be made in the subsequent 18 to 36 months, depending on the state of the economy then.

Its purpose is to draw off a portion of the spending and investment cash of the big corporations during the present period of strong inflationary pressures on the economy, and then return the funds to the companies at a time when some impetus is needed for lagging economy to keep up its forward march.

AS AN INNOVATION

So far as officials are aware, this is the first time such a tax device has been employed outside Western Europe.

In Sweden, the tax is much stiffer. Virtually all the excess cash of firms is drawn off at boom times, impounded as it were in a deep freeze, and then paid back at a healthy rate of interest out of the treasury when an expansion of plant and equipment is needed.

Mr. Sharp was asked whether his new tax is merely an experiment or whether it is a wedge for much more powerful employment in the future. He replied that so far it is an experiment, but the tax device has been used successfully elsewhere and its future depends on conditions as they develop in this country.

The tax is intended only to apply to major corporations, ones with a sales volume upwards of half a million dollars.

But it strikes at the root of inflation tendencies in the economy whenever they occur.

As the economists see it — and Mr. Sharp is a trained economist — the most powerful influence in encouraging growth is the rate of investment in new plants and equipment, the machinery with which a country produces new goods and services.

LIST THREE SOURCES

There are three main components of this kind of investment—consumer spending, government spending, and corporate investment.

Governments have long been able to adjust their own spending and influence the spending of the consumer element in the economy, the latter through raising or lowering personal income taxes.

Now authorities here see the federal government's new refundable tax on corporate cash profits as a major instrument with which to influence corporate investment.

The finance minister said Wednesday it is too soon to assess the business community's reaction to his new tax. Details of its application are still to be written into law and he has asked for advice on this.

But initial reaction publicly has been that the new tax is moderate and a device that will not add to costs but one that will encourage postponement of excessive investment intentions for the present.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Federal, state and local authorities staged a narcotics raid in Buffalo today, and more than 30 persons were taken into custody. Commissioner Frank N. LAON, France (Reuters)—An RCAF T-33 jet trainer plane and a U.S. Air Force F-101 jet collided in the air today about 55 miles southeast of here.

Strike Cripples U.S. Railways

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge ordered today a halt to strikes and picketing against eight U.S. railways by the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

U.S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff granted the order at the request of railway lawyers.

By UP International

Locomotive firemen climaxed a seven-year battle with U.S. railroads and the federal courts today to save some 30,000 firemen's jobs by striking eight major railroads.

A railroad spokesman said the walkout "will have a serious adverse effect on the national defence." General Motors in Detroit said the strike would force it to begin closing assembly plants "within a day or two."

Passenger service, freight haulings and mail service were affected from coast to coast. The strike paralyzed commuter operations in Chicago and Boston, forcing 45,000 commuters in those cities to seek other means of getting to work.

Barred by federal court order from striking directly over the eliminated jobs, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen called 8,000 firemen on strike without warning at 12:01 a.m. EST, on grounds the railroads refused to negotiate on a program for training apprentice firemen.

There are no apprentice firemen coming into the industry. There have been none for the past two years.

The strike came as a "complete surprise," Asst. U.S. Labor Secretary James J. Reynolds said in Washington. It also caught other railroad unions off guard, although members of other unions were honoring the firemen's picket lines.

Action Denounced by Engineers

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers blasted the firemen's walkout as "an illegal strike" and in violation of the Railway Labor Act.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the 78,000-member BLFE, said at a news conference at the union's headquarters in Cleveland the railroads' failure to discuss an apprentice training program was "just another typical delaying tactic . . . and we can tolerate it just so long."

He said "federal mediation has had its chance since early in January and yet nothing has been done about this issue."

Gilbert said he had been summoned to Washington to meet with President Johnson.

Earlier Gilbert had indicated he would call an end to the strike if asked by President Johnson to do so.

The strike affected rail service over more than 42,800 miles of track in 38 states from Maine to California and from the northern plains to the deep south.

The eight struck railroads were the Pennsylvania, west of Harrisburg, Pa., and the entire systems of the Boston and Maine, Illinois Central, Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Grand Trunk Western, Central of Georgia, and Seaboard Airline.

By the end of the day about 164,000 union employees of the eight roads were expected to be idled. All other unions were expected to honor the firemen's picket lines, as has been the case in past railroad strikes.

A spokesman for the Missouri-Pacific said the strike would halt the "heavy volume of military freight which has been moving in great volume in recent weeks . . . it is impossible to separate the military from the other freight included in the freight trains."

LBJ Appeals For Halt In Spending

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today appealed to all Americans to fight inflation by immediately cutting unnecessary spending to the bone.

The president issued an appeal to citizens—from leaders of business and labor to housewives and workers—to help halt the mushrooming trend in the economy.

Johnson said he had not decided that such steps as a tax increase were yet necessary. He said there was no need for such measures as long as voluntary restraints could keep the economy in check.

Air France Grounded By Strike of Pilots

PARIS (UPI) — Almost 2,500 Air France pilots and hostesses struck for higher pay today, grounding the airlines' world-wide fleet of planes.

The strike grounded the 94 Air France flights out of Paris scheduled today. Out of 97 scheduled arrivals from abroad, only 14 aircraft landed and they were in the air when the strike started at midnight.

The 48-hour Air France walkout headlined the snowballing wave of labor unrest hitting government-run services this week.

The Air France stoppage provided a bonanza for the 25 foreign airlines operating out of Paris, whose services were not affected.

Verwoerd Registers Record Win

JOHANNESBURG (CP) —Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's white Nationalists won South Africa's general election today and seemed headed for a record victory.

This would be an overwhelming endorsement by the country's white voters for the party's apartheid policy of rigid racial segregation.

With 130 of 166 house of assembly seats accounted for, the Nationalists had 92, United party 37 and the Progressive party one.

Unofficial computer analyses, which in previous elections here have proved accurate, indicated the Nationalists would win a record 124 seats. The highest previous total won by any party was 111, by the now main opposition United party in 1938.

Parliament has been enlarged by 10 seats to 170 including four white members representing the mixed-blood population.

Results of Wednesday's voting showed a swing of about 16 per cent away from the main opposition United party, led by Sir de Villiers Graaff. Observers said this swing confirmed the firm support of white South Africans for Verwoerd's apartheid (racial separation) policy and toughness towards the West.

The United party so far had won 36 seats and the Progressive party one seat.

Only white persons voted Wednesday in the elections for another all - white assembly to serve for five years. Persons of mixed blood (called coloreds) already had voted separately for four white persons to represent them.

OUTNUMBER THE WHITES

There are about 2,000,000 coloreds out of the total non-white population of 14,138,000. The whites number 3,335,000, and about 1,700,000 were eligible to vote.

In the old Parliament, which had only 160 seats, the Nationalists held 106 seats, the United party 49, the Progressives one and four whites represented the coloreds.

Verwoerd, 65, was returned at Heidelberg in the Transvaal with a 5,516-vote majority. He was unopposed in the 1961 election.

De Villiers Graaff got back in Rondebusch, near Cape Town, with a margin of 6,238 votes.

Mrs. Helen Suzman, sole torchbearer in Parliament of the multi - racial Progressive party, kept her seat in the Johannesburg district of Houghton with a slightly increased majority—711 votes compared with 564 in 1961.

YOUTHS, many of them en route to high school, attack David Benson, 18, one of a group who earlier had burned their draft cards in front of court house in Boston. The man in white coat just behind Benson is John Phillips, 22, of Boston, whose head is down and hidden. Both were treated at hospital. (AP Wirephoto.)

STUDENTS BEAT, STOMP GROUP OF PACIFISTS

BOSTON (UPI)—A jeering crowd of 25 to 30 high school students today beat and stomped a group of pacifists including four who burned draft cards on the steps of a courthouse. One pacifist was hospitalized.

The students who were en route to school charged into 11 pacifists assembled on the steps of South Boston District Court where four of them set their draft cards afire.

The 11 were at court for arraignment on charges stemming from a peace demonstration last Friday outside the Boston army base. The pacifists are members of the New England Committee for Non-Violent Action.

As the four ignited their draft cards, the students moved in with cries of "Yellow," "Coward" and "Chicken." The students, including several girls, tossed punches. At least seven pacifists were knocked to the ground and kicked and pummelled.

No arrests were made.

The pacifists did not fight back. They covered their face with their arms to ward off blows. Some kneeled on the steps or fell limp in the manner of non-violent demonstrators.

Two agents of the FBI and one agent of the army's criminal investigation division were knocked to the ground as they went to the defence of the pacifists.

Daughter of Draft Boss Continues Hunger Strike

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) The daughter of Michigan's selective service chief and five companions, all on a hunger strike, began their second day on a picket line today in protest over the jailing of four young critics of the Viet Nam war.

Meanwhile, the four youths in jail turned away their trays of food.

The picket line, on duty overnight, marched at the home of John A. Hannah, Michigan State University president.

The six pickets—three young men and three girls—showed up at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday.

"We'll stay here until they (the war critics) get out of jail," said Louise Holmes, 20, daughter of Col. Arthur Holmes, the Michigan draft boss.

"I don't like dragging my father into this," said Miss Holmes. "I've stayed clear of telling him what to do and he stays clear of telling me."

Picketer Jane Munn, 22, daughter of MSU athletic director Clarence (Biggie) Munn, said she felt sure her father disapproved but that she expected her parents to "overlook it."

Both Munn and Holmes are in Florida.

Dr. Hannah was represented as planning no action on demands of the group that he intervene in the jailed youths' behalf.

"As long as they don't block the sidewalk they can sit there as long as they want to," an aide quoted the university president as saying.

The misses Holmes and Munn and their adherents charged that due process of law was violated in the four jailings.

They said that the Viet Nam war had no part in their feelings. They said they objected to denial of bond to the four while an appeal was pending.

Circuit Court Judge Marvin Salmon handed down jail terms ranging from 10 to 30 days on conviction of the four for trespassing in a demonstration last Oct. 12. The four had passed out leaflets opposing the Viet Nam war at a marine corps exhibit on the MSU campus.

Wilson Certain Of Big Majority

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor Party headed into a strong lead on the basis of first fragmentary returns in the British general election today.

A popular vote swing appeared to be developing in favor of Labor that could give it a majority of 120 to 130 parliamentary seats.

Early results reported soon after voting closed showed a swing of more than 4 per cent in popular votes in favor of Labor.

If this set a pattern throughout the country, experts said it would result in the Wilson government's re-election by a decisive majority.

The British Broadcasting Corporation's electronic computer predicted at 10:15 p.m. (1:15 p.m. PST) Labor would win by a margin of 120 to 130 out of 630 parliamentary seats.

The British Press Association's computer predicted Labor would win an overall margin of 157 parliamentary seats.

BIG TURNOUT

When the polls closed officials estimated the total vote might exceed 77 per cent of the 35.9 million persons eligible to cast ballots.

Conservatives won the first seat to be declared — Cheltenham. Result showed a 2.8 swing to Labor. Figures were: A. Dodds-Parker, Conservative 22,683; W. J. Wilson, Labor, 19,768.

The second seat to be declared was Wolverhampton North East, held by Labor with an increased majority reflecting a six per cent swing to Labor.

Labor made its first gain in the western England seat of Exeter.

Mrs. G. P. Dunwoody won from the Conservatives with a margin of 3,576 against a Conservative margin of 1,362 at the 1964 election. It was a 5.5 per cent swing to Labor.

It was the first time Labor has ever won this seat.

Returns from 20 of 630 constituencies showed the following standing:

Labor	15
Conservatives	5
Liberals	0
Unreported	610
Total	630

Canada Gives Own Economic Guidelines

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is asking Canadian subsidiaries of foreign firms to handle pricing, procurement, earnings disposal, resource development and related matters with the interests of Canada in mind, Trade Minister Winters announced today.

Mr. Winters told the Commons these economic guidelines are contained in a letter he is sending to the heads of the Canadian subsidiaries. He tabled the letter in the Commons.

The aim, he said, is to "help subsidiaries of foreign companies conduct their affairs as good corporate citizens of Canada."

The move was seen as a reaction to U.S. economic guideline aimed partly at curbing investment by the foreign subsidiaries of U.S. firms.

Mr. Winters said the economic principles emphasize "the need for subsidiary companies to strive for maximum realization of their potential and for full participation in, and identification with, the life of the Canadian community."

The underlying objective sought was equally applicable to Canadian companies.

EMPHASIZES GROWTH

A key recommendation was for the retention by the subsidiary "of a sufficient share of earnings to give appropriate financial support to the growth requirements of the Canadian operation, having in mind a fair return to shareholders on capital invested."

Subsidiaries should also strive to allow opportunity for financial participation by the Canadian public in ownership.

Pilot's Body Near Wreck

ST. LUCIE, Que. (UPI)—Searchers today found the body of an RCAF test pilot beside his downed Tutor jet trainer.

Air force officials from Trenton, Ont., said the position of Flt. Lieut. L. J. (Jack) Lumsdaine's body indicated he had attempted to eject from his CL-41 trainer moments before it crashed in a wooded area near here, 80 miles north of Montreal.

Spaceship To Orbit Around Moon

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia has launched a new unmanned spaceship in an attempt to put the first satellite into orbit around the moon.

The blast off of Luna 10 came almost two months after history's first successful landing on the moon's surface.

The official news agency Tass, which announced the Luna 10, launching at 1:47 p.m. Moscow time (3:47 p.m. PST) said:

"The main purpose of the station is to test a system ensuring the setting up of an artificial moon satellite."

The indirect language, similar to that employed during the soft landing attempts, was attributed to the Soviet practice of building a "hedge" into their space announcements in case of failure.

LICENCE SEIZURE IMPROPER SAYS LAWYER

VANCOUVER (CP)—The chairman of the civil liberties committee of the B.C. Bar Association says the proposed legislation permitting police the right to seize licences of suspected drinking drivers is improper.

W. J. Wallace said here Wednesday only a court of competent jurisdiction should be able to take away the right to drive.

Mr. Wallace said his committee will submit a recommendation to this effect to the bar association's annual meeting in June.

BLACK WATCH GROUP PLANS ANNUAL SERVICE

The Black Watch Association, Pacific Coast branch, will hold its annual Vimy Memorial service in the Veterans' Chapel of the DVA Hospital Sunday, April 17, at 10 a.m.

It will be conducted by Rev. Douglas Kendell, an ex-member of the regiment and a member of the association.

Medals will be worn and permission has been granted by the Chief of Staff, B.C. Area Headquarters, for the wearing of the Black Watch uniform No. 1 if desired.

"We hope all members of the Black Watch Association will make a real effort to attend," says R. E. Henley, secretary-treasurer, "and their families are also welcome."

The service will include the laying of a wreath, a two-minutes silence in memory of fallen comrades and the sounding of The Lament by a Black Watch piper.

A number of DVA Hospital patients will take part.

U.K. ELECTION NOTES

London Businessman Won't Believe Polls

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—One London businessman who has no faith in opinion polls dashed into a bookmaker's shop Wednesday to bet £250 ($750) that Conservative Leader Edward Heath would win the general election with a 53-seat margin. If he wins, he'll collect £250,000 ($750,000).

As most of the bets continued to roll in on Labor, bookmakers pushed odds on Prime Minister Wilson to 1 to 66. You had to stake £66 to get £1, ($3) on a Labor victory.

The Queen will be in Buckingham Palace Friday — just in case another "kiss hands" ceremony is necessary. In this ancient act of homage, the Queen extends her right hand which is grasped by the new prime minister and kissed. Since Wilson has already "kissed hands" after his 1964 eection victory, this will only be necessary if Heath or Liberal Leader Jo Grimond should win.

Short-short skirts were an election issue in Dorking, Surrey. Tory member Sir George Sinclair belabored the railways because one of their platforms is so low girls with these shortie skirts have to raise their legs nine inches to board a train. Sir George says he's keeping a close eye on the situation.

Nightworker Ian Warren of Selborne, Hampshire, supports Labor, but not when the party disturbs his day sleep. When a Labor loudspeaker truck pulled up in front of his house, he fired a blast from a double - barrelled shotgun high over the truck. The campaigner roared off in hasty retreat.

And at Eastergate, Sussex, a notice that hangs by a doorbell reads: "All political canvassers will be shot." Mrs. Heather Johnson says the notice had the desired effect.

"Perfect angle . . . Aimed at Washington to fall on Moscow . . ."

Rent Controls To Aid Elderly Not In Cards

Victoria's health committee decided this morning that recommended legislation to force the builders of apartments to set aside suites for the elderly was none of its business.

A letter from Mrs. Evelyn Mackenzie suggested that the city place a clause in its building regulations compelling apartment builders to set aside low-rental suites for senior citizens in each apartment building erected.

Mrs. Mackenzie further suggested that when a high-rise apartment was built the owners should be forced to set aside one complete floor for senior citizens.

"This is a matter of private concern," said Mayor A. W. Toone. "We can't legislate this sort of thing."

Cyclist Hurt In Collision With Car

An 11-year-old cyclist received minor head injuries Wednesday afternoon in a traffic mishap at Parker and Fenn Streets.

Injured was Russell Garth Lloyd, of 5391 Fowler. He was later treated and released from hospital.

Police said he was in collision with a car driven by Mrs. Florence E. Mutrie, 960 Doumac.

Malta Gov't Returned

Spending Authority Ends Tonight

The provincial government runs out of its current spending authority at midnight tonight.

The deadline faces the legislature with two possibilities—complete the estimates or pass an interim supply motion.

The B.C. government has not had to ask for interim supply since the 1953 fiscal year was broken up by a run-off election.

Interim supply would authorize the government to meet its bills, including civil service salaries, falling due from April 1, the start of the new fiscal year, if the 1966-67 budget estimates are not fully approved in time.

The MLAs ran through two departmental estimates—Mines and Municipal Affairs totalling more than $7.2 million—in about five hours Wednesday.

But they bogged down on Provincial Secretary Wesley Black's estimates and, after 2½ hours, it was withdrawn shortly after midnight this morning by house leader Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

"I would invite the house to finish the estimates before midnight (tonight), if that were possible, to avoid any unnecessary legislation," said Mr. Bonner.

"You want the whole thing wound up tomorrow night, is that what you are saying?" asked Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

Mr. Bonner did not answer, but several opposition members were heard asking "what about private members' day?"

They were referring to 21 bills and 32 resolutions put on the order paper by opposition members. All have to be disposed of before prorogation.

Besides finishing the provincial secretary's estimates, the legislature still had the usually controversial social welfare budget and public works estimates facing it at the start of today's sitting.

Youth Admits Wrestling With Police

A 19-year-old youth who vigorously protested his friend's arrest pleaded guilty in central court today to obstructing a police officer.

Denis Wayne Bonville, Hudson Bay, Sask., was remanded in custody to April 7 for sentence.

His companion, meanwhile, forfeited $15 bail on an intoxication charge.

Const. Terry Toone testified he checked the two men Wednesday night at Douglas and Yates.

When he arrested the other youth for intoxication, Bonville grabbed him around the neck and pulled him to the sidewalk, the constable said.

Const. Toone added Bonville tried to break away by pushing a lighted cigarette in his face while he was waiting for assistance.
